COOLIDGE IS VICTORIOUS

South Dakotans Make Choice

President Given Nomination by Vote of Nearly Two to One Over Johnson

Senator Capper Named for Second Place; Democrats for McAdoo

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PIERRE (S. D.) Dec. 4.—President Calvin Coolidge tonight was given the majority nomination for the Presidential primary by the South Dakota proposal convention, defeating over Senator Hiram Johnson of California by a vote of 59,- to 37,340.

Later, on a riding vote, the indorsement was made unanimous for Coolidge. Coolidge and Johnson were the only names before the convention.

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas was unanimously indorsed for Vice-President.

RESULT BRINGS CHEERS

A tumult of applause and prolonged cheering greeted the announcement of the vote on the presidential poll.

On the roll call by delegates each ballot represented one-third of the Republican vote in each county. Senator Johnson was first placed in nomination by A. Sherrod of Union county. Mr. Sherrod's remarks were few, after calling the convention's attention to "that great man of the West, Hiram W. Johnson."

COOLIDGE LAUDED

President Coolidge was characterized as "the farmer boy who has done everything in his power to help the farmer, largely the result of his practical experience in that line," by R. H. Hired of Spink county, submitting the President's name. "This sunshine State, but four years ago first named President Coolidge as its vice-presidential candidate, should show its appreciation for, and confidence in, the statesmen by indorsing him as our standard-bearer in 1924."

Senator Capper was likened to President Coolidge as a "big brother of the farmers, who should make an excellent running mate for our esteemed executive."

Senator Capper's name was seconded by Elmer Anderson of Clark county.

STERLING DEFEATED

Gov. William M. McMaster won the majority Senatorial indorsement by a vote of 40,207 against 17,337 for Senator Thomas Sterling, incumbent.

Prior to the vote, the Republican convention had approved a platform plank indorsing Gov. McMaster's State administration and approving his gasoline-price cut.

The McMaster indorsement after the Coolidge selection came as a

PARIS EASES RUHR GRIP

Army Ordered to Relax Pressure

Military Forces to Leave Towns and Cities as Resistance Ends

Exchange Rates Rise When New Policy is Announced by Quai d'Orsay

BY HENRY WALES
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Dec. 4.—France today began relaxing its iron grip on the Ruhr. Considering the passive resistance practically ended, Premier Poincare, complying with his promise has ordered the military occupation regime to revert as soon as possible to the invisible character it had when the zone was occupied last January.

Quai d'Orsay announced modification of the occupation and amelioration of the administration in the Ruhr by the French authorities at noon today. Exchange rates favoring France reacted sharply on the news which is considered the most conciliatory action by the French government this year.

PARDON FOR GERMANS

Besides withdrawing their military forces from cities and towns now occupied to points outside, the French announce a wholesale series of pardons for Germans arrested for sabotage or for refusal to comply with military orders and the annulling of thousands of expulsions of Ruhr citizens for refusal to co-operate with the forces of occupation.

Requisitioned and commandeered buildings occupied in cities and towns by French and Belgians for headquarters, billets and other military purposes will be vacated, and administration and municipal organs and services taken over by the French will be handed back to the properly constituted German authorities.

By the 10th inst. when the German-Franco-Belgian agreement regarding the operation of Ruhr and Rhineland railways becomes operative, it is expected that all lines of transportation will be given back to the German railway men and officials and that all French soldiers with bayonets will be withdrawn from stations, switches, signal towers and other points along the system of communications. German green police will gradually replace poilus and Belgian soldiers in keeping order and the Burgomasters will be made responsible for conditions.

CURFEW IS CANCELED

The 9 o'clock curfew which has been forced on communities in the Ruhr for many months was officially canceled today, leaving the inhabitants free to pursue their normal activities regardless of the hour.

A withdrawal of a portion of the

DEAD MAN FOOLS HIS MOURNERS

Driver "Killed" by Train Comes to Life as Hearse Awaits Body

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Dec. 4.—An undertaker's car and a Coroner waited at the Santa Fe Railroad station here today to care for the body of a man killed by the train at Alhambra, three miles northwest.

But when Phoenix was reached, the corpse threw off the canvas that covered him and rose from the floor of the baggage car. He was taken to a hospital, where it was decided there was nothing the matter with him but bruises and shock.

He is J. G. Derdan, employed as driver by a Phoenix fuel dealer. Derdan's truck, loaded with wood, was struck by the engine and smashed, its pieces flying fifty feet into the Grand Canal, and Derden turned several flipflops in the air and landed on the engine pilot.

From a near-by farmhouse, a message was telephoned to the Coroner and an undertaker, and the train proceeded on its supposedly sad journey, after Derdan had been lifted tenderly into it. Those who carried him were certain every bone was broken.

Elmer Lanan, engineer of the train, told the Coroner that Derdan was making a frantic effort to beat the train to the crossing when he was struck.

INDEMNITY CLAIMS OF WAR FIXED

Many Awards Made by Mixed Commission; Total Reaches Millions

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Two awards aggregating $1,800,000 in favor of the United Shoe Machinery Corporation were announced late today by the German-American Mixed Claims Commission. Interest of 5 per cent was allowed on a claim of $1,660,000 as of August 1, 1918, and a like rate was granted for a claim of $140,000 dating from September 1 of that year.

The Security Eyelet Company was awarded $700,000 with interest from March 1, 1918, and the Roessler & Hasslacher Chemical Company was allowed a claim of $400,000 with interest from January 1, 1917.

The commission agreed on fourteen awards totaling $2,950,240 growing out of claims of American firms and individuals against the German government for losses suffered during the war. In each case the American Commissioner, Chandler P. Anderson, and the German Ambassador, Wilhelm Kiesselbach, were in agreement, as were the American and German agents in their statements of facts bearing upon each claim.

Other awards were: William V. Kelly, et al., $24,100; Zoe Allard, $6000; Samuel Weiss, $5000; Feos Gas Engine Company, $4724.75; Sterling Varnish Company, $4030.38; Henry Mirski, $1250; Harry Farlow, $1000; Manuel and Louis E. Mandel, operating as Chicago Ferrotype Company, $1000; American Pulley Company, $896.90, and Thomas G. Barman, $250.

AJAX EX-OFFICIAL ACCUSED

Theft of 25,000 Shares of Stock and Forgery are Charged in Indictments

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—William J. Jackson, former secretary of the Ajax Rubber Company, was indicted late today charged with the theft of 25,000 shares of stock in the company, valued at $175,000. Police of San Antonio, Tex., have been asked to arrest him.

Theft of the stock, for which other indictments also are being sought, was discovered today when 5000 shares, bearing the forged signatures of two company officials, were presented for transfer to a Wall street firm.

SENT TO WALL STREET

The indictment charges that Jackson sent the 5000 shares from San Antonio to the officers of Simmons & Co., brokers, to negotiate a loan.

Jackson was secretary of the company until last August when he resigned because of friction with other officials. It was charged that soon after he left the company it was learned that a book of shares of the company had been stolen, but the theft was not made public until today.

When Simmons & Co., received the shares from San Antonio they took them to the Central Union Trust Company, the transfer agent. There it was discovered that the signature "E. W. Berry" on behalf of the transfer agent, apparently was a forgery. An investigation developed that while no certificates of stock of the Ajax Rubber Company, which had been regularly registered, contained numbers above 14,000, the lowest number of the stock certificates sent from San Antonio was 16,314. Officers of the company noticed that not only the signature of the transfer agent but also signatures of officers of the company were forgeries.

OTHER SHARES STOLEN

What has become of the other 20,000 shares that were stolen is not known, but it is believed some of them may have been deposited with other banks as collateral for loans.

Theft of the stock was declared to be the first operation of any magnitude against the financial district, aside from bucketshop activities, since last summer's sensational attempt to flood the market with fake buying orders for several well-known stocks. This effort caused a considerable flurry among stocks affected.

MRS. HALL HELD INNOCENT

Famed Polish Psycho-Graphologist Says Widow or Mills Not Guilty in Double Slaying

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1923, U. S. and Canada, by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—After studying a photograph of Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall and the handwriting of James Mills, whose wife's body was found beside that of Mrs. Hall's husband, near New Brunswick, N. J., in September, 1922, Rafael Schermann, Polish psychographologist, declared with emphasis yesterday that neither Mrs. Hall or Mills had guilty knowledge of the double murder.

Mr. Scherman, whose peculiar ability or gift, as he calls it, has been demonstrated on a number of occasions since his arrival in this country, gave a private reading yesterday in both the Hall and Joseph Bowne Elwell murder cases by arrangement with the North American Newspaper Alliance and The New York World.

VIOLENT DEATH SEEN

He saw, for the first time, he said, a photograph of Elwell and deduced therefrom that the man "would meet a violent death at the hands of a subnormal person."

When shown a photograph of Mrs. Hall, whose husband was rector of an Episcopal church in New Brunswick and was asserted to have had a love affair with Mrs. Mills, a member of his choir, Mr. Schermann studied the picture about thirty seconds then said quickly:

"She didn't do it. She is resolute and has the temper of a tigress. She and her husband had many quarrels about other women. They had been quarreling for years.

"In a way this wife was neglected by her husband and it made her both angry and unhappy. She has today the blood of a girl of 21 years of age, but she neither killed her husband, or had any guilty knowledge of his death."

With a sample of Mr. Mills's handwriting by him, Mr. Schermann said:

"He knows nothing of the crime, that is, has no guilty knowledge but he was under a terrible strain when he wrote this (it was written eighteen days after the bodies were found and doubtful if he could establish an alibi because appearances were against him.) If he had been guilty it would have shown in his writing. He was in poor physical condition but innocent."

In both the Hall and Elwell cases Mr. Schermann deduced from photographs and handwriting much that cannot be published but from which it is hoped a lead will be found that will develop a solution of the crimes. He had previously seen Elwell's handwriting but never his picture, he said.

STUDIES PICTURE

Yesterday he was furnished with photographs only and was not given the name. After a study of the picture he said:

"This man is conceited. His chief concern is his personal appearance. He is a gambler and has equally bad or worse habits. He curses himself for getting into a bad way of living and decides to change his habits, but is unable to do so. His friends drag him back. He gets far too little sleep and is constantly seeking new intimates—men and women. With him it is always women, women, women. He spends his whole income on clothes, women and on men. He seeks others who have certain of his habits and who recognize him at once as one of his own kind.

"He has toyed with the idea of suicide, but really fears a violent death. I see for him a tragedy and within two years after this photograph was taken. He will be murdered—yes, killed by a perverted man, I think. He drinks and admits all sorts of persons to his apartments."

CAMPAIGN IN HOT FINISH

Fight in England Reaches Climax

Tornado of Statements and Speeches Marks Hectic Battle for Votes

Lloyd George and Churchill in Remarkable Display of Endurance

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Dec. 4.—With only one more day available for campaigning, today reached a climax of intensity. There was a perfect tornado of speeches, manifestoes, statements and counter-statements, accusations and counter-accusations on all points calculated to influence the voters on Thursday.

The principal figures in the campaign hurried from constituency to constituency, making last-hour orations and appeals in behalf of their respective candidates.

Most remarkable in this test of physical endurance are Lloyd George and Winston Churchill and the most striking exception is Herbert Asquith, who, having a stiff contest to meet, has confined his efforts to his own constituency, Paisley.

The campaign has been accompanied by the usual personalities, but with the exception of the case of Mr. Churchill, who displays most pronounced antagonism toward the Labor party and whose meetings therefore have been most disturbed by Labor interruptors, the campaign on the whole has been conducted fairly and orderly.

DISCLAIM ATTACKS

The central Conservative office today disclaimed the election placards representing Mr. Lloyd George as a "rain talker," to which he made reference in vigorous terms on Saturday.

According to some reports, the Conservatives are showing less confidence in the outcome of the balloting Thursday. This may possibly be due to the puzzling attitude of some of the leading London papers, which usually support the Conservatives, but on this occasion are very ambiguous in their election advice and one having an enormous circulation throughout the country even frankly advises the Conservatives to vote Liberal to avoid a protectionist policy.

Premier Baldwin has returned to his own constituency, where he will remain until the end of the elections. He made a speech at Malvern tonight and will tour other towns in the neighborhood tomorrow addressing local meetings. He has issued from Downing street his final manifesto, appealing to the electors of the whole country to support his policy. This document is a detailed restatement of his arguments and a reply to the many criticisms from the opposing camps.

DEFENDS PROPOSALS

The Prime Minister's main contention is that his policy will not increase the price of commodities, and that, should it produce rings and trusts to raise prices, the government will know how to deal with this evil also.

After exciting experiences in London, Mr. Churchill returned to his own constituency in Leicester today, where he addressed eight meetings, the principal one of business men to whom he delivered a strong attack on the policy of a capital levy. He argued that any saving to the National Exchequer thereby effected would be offset by the fall exchange in America, due to a financial panic.

Mrs. Churchill is helping her husband's campaign by addressing numerous meetings.

Mr. Lloyd George is continuing his campaign in Carnavon, where he again had a great reception.

Premier Baldwin's Socialist son, Oliver, is ill and has been obliged to desist from further campaigning in behalf of the Labor party. Lady Astor and her Labor party opponent, Capt. Brennan, employed the day in an extensive cruise around the Plymouth constituency carrying their programs personally into the homes of the electors and devoting themselves especially to attempts to influence the women voters in their support.

RADICALS AGREE TO END HOUSE DEADLOCK TODAY

Way Paved for Speaker's Election at Conference of Longworth and Insurgent Leaders

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The two-day deadlock in organization of the House of Representatives was broken tonight by a peace agreement between the regular Republicans and the La Follette insurgents. It was agreed that the House shall be organized tomorrow beginning with the election of Representative Gillett, Republican, Massachusetts, to the Speakership.

With the House organized Congress will notify the President that it is ready to receive any communication he desires to make and Mr. Coolidge will deliver his message in person before a joint session of the two houses on Thursday.

The peace treaty was signed at a conference in which Representative Longworth, Republican, Ohio, majority leader of the House, represented the regular Republicans and Representatives Nelson, Republican, Wisconsin; Woodruff, Republican, Michigan, and La Guardia, Republican, New York, represented the little band of insurgents.

BASIS OF COMPROMISE

The insurgent bloc agreed to vote for the election of Speaker Gillette tomorrow as the result of an understanding reached with Mr. Longworth that within thirty days the Rules Committee shall report to the House a revision of the rules providing for greater liberty of bringing legislation of the body and that there shall be full opportunity to present amendments to the revised rules, to debate and vote upon the committee report and unrestricted privilege to recommit the proposed rules to the Rules Committee.

Whether the handful of insurgents won anything of importance by its insurrection remains to be seen. They forced the regulars to treat with them, though the regulars had vowed they would not, and forced the regulars to promise to submit a liberalization of the rules.

Whether the rules will be revised to suit the insurgents will depend on their ability to line up other Republicans and Democrats for their demands. They will have considerable support but that they will achieve a majority for changes in the rules without compromising is problematical.

What the deadlock really demonstrated was that the insurgents bloc can under such circumstances exercise a balance of power and put over legislation or defeat legislation it supported solidly by the Democrats.

Four more roll calls today failed to break the deadlock and the leaders were compelled to abandon their plans for a joint session to hear the Executive message tomorrow.

LINES HOLD FAST

All through the balloting today, the insurgent lines stood fast. The Democrats likewise showed no signs of yielding. On the first ballot, Speaker Gillett and Representative Garrett stood tied while Representative Cooper, Republican, Wisconsin, received seventeen votes and Representative Madden, Republican, Illinois, although not a candidate, received five votes. Thereafter, Garrett led Gillett. The vote on the second ballot of the day stood: Gillett, 195; Garrett, 197; Cooper, 17 and Madden 5. On the third ballot the vote was: Gillett, 196; Garrett, 198; Cooper, 17 and Madden, 5. The final vote of the day, or the eighth since the voting began, stood: Gillett, 197; Garrett, 198; Cooper, 17 and Madden, 5.

After these four ballots had disclosed the futility of further voting, leaders decided upon a truce. All retired to their respective of-

OIL OUSTING DESCRIBED

Marine Tells of Dome War

Says President Had Opposed Force as an Official Was Friendly

"Salt Creek Naval District" Formed by Captain to Bluff Drillers

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Incidents which led to the creation in the hills of Wyoming, of the "naval district of Salt Creek," were related today by George H. Shuler, State Treasurer of New York, to the Senate Public Lands Committee, in its inquiry of the leasing of naval oil reserves.

As a captain in the Marine Corps, Mr. Shuler commanded a detachment of four men which was sent in July, 1922, to oust alleged trespassers from the oil property. His detail, he said, followed conferences with Maj.-Gen. Lejeune, commandant of the corps, who told him "a very delicate job" was in prospect by Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, to whom he was sent by the general.

"The Secretary told me that an oil company which had no right on the property was drilling," he said, "and that it must be stopped. He said he had talked to the President who, at first, had opposed using force, saying an official of the oil company concerned was a friend of his, and a contributor to the campaign fund. Mr. Fall said he expressed his opinion of the official mentioned, and the President replied 'he was all of that, I suppose, when he sent in his check,' but finally agreed to the plan."

DRILLERS BLUFFED

Mr. Shuler said the dispossession of the drillers had been accomplished without serious opposition, although the man in charge warned him that orders to keep everyone off the enclosed area in which the well was going down would be enforced.

"I told him my orders superseded his," the witness said, "and in order to give some force to the notices I posted, I assumed the title of 'commandant, Salt Creek naval district.'" Ten minutes after the arrival of the detchment, he declared, operations had ceased and he wired Washington that his orders had been carried out.

Much of the day's session was occupied with consideration of additions made in 1922 to the stock of Mr. Fall's ranch at Three Rivers, N. M. Harry F. Sinclair, holder of the lease on the reserve No. 3, testified he had sold a number of registered hogs and cattle

PLOT WORLD COURT DEATH

Senate Irreconcilables Plan to Stack Committee on Foreign Relations Against Proposal

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The Republican Committee on Committees of the Senate is seeking to organize the new Foreign Relations Committee with a view to throttling the World Court proposal. Today it became known that it favors the election of Senator Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Even though Shipstead's election would not deprive some regular Republican of one of the two places on the committee of which Senator Lodge is chairman, his outspoken antagonism to American adherence to the "League of Nations world court" savored so much of "committee stacking" that a row was regarded as inevitable.

SHIPSTEAD STRONG FOE

According to administration leaders in the Senate who are opposed to the world court and ready to wage battle against its approval with the Hughes reservations, Senator Shipstead "assays not less than 104 per cent opposition." The committee already is strongly irreconcilable.

Among those mentioned as likely to cause the most fuss over the Shipstead selection is Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey. Mr. Edge has been notified that he could not expect a place on the foreign relations committee. He made a strong bid for one.

THUMBS DOWN ON EDGE

A Republican committee on committees, dominated by Messrs. Lodge, Watson, Curtis, Moses and Brandegee — irreconcilables, all against the world court—recalled that Mr. Edge was a "mild reservationist" in the League of Nations fight. He thought the Treaty of Versailles should have been ratified, for business reasons. The powers turned thumbs down on him.

Democratic leaders who have been snickering at Republican discomfiture over organization problems in both houses, discovered today that all was not to be plain sailing for them when it became known that Senator James Reed, Democrat, Missouri, has asserted that he would have to have one of the four Democratic places on the Foreign Relations Committee or "know the reason why."

REED HAS PREFERENCE

Mr. Reed ranks seventh in the matter of seniority among Democrats in the Senate. He has a prior right to committee preference. With the possible exception of Owen of Oklahoma, none of those ranking him in length of service has ambition for appointment to the Foreign Relations Committee. He demands the place. Woodrow Wilson's lieutenants in the Senate, headed by Mr. Glass of Virginia, are determined he shall not have it. They have been stewing over the prospect all summer.

TONY STILL SHINES SHOES AS LIFE FLUTTERS PAST

Aged Italian Who Has Spent Many Years With Brushes Failure or Success, as You See

BY RAYMOND G. CARROLL
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A city like New York at the gate of a mighty nation is remorsely, perpetually growing; the streets grow narrower and deeper, becoming mere ravines as the buildings pile story upon story.

Manhattan Island is the "inner city" of the metropolis, and into this small inclosure flows not only much of the political, financial and social watersheds of the country, but the bulk of the immigrants from foreign shores, sending the buildings higher and higher until they are so full they seem to gush forth at their tops.

TIME FOR REFLECTION

Seated today on the leather-covered, comfortable shoe-shine bench in the tiny house built for it against the old McAleenan pawn shop, Sixth avenue and Thirty-fifth street, alternately watching the progress of the flying hands of the three bootblacks and the matinee crowds entering the old Garrick Theater, we reflected upon all that is slap, all that is the life of a nation, filtering in and amassing, drop by drop, year after year.

Like a warning from the portico of the theater and from yellow wooden slabs nailed up on each side of the entrance blazed forth in eye-arresting black letters the words:

"The Failures," the title of the play about to commence within.

"The Italians are a wonderful people—they don't mind hard work," remarked a retired broker, also on the shoe-shine bench, to his friend, a veteran guest from the near-by Collingwood Hotel, the third customer.

"You mean me," spoke up the eldest of the bootblacks, uplifting a smiling face which, under a fireman's dark-blue cap, gave a clew to the owner's age from the gray-streaked mustache. "I began as a bootblack in New York City thirty-seven years ago. I am still a bootblack."

SONS ARE VETERANS

Pointing at one of the other bootblacks he added: "My eldest son Joseph, there, served with the American Ambulance Section 562, attached to the French army in the big war, and was transferred to the American Army. His brother William was in our Navy laying mines in the North Sea. One of my daughters has a husband who was with the First Pioneer Infantry with the Second Division, and once he was gassed and once he was hit by a piece of shell."

The broker spoke up: "Yes, Tony, and you have been shining my shoes for fifteen years at this very stand. Ever since you started here. Guess you know everybody around Herald Square."

"All of their faces and many by name," replied the bootblack. "I have seen little boys playing in this street when it was a double row of fine brownstone fronts, private residences. I watched them grow up, and now most of them have little boys of their own. Every corner I look at is a new building to me. This very street is now business, all stores."

TONY'S LIFE STORY

Here was a gripping tale of the metropolis at our very feet, and we had nearly missed it. It is a story of self-sacrifice and genuine nobility—quite the complete answer from life to the sordid play by a Frenchman being given less than 300 feet away.

Antonio Santoro was born in a little Italian town near Naples in 1864. When 20 years of age he volunteered to his orphaned four brothers and one sister that he would use the family nest egg and strike out for America and, as fast as he could earn their passage money, he would send for them. He had a sweetheart, too, and he whispered to her that he would get her first of all to the new home he was going to carve out in the magic land of America.

On arrival at old Castle Garden he went the way of all young Italians—to work at building railroads. He was lucky in getting his "dollar a day" in New Jersey, near the big city. Within six months he had saved enough to pay for a steerage ticket for his sweetheart Rose—just one of the many thousands of such cases; the long, fearsome journey for the bride-to-be, the gladsome meeting at the landing and the immediate marriage after arrival.

TURNS TO BRUSHES

He decided that he could do better at shoe shining than railroad work, and in 1886 he got a job as a bootblack in the basement of a building at the southwest corner of Sixth avenue and Forty-second street. He worked alongside the famous Tony Astor, the bootblack who opened the first chain of shoe-shine stands in New York, owned a race horse that won many times, and who is now a rich California wine grower.

With the savings from shining the shoes of noted men like John L. Sullivan, champion prize fighter, Jim Wakeley, sporting character, and Pat Sheedy, international gambler, Antonio sent the passage money that brought his eldest brother from Italy.

Then he branched out for himself with a shoe-shine chair with an umbrella covering in front of a saloon at Tenth avenue and Forty-second street. Another brother was sent for. Antonio moved his place of business to a saloon at Forty-second street and Seventh avenue, upon which since have been built in succession two theaters—Hammerstein's Victoria and the present Rialto. While there he saved enough to bring out of Italy his two remaining brothers and the sister.

Antonio took them all with him while they obtained jobs of their own. And they all married. As an evidence of the rapidity in which population increases in some quarters, Antonio today has eight grandchildren and forty-six grandnephews and grandnieces.

PRICE NOW DOUBLE

In the early days of shoe shining the charge was 5 cents, and as the most a booth could handle is sixty customers a day, the yield per chair was about $3. At 10 cents it is now double that. Of course this does not take into account the tips, and some of the old-time customers were noted for their generosity.

For a time Antonio had two chairs outside Trainor's saloon, the sporting headquarters at Sixth avenue and Thirty-third street, now graced by a department store. Again, he was for five years outside the Casino Theater's bar. Here he looked after the shoes of such great actors and comedians as Dan Daly, Pete Dailey, Richard Mansfield, Maurice Barrymore, father of all the present Barrymores.

The late James Gordon Bennett, owner of the Herald, was a patron. Antonio's son, Joseph, and his nephew, William, who now work with him at the Thirty-fifth-street stand, both sold newspapers then. Thrice Antonio tried to get out of the shie shining for a few years as a day laborer with the street-cleaning department; porter in charge of the wine cellar under Angel's chop house, and last as custodian of the McAleenan pawnshop.

TONY COMES BACK

But Antonio always came back to shoe shining and he is going to stick to it now. He has devised a perfect die for coloring tan shoes into black shoes, and there are other arts gained by experience that he possesses in the handling of boots. When he started there were only two kinds of leather used, French calf and patent leather, and the former was difficult to shine. Tan shoes and vici kids came as a great blessing, he says, but now he is being bothered considerably by the new Scotch grain shoes, which take plenty of elbow grease to bring a luster. Such are the trials of bootblacking.

But think of it—Antonio has seen New York renew itself again and again, buildings rise and buildings fall, while he shined on happy and contented. He remembered when a glass of beer sold for 3 cents, and there were horse cars on Broadway. He now lives with his wife in a two-family house he owns in Newark, N. J., and every morning he is up at 6 o'clock so that he can get over to his stand in time to send this first customers to business with the elastic steps that come from bright-shined shoes.

Perhaps many would call Antonio one of "the failures," but we think—well—what do you think?

from his Rancocas farm in New Jersey to Mr. Fall and had received a check for $110[illegible] from the latter's partner in payment. Freight charges amounting to between $800 and $900 were paid by him, the witness said.

Willard Harris, who sold an adjoining farm to Mr. Fall in November 1921, for $91,500, told the committee he thought the price small for the place. During a nine-year residence, he said, his family had suffered only one bad year and the ranch was profitable when taken over by the Secretary.

Replying to questions by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, Harris said he had acted as agent for Mr. Fall in the purchase of additional lands aggregating 6000 acres and costing $33,000. Referring to the sale of his own property, he said the initial payment of $10,000 was made in cash brought to El Paso by Mr. Fall in a small box. The size of this payment had not been agreed upon prior to the meeting to sign the contract, he said, and he did not know how much money was in the box.

John Henry Lutz, former sheepman of New Mexico, described the adversities, which, he said, had beset stockmen of that State during the past four years. He estimated that nine-tenths of those engaged in the stock-raising business in New Mexico had gone "broke" in that period.

Director H. Foster Bain of the United States Bureau of Mines, analyzed the Sinclair lease of the Montana oil reserve for the committee and gave latest statistics as to the results of that agreement. To October 31, 1923, he said, the reserve had produced 922,655 barrels of oil, upon which the royalty averaged 16⅓ per cent. He estimated the government had received $1,450,000 more for its oil under the lease than if it had been disposed of at the prices which prevailed in the field.

John M. Browning, the noted firearms inventor, and father of John Browning, Jr., was not called to the witness stand.

The State will rest its case tomorrow, it was announced.

BILLS FILED FOR ACTION IN HOUSE

Organization Delay Fails to Stop Introduction

Amendments Urged for Sale of Beer, Light Wine

Reapportionment Measures Also Received

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Bills continued to flow into the House legislative hopper today, although they cannot be introduced and printed until organization is completed.

Most of the more than 600 which had been listed tonight were measures which had failed of action last session, and about half were private in nature.

Five bills dealing with proposed new immigration laws on amendments were filed.

Chairman Johnson, of the Immigration Committee, put in his bill for restriction of immigration to 2 per cent of the various nationals in the United States in 1890, while Representative Sabath, Democrat, Illinois, proposed a restriction of immigrants on a basis of 2 per cent of the nationals here in 1920. Representative Perlman, Republican, New York, asked repeal of the immigration law now in effect.

Amendments to the Volstead Act were proposed in bills filed by Representatives Hill, Republican, Maryland; Doyle, Democrat, Illinois, and Sabath, Democrat, Illinois. Mr. Hill advocated establishment of Federal local option districts, comprising Congressional districts, with the right to vote at each Congressional election for light wine and beer.

Mr. Doyle asked the right of State referendum votes on light wine and beer.

Mr. Sabath sought amendment of the law to permit sale and manufacture of light wine and beer.

Bills proposing reapportionment of the House membership on the basis of the 1920 census and limiting the total to 435, the present membership, were filed by Representatives Fairfield, Republican, Indiana; Barbour, Republican, California, and Black, Democrat, Texas. Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, asked reapportionment reducing the total to 304 members.

TRUCE SUGGESTED

Representative Longworth was the first to get his statement to the newspaper men. Mr. Longworth suggested the thirty-day armistice for consideration of amendment to the rules by the Rules Committee which was agreed on tonight. He promised that amendments would be given careful consideration and that the committee's report would be ready before the end of the month.

"The report of the committee will be subject to debate and amendment and the House will have complete opportunity to adopt such rules as the majority may desire," said Mr. Longworth. "To attempt to amend the rules from the floor of the House without consideration by a committee would probably result in confusion worse confounded. The rules of the House have been built upon the experience of a hundred years, and their amendment, however desirable it might seem, ought to be undertaken only after careful consideration."

Mr. Garret indicated the willingness of the Democrats to go along with the insurgents in certain respects concerning liberalization of the rules.

"When the time comes for the consideration of the rules by which the House is to be governed during this Congress," Mr. Garrett said, "we shall have some definite concrete proposals to offer by way of amendment to the present rules.

"Among these will be a proposal to require resolutions that are adopted by the Committee on Rules to be promptly presented to the House for consideration and prevent their being being pocketed by a chairman who may happen to be unfriendly to the action, and secondly, to repeal those provisions of the rules under which there is what we regard as an unreasonable restriction upon amendments that may be offered to revenue bills.

WOULD BAR STRANGLING

"Another will be a proposition under which it will be rendered possible for a majority of the House under such limitations and restrictions as will not interfere with orderly procedure to secure action upon a measure that is being pigeon-holed in committee against the wishes of a majority.

"These are all far-reaching and fundamental reforms for which I feel sure Democrats will stand with practical unanimity. We are unified and ready to take up the country's business whenever the majority party can reach the point where functioning is possible.

"We have thrown no obstacles in the way, but of course no one expects that we shall taint our own party integrity to aid in curing an evil for which we are in no way responsible."

While the House continued its futile balloting the Senate also was unable to do business, meeting and adjourning in three minutes without even a roll call.

Senate radicals had a conference late today but did not make known what transpired. It is understood that the organization fight in the Senate will be delayed until after President Coolidge's message has been delivered and committee assignments are announced.

DRY LAW MAY SHUT GAY CAFE

Palais Royal is Object of Drive in Bay City

Senator Shortridge's Son Victim of Attack

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—Convinced that the Palais Royal Cafe, raided early this morning by prohibition agents, is a "common nuisance" under the provisions of the Volstead Act, Federal Prohibition Director Samuel F. Rutter will confer with U. S. Atty. John T. Williams on the advisability of instituting abatement proceedings against the O'Farrell-street cafe.

"I believe my agents have sufficient evidence in hand to make out a case of 'continuity of offense' against the Palais Royal management," Rutter said today, "and I will lay the evidence before U. S. Atty. Williams tomorrow with a view to bringing abatement proceedings against the cafe.

RUM ON TABLES

"In this particular case the Palais Royal, in my judgment, is guilty of violation of the Volstead Act, even after having received formal notice from my office warning the management of violation. On the night of August 27, A. E. Guy, acting legal adviser to me, visited the Palais Royal. The next day Guy reported to me that the night before he noted the presence of nine intoxicated young people, two of whom were girls. He also saw three bottles of liquor on tables near him.

"On August 29, Guy, with my approval, mailed a letter of warning to the Palais Royal management.

ATTACK SHORTRIDGE

Rutter denied the raid on the Palais Royal was made because of an attack on Samuel M. Shortridge, Jr., son of United States Senator Shortridge, and former legal adviser to Rutter.

"As I have learned, Shortridge was attacked on the night of November 27," Rutter said, "and sustained a severe injury to one of his eyes. Shortridge told my agents he was attacked by employees of the cafe after an argument as to what he could or could not do toward blocking abatement proceedings against the Plantation Cafe in Los Angeles, which cafe is owned by the owners of the Palais Royal. Shortridge told my agents he was donning his overcoat, preparatory to leaving the cafe, when set upon and severely beaten. There was no connection between the beating of Shortridge and the raid early this morning."

Shortridge is at the St. Francis Hospital. No visitors were allowed to see him today on orders from his physician.

BRYAN AND HIS DOUBLE IN CAPITOL

Much Blinking of Eyes in Congress When Two Make Appearance

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—William Jennings Bryan and his double were at the Capitol yesterday and caused much blinking of eyes by the gallery throngs and members of Congress. First came along the double of the commoner. He dressed like Bryan, even to the upturned black curls just between the ears and above the collar.

The Bryan double was Representative Edgar Howard of Nebraska, a new member. He comes from the district once represented by Mr. Bryan and away back in the early '90s he was private secretary to Representative Bryan.

Mr. Howard has been a Bryanite for more than thirty years and regards Mr. Bryan as one of the greatest men America has produced.

Irene Castle on Way to Far East With New Mate

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Dec. 4.—Mrs. Frederick McLaughlin, formerly Irene Castle, famed as a dancer, and Maj. Frederick McLaughlin of Chicago, to whom she was wedded Wednesday, left here today in the bridal suite of the Admiral Oriental liner President Grant for a honeymoon in the Far East.

The McLaughlins went to a motion-picture theater last night. Today the Major, who figures among Chicagoans as the secretary-treasurer of a coffee brokerage concern, was out on the street early. He bought a large bunch of gardenias which the bride carried when she glided onto the ship, and a big lot of candy.

In the party were two maids for Mrs. McLaughlin and a valet for the Major. Another of the travelers was a Belgian poodle named Joy, but he went aboard in Mrs. McLaughlin's arms.

CLOSE CENTRAL SCHOOL OFFICE

Business Affairs of Nine in State Concerned

Veto of Maintenance Item in Budget Cause

Superintendent Wood Critic of Governor

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 4.—The central business office of the division of normal and special schools of the State Department of Education which has been in operation since October, 1921, was ordered discontinued today by Will C. Wood, Superintendent of Public Instruction and Director of Education. All the work of the office, including the keeping of accounts and all other business details, was turned back to the ten institutions included in the division.

Superintendent Wood will continue to exercise the power to determine policies in the institutions concerned, he stated.

The institutions concerned are the seven teachers' colleges, the California Polytechnic School at San Luis Obispo, and the Schools for the Deaf and the Blind at Berkeley.

ACTION EXPLAINED

Discontinuance of the office, according to Wood, was necessitated through a veto by Gov. Richardson of an item in the budget bill allocating funds for the maintenance of the division. The veto recently was sustained by the State Supreme Court which last week refused to grant a rehearing of the case.

In announcing the new arrangement, Superintendent Woods said:

"It is a matter of great regret to me that the central business office of the division of normal and special schools has been destroyed by the Governor's action. During the first sixteen months of its existence the office saved to the State over $50,000 through careful management, according to the statement of the old Board of Control. Moreover, all of the institutions concerned declare unequivocably that never in the history of the institutions have their affairs been so efficiently managed. The cost of the business office has been less than $10,000 a year, while the savings have been several times that amount. The destruction has taken place not in the interest of either economy or efficiency but from other motives which have actuated the present administration on educational matters.

GOVERNOR BLAMED

"The business affairs of the division cannot be handled by using the funds of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. The office of Director of Education is a separate office and the use of funds appropriated for the superintendent's office for management of the several institutions would constitute misappropriation. Moreover, the funds of the superintendent's office are hardly adequate for the performance of necessary functions. The decentralization of the work will necessitate the employment of additional help in the several institutions and will cost considerably more than the arrangement that has heretofore prevailed. The loss of efficiency and the lack of economy in the new arrangement rest squarely upon the shoulders of Gov. Richardson."

a great surprise to political observers. McMaster, in declaring for the Senatorial race had publicly indorsed the candidacy of Hiram Johnson for the Presidency and was generally regarded as the leader of the Johnson forces in the convention. While Senator Sterling had never declared his Presidential choice, he was in all quarters regarded as a Coolidge supporter.

McADOO APPROVED

A platform framed by supporters of William G. McAdoo was unanimously approved today by the Democrats of the State.

Following the rout of the Ford Democrats by a vote of 27,434 to 11,661 on attempted amalgamation of the Democrats and Farmer-Labor conventions, the Democrats built the platform with a unanimous vote on every declaration.

"Reduce taxes, restore agricultural prosperity, preserve world peace," was approved as the summary of principles. Agricultural relief was designated as the most important problem before the nation.

Prohibition was treated with the declaration that the party stands "for the strict enforcement of the Volstead act and all State and local legislation enacted under the Eighteenth Amendment."

The Republicans of the State tonight were committed to the national administration, progress and economy in government, strict enforcement of the Volstead Act and to principles summarized in agricultural development and cooperative marketing.

Turning back all attempts to interfere with the State platform committee piloted by F. W. Lambert of Stanley county, the G.O.P. convention adopted a platform on national and State issues and adjourned just after Chairman H. J. Bussfield had announced the nomination for United States Senator as the next order of business.

Ice is Beauty's Recipe to Gain Eternal Charm

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—How she discovered the secret of beauty, Mrs. Duff Cooper, formerly Lady Diana Manners—refused to say, but as she stood today in a huge studio, waiting to rehearse her lead in the stage spectacle "The Miracle," she polished a peach bloom cheek with a round, smooth crystal lump and confided her recipe to a breathless girl reporter.

"Ice," she whispered the magic formula. "That's it. Ice. Whenever I think of it I rub a lump of ice on my face, nose, eyes, ears —everywhere. Night, morning or any time, like now. Ice keeps the flesh firm, and that's beauty."

HUGHES HAS BRITISH DRY SHIP REPLY

Texts of American and London Documents Are Kept Secret

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. — The British counter-draft of the proposed liquor and liquor-in-transit treaty is now in the hands of the State Department, it was announced today and the changes suggested by the British Foreign Office are being studied. The British draft was delivered to the department last night, officials said, by Henry G. Chilton, British Charge.

Neither the text of the original draft treaty sent to London by Secretary Hughes, nor of the counter-draft proposals now presented by the British government have been made public.

The Hughes proposal covered extension of the right of search for illegal liquor shipments up to twelve miles off shore and also would sanction by treaty agreement, the carriage of sealed ship liquor stores within American territorial waters. The British counter-proposal is understood to substitute a flexible rule to govern search for an indefinite distance off shore and to include in the treaty a positive reaffirmation by the two governments of the three-mile limit of territorial jurisdiction as a principle of international law.

So far as has been disclosed, Secretary Hughes's proposal to permit British vessels to carry ship liquors under seal within American jurisdiction, met with British approval, the only question raised in London, it is understood, having to do with assurances which might be given by the Washington government that such a provision would be constitutional in the United States.

FRANCE EASES GRIP ON RUHR

60,000 French troops in the Ruhr is expected about the first of the year if the situation is quiet and the Germans evince sincere efforts to carry out their agreements. No evacuation of the occupied zone is contemplated in the immediate future, however, Premier Poincare standing pat on his declaration that the Reich must give indubitable proof of its determination to execute the Versailles Treaty before he will relinquish his hold on Germany's chief industrial and mining region.

French, Belgian and some Italian engineers, control officers, tax collectors and other officials will be intrusted to verify and oversee the German payments of revenues and delivery of materials in accordance with the Duesseldorf agreement and will remain in Essen, Dortmund, Bochum, Gelsenkirchen, Recklinghausen, Wittingen and Hattingen, and will be stationed at certain mines, but the troops will be withdrawn and isolated from civilians as long as the Germans maintain order and do not menace or attack Allied officials remaining on the ground.

WILL FEED NEEDY

The French will maintain soup kitchens and relief organizations for bread distribution among the children and other needy Ruhrites.

It is estimated that 90 per cent of the expelled persons will be permitted to return to the Ruhr on promises of good behavior, and it is expected that nearly all Germans under arrest and imprisoned, except those actually guilty of physically attacking French or Belgian military individuals, will be released.

Free transit from the occupied region into the rest of Germany will immediately be resumed, with a control customs barrier for tax collectors to charge up the duty on material shipped into the farther land.

MARX DARES REICHSTAG

By John Clayton

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—Despite the danger that the Reichstag will refuse a vote Chancellor Wilhelm Marx today asked the passage of an enabling act in a short declaration, demanding the full support of financial measures proposed by the Cabinet.

The act went to the Council of State for discussion and will be introduced formally tomorrow, but probably will not come to a vote before Thursday. There is little chance of its acceptance, with both the Nationalists and Socialists opposing it, whereupon the Reichstag will be dissolved.

FORMAL INVITATION NEEDED

By Henry Wales

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Dec. 4.—Col. James A. Logan, American observer on the Reparations Commission, today unofficially informed the commission that the United States government will not take formal cognizance of a request made here to have American members on two committees of experts.

Col. Logan indicated to Sir John Bradbury and M. Barthou that the Allies must send a formal invitation to Washington before the administration will officially consider the matter.

The question of an invitation was referred to Downing street and Quai d'Orsay for consideration. The British do not intend to take action until after the elections, and both governments are fearful of the bad effects of another American refusal.

In view of the startling concessions made by the French government in the past fortnight, however, certain quarters believe the French Premier may consent to a discussion of a reduction of the debt, fearful of pressure for repayment of France's war loans from the United States otherwise.

Teacher Tells Story of Kidnaping by Two Men Unable to Explain Change of Clothing

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SEATTLE, Dec. 4.—That she had been kidnaped by two men [illegible] day night while on her way to church was the declaration today of [illegible] Nell Austin, a school-teacher and choir singer of this city, when she recovered consciousness in a Vancouver (B. C.) hospital after many hours in a state of coma.

Miss Austin was discovered in a Vancouver suburb last night, dressed in a hiking suit. When she came to she was unable to explain the wearing of this clothing, as she was wearing a black velvet dress the last she remembered, she said.

WAS NEAR CHURCH

The kidnaping took place within two blocks of the church, Miss Austin said in a statement given out by the hospital authorities. Two men, she said, seized her by the arms and thrust her into an automobile, where they prevented her from screaming by holding her mouth closed with their hands.

Then, she declared, she fainted, and knew nothing of what happened after that until she came to in the hospital. Miss Austin was still very ill today, too ill, the hospital authorities declared, to be questioned further.

CLOTHES CHANGED

Miss Austin said she left home at 6:30 p.m. Sunday [illegible] ing to sing, as usual, in the choir. She acknowleged that the hiking suit in which she was dressed was hers, but said she could not understand how it came out of her wardrobe or how it came to be wearing it.

Her sisters, the Misses Lelia and Georgia Austin, denied [illegible] ly before they left here to be at her bedside, an assertion by Chief of Police Severans that she left home voluntarily after a dispute with them about money matters. The statement given out at the hospital, was given out [illegible] they had reached there, it was said.

The police are investigating the story, but say they can do [illegible] until they get a better description of Miss Austin's asserted assailants.

GIRL HELD IN HOLD-UP CASE

Found in Near-by Coupe After Filling Station Man Fires Shotgun at Bandit

Following a hold-up of an oil station at Florence avenue and South Main street last night by a bandit and a chase of the robber by an attendant armed with a shotgun, police arrested a young woman found in an automobile parked near by and took her to Central Station for questioning. The woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Ruth [illegible] ren, 18 years of age, was booked for suspicion of robbery.

The bandit, described as about 20 years of age, entered the station operated by Herman Mensing, 7118 South Main street, and M. B. Cohn. Pushing an old-fashioned pistol against Mensing's ribs he said: "Contribute!" Mensing complied and the bandit obtained $19.75 in silver and twenty-five pennies.

"Have you a gun?" the bandit asked as he prepared to depart.

"H—l, no," said Mensing, "I am just an employee."

As the bandit walked out, Mensing got a shotgun and started firing at the bandit, who immediately ran.

Although Mensing believed he hit the robber, officers from University Station were unable to find blood or other evidence that any of the shots took effect. Shots splattered the porches of surrounding houses.

The woman was found by police crouched low in a Chevrolet coupe parked near the oil station. The machine had a Michigan license. She denied any knowledge of the hold-up and said she ducked to the car when she heard shots. She said she was waiting for her husband who had gone to a drug store to get an ice cream soda.

A thorough search of the vicinity by University officers reinforced from Central Station police, failed to reveal clews to the route of escape of the bandit.

Efforts of officers who questioned the woman to gain information as to her husband's identity or whereabouts were unsuccessful up to late hour last night.

FRUIT SHIPPERS RAP HIGH RATE

Witnesses Declare Price Hits State Product

Interstate Commerce Quiz Brings Protests

Increase in the Railroads' Earnings Shown

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—If the present rate of $1.73 for transporting California fruits to marketing points east of Denver is not reduced to $1.44 by rail carriers as requested by shippers the movement of fruits to Eastern markets from California will decrease, W. Sieg, secretary and manager of the California Fruit Distributors, testified today on behalf of shippers before an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing here.

"When you consider that the freight charge on California cherries consigned to Eastern market points is 60 cents, the handling and package charges 40 cents, and we get only $1 a crate for the cherries, it becomes apparent that some relief is needed," Sieg said.

Sieg's testimony was augmented by that of S. A. Lines, vice-president of the Earl Fruit Company, who added that growers could not market crops of fruit at present prices and cited figures tending to show that his belief was supported by 1923 conditions in the fruit industry.

Jerome Newman, San Francisco, a consulting engineer, called by the shippers, read into the record figures showing the increased earnings of ten class A railroads since 1921 to support the assertion of the growers that the roads can afford to reduce freight rates.

The report showed recent earnings of the Southern Pacific Railroad to be 5.77 per cent, while the New York Central Lines in recent months earned as high as 10.23 per cent.

The hearing will be continued tomorrow.

GRANDSON FIGHTS MRS. BELL'S WILL

GIFT OF HUGE ESTATE TO CHAUFFEUR RESULTS IN LEGAL BATTLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 4.—Important depositions will be taken in Superior Court here tomorrow when eighteen witnesses will be examined in preliminary steps to litigation seeking to break the will and divide the estate of Mrs. Mary C. Bell, formerly of Terre Haute, Ind., who died in this city last March, leaving an estate of approximately $200,000. Mrs. Bell was the widow of O. D. Bell, wholesale druggist and a wealthy business man.

Litigation in the East has been brought about by the peculiar terms of the will made by the deceased a few months before her death, when she willed about $125,000 worth of her estate, consisting of the wholesale drug property, to Lewis R. Preston, her chauffeur, who is said by heirs-at-law to have been introduced here in San Diego as Mrs. Bell's nephew. Preston is said to be about 33 years of age, while his benefactress was 63 years of age at the time of her death.

In addition to the major interest in the Terre Haute property, the former chauffeur is said to have fallen heir to several automobiles used by Mrs. Bell here and in the East. Attorney M. C. Hamil of Terre Houte is in the city looking after the interests of the only heir-at-law, a 14-year-old grandson of the deceased.

IOWA MAN LOSES THIRD COURT FIGHT

THIRTY-TWO LEGAL ACTIONS BY STATE OF IOWA MEET WITH FAILURE

DES MOINES, Dec. 4.—Russell J. Cockburn lost his third court fight in Missouri to prevent being returned to Iowa to stand trial for city pay-roll padding when the Court of Appeals of that State held against an action brought by his attorneys for a writ of habeas corpus. Cockburn immediately took an appeal to the Supreme Court of Missouri, the date of hearing arguments to be determined within a few days.

Though beaten in every action brought to prevent being removed from the government hospital, Cockburn still has several moves left which may delay his return for trial. His attorneys have announced their intention to bring a new action in the Federal District Court of St. Louis if the State courts hold the defendant must be brought back to Iowa.

Since Cockburn's arrest, charged with obtaining approximately $86,000 in August, 1922, thirty-two legal moves have been made by the State in an effort to bring him to trial which have been to date successfully opposed by Attorney Ed S. Thayer for the defendant.

ORIENTALS MAKE TRIP FOR FEAST

Thousands Obtain Passage From Vancouver for China New Year Observance

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER, Dec. 4.—The Chinese New Year's celebration is just as great a drawing card for the orientals of North America today as it was twenty years ago, and from 4000 to 5000 are booked to sail from this port in the next few weeks for their homeland.

Six hundred of these orientals sailed last week on the Empress of Asia, intending to be home at least a month before the festivities commence. Some of the travelers are going far inland to spend the holidays with their families. Every boat leaving here for the next month will carry a large number of these pleasure-seeking Celestials.

It is the custom of the wealthy Chinese to go home every other year for the New Year festivities, but the poorer class find it difficult to travel across the Pacific more than once in three or four years.

Special concessions in writing are attached to every ticket issued on the holiday sailings, guaranteeing that should a Chinaman die on the boat he will not be buried at sea. Gambling is not allowed in the steerage of the Canadian Pacific ships and the travelers arrive in China with their holiday funds intact.

Biographical Sketches in New Directory

California Wins Honors Among Fathers

Caraway and Meade Are in Lead for Brevity

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Sidelights on the "human side" of government officials and members of the new Congress are not lacking in the biographical sketches published today in the new Congressional Directory.

The sketch of President Coolidge is conspicuous for its brevity, the nine and a half lines consuming about half the space used for most of the Cabinet members. Crammed into the Coolidge sketch is a personal and official summary closing with his accession to the Presidency, August 3.

For brevity among Congressional sketches, those of Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, and Representative Mead, Democrat, New York, are close rivals. The former's reads: "T. H. Caraway, Democrat, Jonesboro," and the latter's, "James M. Mead, Democrat, Buffalo, N. Y."

Representative Edgar Howard, new Democratic member from Nebraska, relates that he was "married at lawful age" and "is still married." Also it is said of Representative Howard that he was Lieutenant-Governor of Nebraska while "holding contemporaneously the higher office of editor of a country newspaper."

Number and names of children of members are matters of especial pride with a number of the sketch writers. Representative Casey, Democrat, Pennsylvania, apparently holding the Congressional Record with eleven offsprings. A close rival is Representative Knud Wefald, the New Farmer Labor member from Minnesota, who boasts ten, while Representative Free, Republican, California, records the distinction that of five belonging to him "the last four named are two sets of twins."

Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, notes his record as a champion rifle shot, and Representative Winter, Republican, Wyoming, recites that he is the author of the Wyoming State song and of two western novels.

Of Senator Stanfield, Republican, Oregon, it is recorded that he is "America's largest producer of wool and mutton."

GIRL SLAIN, COMPANION IS WOUNDED

Tragedy at Tijuana is Thought to be Work of Jealous Fiance

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 4.—An American girl known as Irene, the Butterfly, one of the dancers employed at the Last Chance, a saloon in Old Town at Tijuana, was shot dead, and her companion, a Greek, was seriously wounded, in a room at Father's Place, a near-by cabaret, early today.

Police were searching for a young Italian, who is declared to be the girl's fiance. Occupants of the place said that he has been jealous, and that he may have shot the pair in rage when he discovered them together.

The sound of the shots was heard by Mexican police, and they broke into the room, discovering the pair, fully clothed, lying across the bed. The girl, with three bullet wounds in her face and breast, was dead, and the man was unconscious, with a hole in his right temple.

Insane Man in New York Found Active as Doctor

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A man who has been repeatedly committed to various institutions for insanity and who was declared yesterday to be of unsound mind, has been practicing medicine in this city without interference by the authorities.

A week ago he was arrested for removing the body of a month-old infant from its home to his office and later taking it to a hospital for an autopsy without a permit. Yesterday he was again committed to the Kings county hospital for observation. The physician is Dr. Ernest Felix Pirkner of Brooklyn. It appears that Dr. Pirkner had been confined four times in various institutions for mental derangement and that although his hospital record dated from 1906 and continued periodically up to July 23, 1923, Pirkner had been able to register as a physician in Kings county in 1923 and in New York county in 1922.

Sympathy seems to be with Hackett in the verbal controversy, ...ly because the general public thinks the former international ...ot is right and partly because ...e brought the spanking on ...mself by first taking a swipe at ...e committee. The committee ...ems to think that if Bill has a right to criticise he ought not ...e subject to an occasional jab from ...e harpoon himself.

The trouble arose over an article written by Tilden in which he said the Davis Cup committee made a mistake in criticising his style of doubles play and suggesting that he change it. Hackett, a former internationalist and an acknowledged expert on doubles play, came back yesterday on behalf of the committee with the assertion that Tilden "parked his game outside the court" and thereby considerably too much of the ability as a doubles player.

Experts here believe that a new team of players will have to uphold America's honor for the next Davis cup playoff if Tilden backs out. Bill Johnston, however, would undoubtedly rise to his old heights if he felt that the burden of singles fell on him while Tilden and Richards among the experienced players and Snodgrass and Fisher among the newcomers are regarded as the foremost ...ions to make up the 1924 team.

FIX DATES FOR CAGE CONTESTS

Basketeers of Southland Conference Schools Start Off Next Month

BY BRAVEN DYER

Southern California Conference basketball teams have a scant month in which to round into first-class shape before their league games begin, the schedule given out yesterday showing that play is to start January 12 and continue for seven weeks. All teams started practice this week, and preliminary games will be on tap from now until the regular schedule opens. Local fives will play many tilts here during the holidays.

Coach Caddy Works's Southern Branch five has high hopes of repeating their conference championship of last year. The Cubs have always been strong at the court game, and with three veterans on hand stand a good chance of finishing in first place. Night practice is the order at the Vermont-avenue institution, and Works is bringing his men along rapidly. The Cubs will play California here some time early in January, and other games are booked for the Christmas vacation period.

The Golden Bears are to train at Claremont this season, as they did two years ago, and games will be played with Pomona, Redlands and possibly Whittier. Coach Earl Wight will bring a squad of twelve men south, these gentlemen being the choice of a turnout of some seventy-five candidates. Capt. Johnny Talt, a brilliant forward, will be remembered by local fans as one of the best basket shooters ever seen here.

Occidental, with Sid Nichols, former Illinois star, coaching and plenty of seasoned material in the fold, may prove to be the surprise package of the league. The Tigers are to be closely watched this season.

Here is the schedule:

January 12—Caltech at S.B.U.C., Whittier at Occ., Redlands at Pomona.
January 19—Occ at Caltech, Pomona at Whittier, S.B.U.C. at Redlands.
January 26—Caltech at Pomona, Whittier at Redlands, Occ at S.B.U.C.
February 2—Redlands at Caltech, Pomona at Occ, S.B.U.C. at Whittier.
February 9—Whittier at Caltech, Occ at Redlands, Pomona at S.B.U.C.
February 16—S.B.U.C. at Caltech, Occ at Whittier, Pomona at Redlands.
February 19—Caltech at Occ, Whittier at Pomona, Redlands at S.B.U.C.
February 23—Pomona at Caltech, Redlands at Whittier, S.B.U.C. at Occ.
February 26—Caltech at Redlands, Occ at Pomona, Whittier at S.B.U.C.
March 2—Caltech at Whittier, Redlands at Occ, S.B.U.C. at Pomona.

The Philadelphia Athletics lead all other major league teams having discarded or traded players who are still playing big league baseball in other uniforms. The stars number twenty-five.

CITY LINKS IN REAL DANGER

Floods May Wipe Out New Riverside Course

Players Sign Petition to Seek Protection

Immediate Action Necessary to Save Course

BY CHARLES WEST

Procrastination is liable to cause the destruction of the new municipal links at Griffith Park. Several weeks ago a petition, signed by over 700 interested individuals, was sent to the Flood Control Commission urging that body to take immediate steps to protect the course from winter floods. No action was taken by the Commission, with the result that the rainy season with its accompanying floods is almost at hand, and the Riverside Course, constructed last spring at a cost of $65,000, and opened only last summer, lies unprotected in the path of heavy floods.

Protection could be furnished at a small cost and within a period of ten days, experts have stated. The city paid $340,000 for the land on which the links have been built, and it looks as though the whole works will wash down the occasionally rambunctious Los Angeles River unless immediate steps are taken.

The cost of building the links came out of the pockets of the golfers themselves, profits from the old course being used to construct the new all-grass one. It is only natural that the hundreds of Southern California golfers who contributed to the links should have a lively interest in the preservation of the only grass-green course open to the public in this part of the country.

AMERICAN RUGBY TEAM IN OLYMPICS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—Plans for the United States to be represented at the Olympic games next year with a rubgy team were outlined here today by Rudy Scholtz, a star player. He said a meeting of the Northern California Rubgy Association had been called to arrange for try-outs Since rubgy has been played in California to a greater extent than in other States it is likely, according to Scholtz, that most of the Olympic players will be drawn from this region.

JOE BURKS NAMED AS GRID CAPTAIN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PULLMAN (Wash.) Dec. 4.—Joe Burks of Walla Walla, center on this year's Washington State College eleven, was elected captain of the 1924 football squad at a meeting here today. Before coming to the State College, Burks played one year on the Whitman College freshman eleven.

A question as to his eligibility came up at the meeting today and it was announced that in case of adverse ruling a new captain will be named in his place.

COLLEGES ARRANGE BASKET SCHEDULE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND, Dec. 4.—North Pacific College of Portland having been admitted to the Willamette Valley Conference, a basketball schedule has been arranged. In addition to games with the University of Oregon and Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club there will be matches with the following: Whitman College, Monmouth Normal, Albany College, Linfield College, Pacific University and College of Puget Sound.

AL FISHER WILL PLAY AT HOCKEY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SEATTLE, Dec. 4.—On his new home floor Al Fisher will be seen by Seattle hockey fans when Calgary of the Western Canada League opens here tomorrow night its schedule with the Pacific Coast Association. Fisher played last year with the Calgary team, known as the Broncos. In the visiting line-up former metropolitan players will be Cully Wilson, Bernie Morris, Eddie Oatman and Charlie Reed.

SARAZEN TO MEET HAVERS HERE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Gene Sarazen and Arthur Havers have signed to meet in a seventy-two-hole match in California this winter, it was announced by Robert E. Harlow here today. Harlow is promoting the match. The American professional champ and the English open champion will play 36 holes in San Francisco and 36 in Los Angeles about January 20.

T. W. Niblett made the agreement with Sarazen in place of Havers, who has not yet arrived in America. He is due December 19.

Sarazen and Havers had originally made plans to play here last October, but the death of Haver's father caused the date to be postponed. Conditions being unfavorable here for golf this winter, California was selected for the international match.

Competition between these two champions will undoubtedly draw more interest than any similar match before in the history of golf.

Picked last year as All-Coast tackle, Kuhn is a popular choice this year for the honorary berth. He is expected to glimmer brightly against Annapolis at Pasadena New Year's Day.

HUSKIES FORMALLY O.K. BID

Washington Faculty Gives Sanction to New Year's Day Contest

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Dec. 4. The faculty athletic committee of the University of Washington formally sanctioned the sending of the Husky football team to Pasadena New Year's Day to play the United States Naval Academy eleven, at a meeting late today.

Darwin Meisnest, graduate manager at Washington, announced today that the football squad will leave here the 28th inst. for Pasadena. Active training will begin here the 14th inst. and continue until Christmas, when members of the eleven will be allowed to spend the holiday at their homes.

President Suzzallo of the university informed Admiral Henry D. Wilson of the Naval Academy of the pleasure in being able to send the Purple and Gold eleven against the formidable Navy eleven. Leslie Henry, chairman of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses committee, was notified last night that the invitation to play a post-season contest had been accepted.

Admiral Wilson Sanctions Game With Huskies

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 4.—The trip of the Naval Academy football team to Pasadena, Cal., for the game against the University of Washington eleven on New Year's Day became a certainty when Rear-Admiral Henry B. Wilson, superintendent of the Naval Academy, announced today that the institution would welcome Washington as an opponent and looked forward to the game with pleasure.

Admiral Wilson mentioned the friendly relations between the rowing squads of the two institutions. The crews for two seasons occupied the same boathouse while preparing for the Poughkeepsie regatta. For this reason the Naval Academy feels that it has a closer tie with Washington than any institution in that section.

Again this afternoon practice was short, mostly because of artificial light. The work consisted of kicking, passing and signals, but it will gradually be extended in time and intensity. Head Coach Folwell was called out of town, but is expected to return tomorrow, and his assistants handled the practice this afternoon.

OBSERVATIONS by the INNOCENT BYSTANDER W.M.H.

Acceptance by Washington of the New Year's Day date with the powerful Annapolis eleven not only assures us of a great football game in the Rose Bowl but likewise makes it seem certain that any attempt to place a ban on post-season games will receive the frosty stare. At present California seems to be the only probable opponent of post-season football and it isn't any too certain that the Bears really are opposed to games played under proper auspices.

U.S.C. is, of course, absolutely certain to favor the post-season games and it is pretty certain that the northwestern colleges will do likewise en masse now that one of them has earned a crack at the big game at Pasadena. For a while the Northwest hogged the western end of the New Year's Day game but for three years the State of California had supplied the western representative and if a California team had taken the date again this year it is probable that the Northwest would have figured that the game was a home-talent proposition and had been glad to take a wallop at it in the form of a ban on post-season games.

As a matter of fact if the New Year's Day game can just be kept going a couple of years more there will be enough good teams within a night's ride of Los Angeles to supply first-class representation for the West whether or not the Coast Conference joins in.

As is customary with such matters there are two sides to the argument now raging between Bill Tilden and the Davis Cup Committee over the sensational Davis Cup doubles match which Tilden and Williams won from Hawkes and Anderson this year. Tilden is right in saying that the Davis Cup doubles team ought to be picked two weeks ahead in order to give the players a chance to get some practice.

Hackett is quite right in saying that Tilden isn't the greatest doubles player in the country and that Bill seriously jeopardized America's chances of retaining the Davis Cup by the goofy manner in which he played his position during the first two sets of the match. The only reason Tilden is a good doubles player is because of his simply marvelous ability

MARTIN IS LOSER TO O'DONNELL

Clever Lightweight is Too Good for Gotham Fighter; Davis Beats Soules

Johnny O'Donnell, a strong but speedy lightweight from Minneapolis, earned the decision over Vincent "Pepper" Martin of New York in last night's main event at the Vernon Coliseum. O'Donnell was the favorite to cop the event and ran true to form, finishing strong.

The first round found both boys a trifle wild, due mainly to nervousness and over-anxiousness. Martin started out as if he was going to win the second period, but a strong rally by O'Donnell prevented him from copping this session. O'Donnell landed the harder and more frequent blows in the third, and in the final round rocked Martin with four solid rights to the jaw.

In the semi-wind-up, Ritchie Davis, a classy Portland fighter, beat Bud Soules. The bout was a good one. Soules started out well by copping the opening session on points, but got into hot water in the second round and couldn't seem to get out during the remainder of the fight, which went to Davis by a safe margin. The winner was cleverly handled by Charley Kline.

Mickey Nelson and Abie Gordon, fighting the feature preliminary, gave the fans a big thrill. Those who before the fight thought Gordon an old man got the shock of their lives when he stepped right up and mixed things with Nelson. Both boys took many a sock, but were not a bit slow about returning the compliment.

Morrie King beat Kid Moha, getting an easy decision. Bert Colima acted as his second. Bert Meyers was too good for Johnny Spahr, which was something of a surprise.

Harry Whitman provided the big knockout of the evening when he busted Young Friedlander on the jaw with his sturdy right arm in the third round of their bout. Friedlander had been down twice for the count of nine in the second round, but managed to come back for his final bow in the third period.

TROPHY SHOOT AT VERNON ON SUNDAY

Bill Pugh, secretary of the Vernon Gun Club, announced last night that a take-home trophy shoot would be held at the Vernon grounds next Sunday. The affair is expected to attract a good-sized crowd of local and visiting gunners.

The shoot will call for 100 targets in four frames all from sixteen yards. The winners will be given the take-home trophies. A double shoot will follow the century event.

ATHLETES WILL GATHER AT OXY

Mammoth Track Meet Carded for Next Saturday

Entry List of 300 Promised Keen Competition

Martz and Argue to Tangle in 75-Yard Dash

As Old Man Winter has evidently postponed his usual short visit to Los Angeles, Occidental College has taken advantage of the opportunity to pull a little stuff ordinarily confined to balmy summers, a mammoth athletic carnival being carded for next Saturday at Patterson Field. Oxy is a generous host, and has invited every college, university and high school in Southern California to send a team of track stars to Eagle Rock to compete for fame and medals, and the response was so enthusiastic that Graduate Manager Fred McLain is deluged with entries.

Everything being definitely arranged for the boys to blossom forth in their brief outfits, designed for speed if not for winter comfort, rain, wind, hail and lightning will probably be in order next Saturday, but with confidence that Indian summer will continue for at least four more days, Coach Pipal and McLain are going ahead with the affair, and expect it is to be a huge success.

LONG ENTRY LIST

Not less than 300 athletes are due to perform, every Southern California Conference college, U.S.C., all City League high schools and many more, teams from the Army and Navy and unattached athletes having filed their entries already.

Competition will be divided into a number of classes, college varsities striving for honors apart from frosh, and high schools being divided into two classes according to size. In addition to these divisions, the service teams and junior colleges will compete among themselves, while there will be a number of events open to all competitors.

Yale Martz and Cliff Argue, respectively of U.S.C. and Occidental, are expected to furnish a lot of excitement in the 75-yard dash. Both have established reputations as 100-yard dash men, there being little to choose between the two, but there is considerable discussion as to who is the fastest in the shorter race.

OLD RIVALS

The 75-yard high hurdles will bring two old rivals together, Charlie Daggs, former Pomona star, and Otto Anderson of U.S.C., being the principals in a duel for supremacy, which started several seasons ago. Last year Daggs won the high hurdles and

HUNTINGTON RESIGNS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

EUGENE (Or.) Dec. 4.—Charles "Shy" Huntington, head football coach at the University of Oregon for the past six years, resigned this afternoon. He will continue his work at the university, however, until the end of the spring term since he is also a member of the faculty of the school of physical education.

"Home town psychology" was given by Huntington as the chief reason for his act. This he defined as opposition coming from the alumni, who, he said, have never helped Him in his work during the service at the university.

Huntington took over the coaching position the year following Hugo Bezdek's departure in 1917 and since that time has turned out several good teams. Last season, the team tied with Washington for northwest honors, and in 1920 did the same. Huntington's greatest team was developed in 1919 when it tied with Washington for the Pacific Coast title. It was that year that Harvard was held to the score of 7 to 6 in the football classic at Pasadena.

SIKI STARTLES BROADWAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Battling Siki, sardonic son of Senegal, proved that he is a better comedian than a boxer today when he entertained noonday crowds on Broadway at Times Square with a native Senegalese marriage ceremony dance.

Nobody was getting married, but Siki, who found himself at the fag end of a night's celebration in the white light district dressed in battered dinner clothes at high noon, apparently believed the crowd surrounding him occasioned antics of some sort. He gave two or three Tarzan-like yells, tossed a dented top hat into the air, and launched into the jungle dance.

When several policemen fought their way toward him, Siki, whose acquaintance with gendarmes and kindred officials has been unpleasant, grinned broadly and vanished into a coffee house conveniently available. Thus he probably escaped arrest for interrupting traffic.

SERVICE

On December 10th, the first unit — The Service Department — of the New Howard Building will be formally opened. Mr. Armistead, the service manager, is justly proud of his new department with its 20,000 square feet of unbroken floor space.

Cady Announces Swim Carnival at Athletic Club Next Wednesday Night

FIRST INDOOR MEET OF YEAR

Duke Kahanamoku to Try for 220-Yard Mark

Club Outfit and Hollywood in Polo Game

Coach Cady's Program Lists Seven Events

Fred Cady, swimming instructor at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, announced last night that the first indoor aquatic meet of the season will be held at the local club one week from tonight.

One of the big features of the evening's entertainment will be a water polo game between the Mercury team and the new Hollywood Athletic Club aggregation.

Duke Kahanamoku, Honolulu's leading citizen, and holder of several world's records, will take a crack at the 220-yard mark. The Duke will race with such stars as Tom Blake and Colin Smith, the first named gentleman being the former national champion in the ten-mile event.

Coach Cady's program is as follows:

Fifty-yard free style for men, 220-yard free style for men, diving from ten-foot board for men, fifty-yard free style for women, 220-yard free style for women, and 100-yard back stroke for women.

SPALLA IS BEING GROOMED TO KNOCK OFF DEMPSEY'S CROWN

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROME, Dec. 4.—American sporting circles will be interested to know that Italy is grooming a giant who hopes to take the heavyweight championship crown to Spaghetti-land.

The new aspirant to world title honors is none other than Erminia Spalla, who started his pugilistic career in New York City. Spalla not so long ago returned to the land of his birth, cleaned up all the fistic champions here and proclaimed himself heavyweight champion of Italy.

The big Italian plans to start at the bottom and go up as quickly as possible. He is now negotiating a match with Georges Carpentier, the former light-heavyweight champion whom he thinks he can beat. After Carpentier, he hopes to get a chance to meet Louis Firpo in some American city and thus pave the way for a crack at Jack Dempsey.

to murder a ball from any position. But all the ability of this kind in the world doesn't do any good when a pair of smart opponents tease you out of position and then put it where you can't reach it. Team-play is the thing that counts in tennis doubles just as it does in football.

It is rather to be hoped that Brentwood's proposed golf tournament for professionals may still become more than an idea. With all the interest there is in golf in Southern California, a tournament of the top-notch professionals would be certain to attract a huge gallery of spectators who would gladly toss in large gobs of cash for privilege of criticizing the manner in which Gene Sarazen putts or Jim Barnes drives. On the other hand a small community like Santa Monica can't be expected to rush out and dig up a lot of money for an event of this kind without being coaxed a little. Santa Monica got a lot of notoriety but little or no financial return from the Santa Monica road races and never did get as much value received as came from a series of full page "ads." No wonder the staid citizens of the thriving beach community think two or three times before raising a big sum of money for a golf tournament. They have contributed to such things before and want to know where the benefit is coming from.

COCHRAN IN QUEST OF TITLE

Hollywood Billiardist in Excellent Stroke for Cue Match With Hoppe

BY ED O'MALLEY

That Welker Cochran, local cue stalwart, is going to bring back the old championship emblem from Chicago in a few weeks, is the general opinion of many local followers of the gentlemen's game.

Cochran left here last Monday night en route to Chicago, where he crosses sticks with Willie Hoppe on December 17, 18, 19, in a three nights' play (500 points each night) for the title. Hoppe is the present champion. In the recent New York tourney, Cochran and Hoppe tied for first honors, each having lost but one game.

This tie gave the Los Angeles star the right to clash with Hoppe for the 18.2 balkline championship. The only man that defeated the champion in the Gotham tilt was Cochran, who also ran away and lost Jake Schaefer, Jr., finishing his 500, while Jake was in the sixty-eight hole or thereabouts. The trimming was the worst that Schaefer ever received in a tournament.

UNIFORM CADDIES AT SAN GABRIEL

The typical San Gabriel Country Club caddy these days is about the snappiest-looking bag carrier who ever teed up a ball in the rough, the reason being that Caddymaster Tommy Langdon has put into effect an idea obtained several weeks ago to uniform his caddies. Every boy on the San Gabriel links will shortly be dressed in a warm olive-drab uniform, made up of shirt, cap, long trousers and cowhide shoes, while about four dozen of the caddies have already been supplied with this neat outfit.

Uniforms have been purchased by a fund donated by members of the San Gabriel club, and in addition to clothing the boys, they will be given a Christmas dinner at cost, and insurance against sickness. The insurance is paid for by the boys at the rate of 25 cents a week. The caddies have a regular military organization, elect their own officers, and settle all disputes of a minor nature among themselves. They turn out every morning for flag-raising, and in other ways are being taught the rudiments of good citizenship.

The University of Missouri is the first of the big schools in the Middle West to take up polo as a college sport.

CAGE MEN PRACTICE AT U.S.C.

Coach Turner Has Large Squad Working; Calland Handles Frosh

With football out of the way until spring practice rolls around, basketball is holding most of the attention out at the University of Southern California. Both freshmen and varsity cage practice started last Monday and large squads of both groups are busily engaged working out daily in the U.S.C. pavilion. Leo Calland is handling the peagreeners and has a mob doing its stuff every afternoon.

Coach Lee Turner has the varsity work out in the evenings from 7 o'clock to 9. Turner announces that his team will be ready for a practice game in about a week.

Turner has back from last year's varsity Capt. Gordon Campbell, forward; John Hawkins, center, and Haydon Phythian, guard. Charley Bone, star forward, and Norm Anderson, guard, also are eligible for play this year, but neither are coming out. Bone's absence is accounted for by illness, while Anderson plans to turn all his attention toward track.

Coming up from the frosh crew of last season are Gene Dorsey, guard; Ed Wingard, forward, and Boyer, another forward. Cot Rice, center; Ben Gerpheide, guard; Louie Gerpheide, forward, and Ross, a center, transfers, are also available for this year's varsity.

The Trojans are particularly anxious to finish ahead of California and Stanford this season, because the winner of these three will meet the winner of the northern section of the conference on the victorious southern quintet's court in a series of games for the Pacific Coast Conference championship.

Here is the schedule for the southern section of the Pacific Coast Conference:

January 18—U.S.C. at California.
January 19—U.S.C. at California.
January 25—U.S.C. at Stanford.
January 26—U.S.C. at Stanford.

HOOP SCHEDULE DRAFTED

Basketball Dates for 1924 Orange County League Drafted; Davis Has Vets Back

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ORANGE, Dec. 4.—With king football having retired for the season, the alarm clock for the awakening set for next fall, Orange High School athletes, under the tutelage of Coaches Davis and Berg today had turned their attention to basketball with the calling of the first practice.

Adding zest to the workouts, Orange county league officials, gathering at Tustin late yesterday, drafted the hoop schedule for the 1924 season, fixing January 18 as the date for the opening.

On that date, the Orange and White hoop squad will open its league season on the home court, playing Tustin; Anaheim will grapple with Capistrano at home, and Huntington Beach will journey to Garden Grove for an engagement.

Six schools, the schedule shows, are represented in the league, each school being represented by three teams, the unlimited, 130 pounds and the midgets.

All league games in the unlimited division will be played on Friday afternoons while the lightweight contests will be staged on each preceding Thursday with double headers. These games will be played on the same court where the unlimited teams are scheduled for the following day.

Santa Ana and Fullerton will not be represented in the league, having decided to cast their lot with the Coast league including Long Beach, Pasadena, San Diego and Whittier.

Orange with Capt. Elmer Nichols back at center, Spencer at forward and with Durrell, Brubanker, Krueger, Peck and others who have had previous basketball experience turning out for daily practice, should mold an excellent squad together with chances for copping the county title.

The schedule follows:

January 18—Capistrano at Anaheim; Huntington Beach at Garden Grove; Tustin at Orange.
January 25—Anaheim at Huntington Beach; Tustin at Capistrano; Garden Grove at Orange.
February 1—Anaheim at Garden Grove; Orange at Capistrano; Huntington Beach at Tustin.
February 8—Orange at Anaheim; Capistrano at Huntington Beach; Garden Grove at Tustin.
February 15—Tustin at Anaheim; Garden Grove at Capistrano; Orange at Huntington Beach.

Williamson and Stanley Lead Local Cue Men

Play among local billiard players for the free trip to Chicago to witness the championship match between Welker Cochran and Willie Hoppe has been progressing rapidly at the Stevens and Cochran parlors.

Last night, Eugene Stanley, who has been the sensation of the 18.2 balk-line tourney at the Stevens parlors, defeated W. R. Williams, 100 to 45. Williams had an additional handicap of 20.

This evening R. R. Lee will play E. C. Archer and the winner of this match will take on L. R. Blake. Thursday evening Stanley will meet the winner of these two matches for the championship of the Stevens parlors.

L. K. Smith beat E. C. Williamson at the Cochran parlors last night, 100 to 54, thereby throwing the championship of that place into a three-cornered tie between Williamson, L. K. Smith and Dr. Jones. Williamson is a favorite to cop leading honors, despite his defeat of last night.

When the Cochran champ is decided, the rival winners will get together in two matches at each of the two parlors.

GARCIA WHIPS RIVAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) Dec. 4.—Frankie Garcia, Pacific Coast sensation, dealt out a boxing lesson and a severe lacing to Abe Kabakoff, veteran Memphis lightweight, here in an eight-round bout last night and was awarded the referees' decision.

Caltech Grid Stars in Big Feed Tonight

Closing the most successful grid season in the history of the institution, the student body of the California Institute of Technology will this evening tender a banquet to their team which tied with Pomona for conference honors. The feed will be held at the Maryland Hotel, in Pasadena, and because of the singular success of the team it is expected that the turnout will break all records.

Speeches by Capt. Holly Moyse, Coach "Fox" Stanton, and the captain-elect, to be announced at the banquet, will be among the features of the evening's program. The Engineers lose Moyse, Beeson, Fred Groat, Hal Beck, Maury Goldsmith and Roland Thomas.

NASH—LAFAYETTE — BELCAR, ASH, AND REO

The Tired Club Woman says: "When my nerves get ragged and jumpy, I go for a Spin on the Boulevard in my NASH."

NEW METHODS IN ORCHARDING are constantly being devised, a subject comprehensively covered in the Farm and Tractor Magazine of the Los Angeles Sunday Times.

"Pippin! no more wood to pack!"

No—nor any more coal or ashes for anyone to lug! The convenience and efficiency of Pearl Oil-made heat means comfort for everyone—fire-tending for none. Heat by the roomful at the touch of a match! Simply turn the wick high for initial warmth—then low to maintain it. And remember, Pearl Oil burns clean—it leaves absolutely no odor.

For best results your heater needs more than just kerosene. "Kerosene" or "coal oil" may mean any kind of kerosene — "Pearl Oil" but one. It is the highest-quality kerosene only, the result of years of research and study, and refined for heating and lighting purposes exclusively by the Standard Oil Company's own special process. Your dealer knows Pearl Oil — ask for it by name.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY

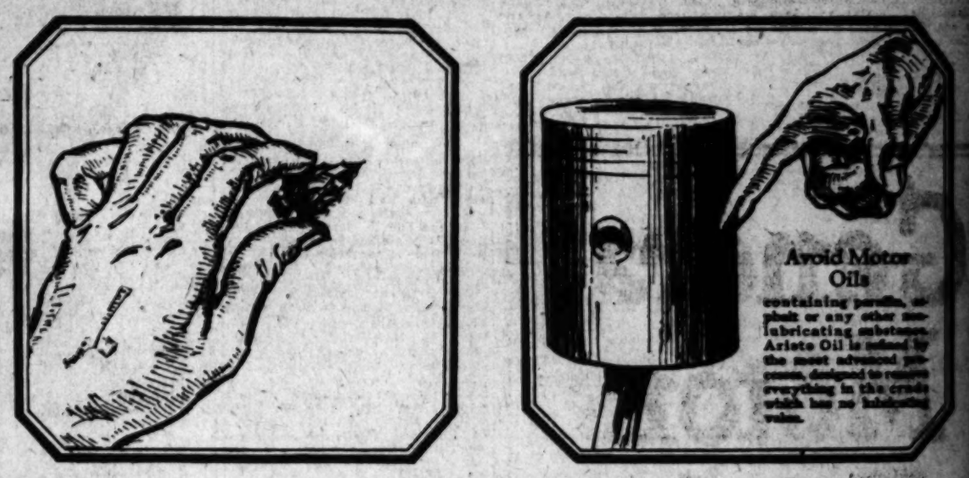
PEARL (KEROSENE) OIL for HEAT & LIGHT



A "Gritty" Carbon

—that Scores Cylinders and Rings

There's a softer, fluffy kind

Some carbonaceous residue is deposited by all motor oils. Every manufacturer of motor oil knows that.

But there are two kinds of "carbon." One is hard, flint-like and gritty. It clings to pistons, cylinders, valves and rings.

Cylinders can be scored by it. And chisels or acetylene torches are required to remove it.

Causes "Knocking"

Being hard and gritty, it acts as an abrasive, causing pistons, cylinders and rings to wear.

Small pieces become incandescent, causing pre-ignition so the motor "knocks."

Spark plugs become coated. So the spark is short circuited and your motor misses.

Particles attach to valve heads and seats, preventing proper seating and resulting in loss of compression and weak power.

And this "carbon" of flint-like hardness collects in quantities two to three times as great as the other kind.

Can Not Wear

The small residue which Aristo Motor Oil deposits is of a different kind. It is soft and fluffy. Most of it blows out with the exhaust. What is left is softer than the metal of cylinders, pistons and rings so cannot score or wear them.

Motors so lubricated run thousands of miles farther without the necessity of cleaning.

Your motor retains tight compression and full power, and you save repairs.

Aristo is made by the lubrication specialists of the Union Oil Company, equipped with every accepted facility for producing perfect motor oil. A durable, fine film penetrates to and protects each working part in any weather and at all motor heats. Tested by famous drivers under conditions far more severe than any you will ever cause your motor to encounter.

If you would operate a smoother, well-protected, longer-lasting motor, always use an oil like this. For sale at all first-class garages and service stations.

General Motors Trucks

GMC

Greater Pulling Power Smaller Running Cost

GMC Trucks of two ton capacity and over are equipped with the famous GMC two range transmission. With this installation the power from a moderate size, economical engine is multiplied into pulling ability that carries GMC anywhere wheels can get traction.

GMC has surplus power to pull out of bad places, to climb steep hills, and operate over roads impassable to other trucks. At the same time this double range transmission provides high road speed.

Thus GMC widens the range of your hauling business and increases earning power. Moreover, because of this two range transmission and other exclusive GMC features of design, GMC effects economies not found in other trucks. GMC increased earning power plus GMC economy make greater profits for GMC owners.

Martin and Dick Hoppe in Feature

Vincent "Pepper" Martin has been handed a tough assignment by Matchmaker Tom Kennedy in Dick Hoppe, who meets at Hollywood Friday night in the feature go of the Legion bill. Martin is a big card at Vernon and should pack the fans into the Cinema City stadium.

Dick Hoppe has probably boxed as many times in local rings as any other one boxer. No matter whether in the lower spots or at top, he has always been in there mixing hard from gong to gong of every round. He is a good boxer and a fair puncher.

Tom Kennedy was at a loss to name a suitable opponent for Martin, but after Hoppe's decisive win over Reisler last week, the situation was cleared at once.

Frank Novel tackles "Chinee" Mickey Nelson, a stable mate of Martin's, in the semi-wind-up, and the pair promise to unfurl a battle the equal of the main event for class.

Terry Adams tackles Jack Rivers, a full cousin of Luis Angel Firpo's, in the special sopt.

Other bouts: Young Belle vs. Benny Duarte, 130 pounds; Young Terry vs. Alex Maurice, 115 pounds; Eddie Conrad vs. Chief Anderson, 133 pounds, and Mushy Callahan vs. Young Burns, 133 pounds.

"THE TIMES" PANORAMA OF BASEBALL

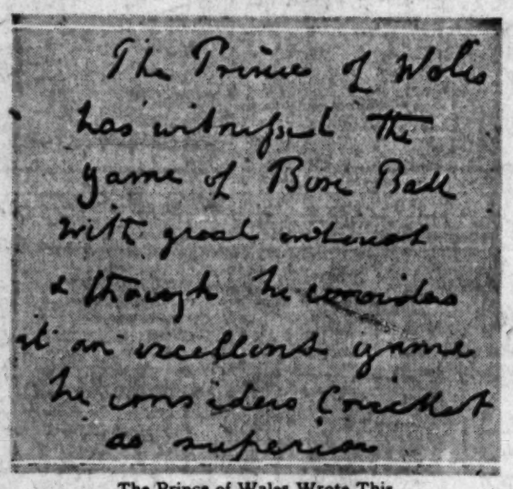
(Copyright, 1922, in U. S. and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)



The Prince of Wales Wrote This

Not the present Prince but his grandfather, who became Edward VII. That was in 1859, in England. Spalding sat in the royal box and when one of the boys lined out a hot one Spalding in his excitement slapped the Prince on the knee. After the game Edward wrote the opinion shown: "The Prince of Wales has witnessed the game of baseball with great interest and though he considers it an excellent game he considers cricket as superior." England still feels the same way about it.

In a very amusing little book published in England, and detailing the art of the American sport, baseball, there is a little note dashed off by the then Prince of Wales —afterward Edward VII. It illustrates a story told by Spalding in his history of the game. In 1874, while he was pitching for Boston, Spalding had a wild scheme to take picked teams to England and show them how to play ball. The scheme went through and arrangements were made with the Marylebone Cricket Club to welcome them on their visit. The English club would also welcome a match of cricket with the visiting American teams. In fact, when Spalding arrived with his teams, the public was ready for cricket, not baseball. It was fortunate that there were a few on the crack nines who understood the British game, with the result that in cricket the visitors won with a score of 107 to 105. They played much more cricket than baseball. But they sowed the seeds of interest for the next tour.

This was part of the first world-tour of American ball players, when Spalding was playing with Chicago; it was in 1888. In March, 1889, the teams found themselves set in Kennington Oval grounds for a game, with the Prince of Wales present. There was a royal box, of course, and Spalding was asked to sit next the prince and explain everything about the game. There was no etiquette evident on the part of Spalding as the game progressed. By a warming up process both he and the prince were in the throes of wild excitement and members of the royal party could not understand the American player when he slapped Edward enthusiastically on the knee at a brilliant play. It was a reporter who asked the prince what he thought of the game, when it was all over. Edward asked for a card, and scribbled on it what is now regarded as at historical document. It is this message that is tucked away in the English account of American baseball. Maybe the Prince would have been more enthusiastic if he could have witnessed a World's Series.

Weekly Health Talk

by Barclay L. Severns

LACK OF HARMONY
ARTICLE LXXVI

Lack of harmony will cause poor health!

Health is harmony. Disease is discord. If harmony reigns supreme in the human system, we have better health; happiness invariably produces harmony. If the forces and elements of mind and body work together in harmony, naturally wholesome conditions are produced, and if these conditions continue for any reasonable length of time, disease will finally disappear.

The happier the disposition you cultivate, the less energy you waste, the increase of happiness means the increase of harmony; therefore, the system conserves instead of wasting energy as long as it continues in perfect harmony.

The amount of vitality you possess, depends on the amount of energy you conserve, the greater supply of vital energy you keep stored up in your system, the less likely you are to contract disease.

HARMONY OF SYSTEM

When a person becomes melancoly, worries and frets over every little thing that happens, food is of little value. But when the system is thoroughly harmonious, practically every particle of food that you eat will contribute its full nourishing power, and unless your system is properly nourished, you cannot retain perfect health.

People are starving their systems from the lack of assimilation, regardless of the number of meals they eat. I have had a number of cases come under my observation that have been eating five meals a day; yet have been fifteen to twenty pounds underweight for years. Invariably they were of the type that lived and worked at high tension—were easily irritated—became angry over every trifling thing, and allow themselves to get in a rage, and prolong this nervous excitement long after the imagined trouble was over.

What happens is this! The little tubes that feed the secretion to the food in the mouth, have little openings at the end, and when you become angry, they close up tight, consequently, the food is deprived of the very element necessary to start digestion; the same effect takes place in the stomach and intestines.

MIND POISONS BODY

The entire system is poisoned when you give way to a fit of anger, and the longer you continue in that state, naturally, the more poison you create. Most of the food taken under such conditions, also that which had been taken several hours previously, becomes waste matter and a starvation of the cells will cause them likewise to become waste matter; clogging the system from two sources, headaches, colds, indigestion and many other ailments follow.

If people would cultivate a happy disposition, and practice it in their home life, there would be more harmony and less discord, fewer divorces and healthier families. Continuous happiness is a stimulant to the nervous system, its effect is far-reaching and beneficial.

Many instances where business men have made financial success —had beautiful homes—raised a fine family. Have realized that during the past ten years of their business success, there had been an undercurrent in their home life that caused a great deal of apprehension. The breach seemed to be widening—the lack of harmony was noticeable to the children, as well as a few close friends. The wife in most cases would be suffering from nerve trouble. They had everything that money could buy—and because of that the health had been neglected. Discontentment had crept in because every desire had been satisfied as far as material things were concerned, and there was nothing left to satisfy that longing for something that could not be supplied. That reaction of a life of excitement, continual entertaining—being entertained regardless of whether they were in the mood or not; thus the estrangement which each had blamed on the other.

BETTER FITTED

When a life is builded on a foundation of happiness and harmony, in the place of power through wealth, they may gain both—and be better fitted mentally to enjoy the things that money will buy. When people are healthy and happy, they are normal, and a normal person will listen to reason, therefore, their differences are settled amicably. It is the abnormal person who is continually craving for excitement, requiring some false stimulant.

You should nourish your mind with happiness as you nourish your body with food, that the ills of the mind will not gain a foothold in your life for one day. You will grow mentally vigorous and strong daily.

One will recuperate in a short time regardless of how tired he may be, if he is thoroughly happy and contented with life. But most people when they are tired out, permit themselves to feel downcast and depressed; and instead of helping nature to restore the body to a normal condition, he places every obstacle in her way.

JAP CUEISTS ARRIVES

B. H. DYAS TEAM WINS AT BOWLING

Play in the Mercantile Bowling League reached the tenth round, Monday night, two matches being played at the Angelus Academy alleys. The Chesterfield Cigarettes got knocked off, 3 to 1, by the F. L. Darlings and the B. H. Dyas Company's crack squad defeated the Wetherby-Kaysers, 4 to 0.

Tonight at the Angelus, the New Spanish Kitchen will meet the Pete's Grill team in an Interurban League contest. E. H. Cleckner, manager at the Angelus, announces that Paul Sattelkau won the Lichtenfels trophy last week for high game. Sattelkau bowled 279.

EIGHT COUNTIES PLAY FOR TROPHY

Eight countries will probably be represented in the competition for the new Cline-Cline international trophy, which will be played for soon after the New Year. America, Canada, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, England, Hungary and Denmark have sufficient players of merit to make them possible winners of the new cup. The executive committee of the S.C.F.A. has completed the rules governing the competition for the trophy. The most important ones are that the trophy be the property of S.C.F.A. at all times, that the trophy be put up for competition annually, that the trophy be perpetual, that the S.C.F.A. pick the teams eligible to compete, that all players must be native-born of the country they represent, that all players must be of amateur standing.

Argentina, Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay are now playing a series of games in Montevideo for the South American football championship. The series will occupy six consecutive Sundays.

NOTAS LOCALES

El Baile de los Wampas se Dara Fuera de Los Angeles

El baile de los Wampas, considerado como uno de los grandes acontecimientos sociales de la temporada entre la gente peliculera, se celebrara "en algun punto de California", en 1924. Ese "algun punto" estara fuera de los limites de la ciudad de Los Angeles. Eso es lo que ha anunciado los de la Directiva de esa Asociacion, cuyo nombre oficial es "La Asociacion de Anciadores Cinematográficos del Oeste"; y tal determinación fue tomada a raíz de haberse negado la Comisión de Policía a conceder permiso para que se baile hasta después de media noche, el 23 de Febrero próximo, fecha del baile.

La Comisión de Policía desestimó la petición que le hizo la citada sociedad de que ampliara el límite de los bailes, en su mitin ordinario de ayer mañana. Inmediatamente después de la negativa, los directores y miembros de la organización informativa del cine comenzaron a formular planes para dar en otra parte su baile anual. Anoche se decía que tal vez se celebraría dicha fiesta en San Francisco, o bien en Pasadena.

FILADELFIA, Diciembre 4.—Encolerizado por la contestación de Harold Hackett, del comité de la copa Davis, a sus críticas sobre la táctica de dicho comité, Big Bill Tilden, la espina dorsal del equipo de la copa Davis en América, declaró hoy que, con toda probabilidad, no volvería a competir en el equipo mencionado. Dicen los peritos que si Tilden se atiene a su amenaza, tendrá America pocas probabilidades de retener la copa Davis el año entrante.

Basketball

Los equipos de basketball de la Conferencia de Sudcalifornia tienen un mes escaso para ponerse en buena forma antes de que comiencen los juegos de su liga, pues según el programa dado ayer, va a comenzar el juego el próximo 12 de Enero y a durar siete semanas. Todos los equipos comenzaron a entrenarse en esta semana, y va a haber juegos preliminares desde ahora hasta que lleguen los formales.

Golf

El "caddy" típico del Club Campestre de San Gabriel es en estos días el más elegante de los portadores de bolsa que hayan colocado una pelota en la pista, pues el jefe de ellos, Tommy Langdon, ha realizado la idea concebida hace varias semanas: la de uniformar a los caddies. Cada uno de ellos aparecerá dentro de poco en la pista de San Gabriel con un uniforme caliente de paño color de oliva, consistente en camisa, gorra, pantalones largos y zapatos de haqueta, y ya hay cuatro docenas de ellos con sus uniformes listos.

Pláticas Diarias en Español por el Prof. R. Guerrero, del Departamento Español de "The Times"

"Segundón", palabra que encontramos en el primer párrafo de mi Plática 112, significa "el hijo segundo de la casa", y por extensión, cualquier hijo no primogénito. Saben seguramente mis lectores que los segundones de familias nobles en España quedaban frecuentemente sin bienes de fortuna a la muerte del padre, pues por virtud del "mayorazgo", antigua institución de derecho civil, ya abolida en la Península, el primogénito de la familia heredaba los bienes que debían perpetuarse en ésta para dar brillo permanente a las casas ilustres. El conjunto de bienes así vinculados llamábase también "mayorazgo", nombre que asimismo designa al hijo mayor que goza y posee mayorazgo, y aun a cualquier primogénito, poséalo o no.

El autor del artículo que comentamos designa con la palabra "enriquecidos" a los que en inglés se llaman "upstarts". No conozco voz española que sea el equivalente exacto de esta última, y muy probable es que no exista, supuesto que escritores españoles de nota usan el equivalente francés "parvenu".

Diré, antes de agregar dos palabras sobre el Acueducto de Segovia, que la voz "puente" es de género ambiguo en español. Con todo, en el lenguaje ordinario se usa casi siempre en masculino, reservando el femenino para la poesía.

"Tochos" son barras gruesas de hierro, de sección cuadrada, que pueden emplearse para trabar y asegurar las piedras o sillares de una construcción, los cuales quedan, por decirlo así, ensartados en el tocho, manteniendo invariable su posición relativa. Las "grapas" son piezas de hierro cuyos dos extremos doblados y aguzados se clavan para unir o sujetar dos cosas. Se emplean pequeñas grapas para fijar en los postes de madera los ramales de una cerca de alambre espino (en Méjico, "alambre de púas") (barbed wire).

En el penúltimo párrafo de la Plática 112 hay un pasaje algo confuso; me refiero al que principia así: "preferimos relatar . . ." El pronombre "éste", que se halla algunas líneas mas abajo, parece referirse a "su verdadero constructor", cuando en realidad se refiere a "pueblo". En la frase "se lo atribuye", el pronombre "lo" reproduce a "Acueducto"; pero como esta voz ha quedado muy atrás, diuena dicho pronombre, por hallarse inmediato a "leyenda". Me permito, pues, proponer esta construcción, que me parece más clara y mejor ordenada: " . . . preferimos relatar, para vergüenza de los sabios, que no han sabido decir al pueblo cuál ha sido el verdadero constructor del Acueducto, la bella leyenda que aquél ha creado por la fuerza de su romántica fantasía, atribuyéndoselo nada menos que al mismísimo Satanás".

En el último párrafo de la Plática 113, no creo esté bien usada la expresión "a falta de", cuyo empleo correcto puede verse en estos dos refranes españoles: "a falta de hombres buenos, a mi padre hicieron alcalde"; "a falta de pan buenas son tortas". El pasaje debe modificarse de esta manera: "quedando construido el Acueducto sin faltar más que una sola piedra, que pudieron luego colocar los hombres; pero con lo que bastó para dejar incumplida la promesa de Satanás".

El Acueducto de Segovia, dice Espasa, es uno de los monumentos más grandiosos y atrevidos ejecutados por los romanos. Tiene 119 arcos, y en su mayor altura tiene 30 metros. Consta de dos órdenes (tiers) de pilares superpuestos fabricados de piedra berroqueña de grano gordo. Las piedras están tan bien unidas, a pesar de no llevar ni argamasa ni "amarres" artificiales, que no puede entrar entre piedra y piedra la punta de un alfiler.

En la Plática 117 me pusieron dos veces "Monterey" por "Monterrey", y una vez "lateresco" por "plateresco".

WATKINSON ESTATE TAX APPEAL MADE

STATE'S RIGHT TO COLLECT MILLION HINGES ON RULING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAMRAMENTO, Dec. 4.—An appeal has been taken to the United States Supreme Court in the case of the estate of Henrietta Watkinson of San Francisco, on the outcome of which depends the collection by the State of California of $1,000,000 in inheritance taxes.

According to Ralph W. Smith, State inheritance tax attorney, the question to be determined is whether the Federal estate tax should be deducted from an estate before the California inheritance tax is computed.

The State Supreme Court, after a hearing and a rehearing of the case, decided in favor of the State, ruling that under the California law it was not necessary to deduct the Federal tax before fixing the State tax on an estate.

Crater of Huge Volcano Spurts Fiery Lava

People Are Panic Stricken Despite Scientists

Investigation Ordered in Dam Tragedy

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NAPLES, Dec. 4.—Mt. Vesuvius has burst into furious activity. The crater of the huge volcano is a seething furnace, sporadically vomiting great quantities of white hot lava. Ominous rumblings in the vicinity of the fiery mountain are causing much unrest to inhabitants in the vicinity, who are ready to flee on a moment's notice.

Daily communiques issued by the scientists, who are studying the eruption, say there is no danger but this news does not seem to placate the panic-stricken people.

MILAN, Dec. 4.—The Italian government has ordered an investigation to fix the responsibility for the flood disaster in the Bergamo district, in which more than 700 people lost their lives. If officials whose duty was to see that the dike was in proper repair are found guilty, they will be punished, it is said.

HUNDREDS DEAD

Unfortunately the first and gravest news of the disaster was not exaggerated. It has been established that the dead number more than 700, while the damage is estimated at 100,000,000 lire.

Even the natural aspect of the country is changed. The Dezzo torrent, usually only about four meters wide (about thirteen feet) is now 500 meters wide (1650 feet.) Masses of rock have fallen, whole forests have disappeared and the level of Lake Iseo has been raised considerably.

Strangely enough, injured persons are comparatively few. These, as well as the uninjured survivors, still show signs of shock and many of them seem to have lost all consciousness of what happened to them. The work of recovering the bodies of the dead is difficult because they are buried deep in mud or under debris. Remains when recovered are taken to the nearest churches, where pitiful scenes are enacted by relatives who go there anxiously searching for their dear ones.

VILLAGE CRUSHED

Corna village was not swept away by the flood, but was simply crushed by falling rock. Of six bridges, one church, one tower, and three factories in this village, not a trace remains.

In the buried village the surviving inhabitants were desperately digging in the debris today in their efforts to find the remains of their children, wives and friends.

NELSON APOLOGIZES TO WASHINGTON PAPER

PUBLISHER WAS ACCUSED IN CONNECTION WITH TAX REDUCTION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Representative Nelson, Wisconsin, chairman of the House insurgent group, today published a letter of apology to Frank B. Noyes, publisher of The Washington Star for a statement issued last week by the Executive Committee of the group in which it was charged that Secretary Mellon's plan of income tax reduction would favorably affect the publisher and that his paper had "aggressively supported" the proposal and "denounced" those who opposed it.

"We take pleasure in informing you that we have found no statements of the nature referred to in your paper," Representative Nelson wrote to Mr. Noyes. "As to your income we readily accept your statement and on behalf of the Executive Committee I wish to express to you our profound regret that we erroneously included the Star and its publisher in the statement, and I herewith tender to you the sincere apology of the Executive Committee for the mistake."

MEXICO'S OIL EXPORTS GROW

October Aotal Greater Than That of Septemebr

Sinclair Company Has Best Showing of Period

Guerrero District Activity Pronounced

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 4.—Petroleum exports for October, totaling 11,529,211 barrels of light and heavy crude, topped crude, crude naphtha and gasoline, were an increase of 290,346 barrels over shipments in September, which amounted to 11,238,865 barrels.

While the Huasteca Petroleum Company leads all shipments, as it has for the last two years, with loadings of 2,024,171 barrels, an increase of 186,349 barrels over the preceding month, the greatest increase was by the Freeport and Mexican Fuel Oil Company which, in exporting 1,111,151 barrels of oil from its Vinas terminal, made its best monthly shipping record since it entered the Mexican petroleum industry.

RECORDS REVEALED

Exports of the Transcontinental Petroleum Company, Standard of New Jersey, also showed an increase with the best record since March 1922. Gains were also recorded by the International Mexican Gulf, New England Fuel, Chaddick & Co., while losses were recorded by both Dutch Shell Companies, "El Aguila" and "La Corona," as well as by the Atlantic Gulf and Island Oil. The Pierce Oil Company, Panuco Boston and Interocean dropped from the list of shippers.

Export by companies for October follows: Huasteca 2,624,171, Transcontinental 1,736,688, Corona 1,630,161, Aguila 1,539,273, Sinclair 1,111,151, Mexican Gulf 551,435, Texas 534,609, International 496,783, East Coast 387,584, New England 358,309.

DEVELOPMENT GREAT

The publication quoted draws attention to the preparations now in evidence for extensive development work, especially in the vicinity of Guerrero on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande just southeast of Zapata, Tex.

The Empire Gas and Oil Company's National Petroleum, hold a lease on 45,000 acres on the Guerrero structure, which it acquired in 1918 and on which it is said to be planning immediate development. The Freeport has leased the 4000 acre Berretta tract, located about six miles south of San Ignacio, Tex., but in Tamaulipas. The company holds a five years' lease on this property with the stipulation that it must begin drilling operations within a year.

LEASE HELD

The Panuco Production Company, Tampico interests, holds a lease on 50,000 acres, forty-three miles down the Rio Grande from Nuevo Laredo, while the El Placeros Oil Company, also understood to be local interests, holds the Tortillas tract of the same size, eight miles southwest of the Berretta lease, and will probably begin development about January 1st.

W. D. H. Mackey of Tampico is preparing to resume operations on the well he started a year ago on his 100,000-acre lease on the Naranjo Ranch, fifty miles south of Laredo, and west of Rodriguez near the Rio Salado. Work was suspended at a depth of 800 feet because of legal difficulties over a question of title.

WELLS PLANNED

The Tamaulipas Petroleum Company, Mexican subsidiary of the Humble Oil and Refining Company, and capitalized at about 1,000,000 pesos, owns 100,000 acres near Guerrero, and expects to put down several test wells shortly, while negotiations are on foot for leases near Guerrero by a representative of large oil interests from Oklahoma. Oil operators from the same State have acquired large acreage between Guerrero and Lampazos. They recently completed a water well on their property in preparation for drilling operations to start next month.

In addition to this activity near the Rio Grande, the Linares section is also the scene of much work. The joint operation of the international, Huasteca, Agwi, Transcontinental, Sinclair and Texas companies at El Popote should be in full swing within three weeks.

BABBITT

BY

SINCLAIR LEWIS

(SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS:

George F. Babbitt, prosperous realtor of the fast-growing young city of Zenith, and Myra, his wife, together with their children, Verona, Ted and Tinka, reside in the Floral Heights section. Babbitt is at once practical and whimsical. He is a hustler and an exponent of "100 per cent efficiency" ideas as applied to both his home and office. He is ecclesiastically honest, a conscientious worker and a tireless booster for his city. While superficially a modern urbanite, he is fundamentally provincial. His instincts are conventional. His closest friend, Paul Riesling, is unhappily married.

While not openly admitting it even to himself, Babbitt nurses the faint—very faint—hope that some day he will be asked to join the exclusive Tonawanda Country Club, or the equally exclusive Union Club.

CHAPTER XV

I

His march to greatness was not without disastrous stumbling.

Fame did not bring the social advancement which the Babbitts deserved. They were not asked to join the Tonawanda Country Club nor invited to the dances at the Union. Himself, Babbitt fretted, he didn't "care a fat hoot for all these highrollers, but the wife would kind of like to be Among Those Present." He nervously awaited his university class dinner and an evening of furious intimacy with such social leaders as Charles McKelvey, the millionaire contractor; Max Kruger, the banker; Irving Tate, the tool manufacturer, and Adelbert Dobson, the fashionable interior decorator. Theoretically he was their friend, as he had been in college, and when he encountered them they still called him "Georgie," but he didn't seem to encounter them often, and they never invited him to dinner (with champagne and a butler) at their houses on Royal Ridge.

All the week before the class dinner he thought of them. "No reason why we shouldn't become real chummy now!"

II

Like all true American diversions and spiritual outpourings, the dinner of the men of the Class of 1896 was thoroughly organized. The dinner committee hammered like a sales corporation. Once a week they sent out reminders:

TICKLER No. 3

Old man, are you going to be with us at the livest friendship feed the alumni of good old U have ever known? The alumni of '08 turned out 60 per cent strong. Are we boys going to be beaten by a bunch of skirts? Come on, fellows, let's work up some real genuine enthusiasm and all boost together for the happiest dinner yet! Elegant eats, short ginger talks and memories shared together of the brightest, gladdest days of life.

The dinner was held in a private room at the Union Club. The club was a dingy building, three pretentious old dwellings knocked together and the entrance hall resembled a potato cellar, yet the Babbitt who was free of the magnificence of the Athletic Club entered with embarrassment. He nodded to the doorman, an ancient proud negro with brass buttons and a blue tail-coat, and paraded through the hall, trying to look like a member.

Sixty men had come to the dinner. They made islands and eddies in the hall; they packed the elevator and the corners of the private dining-room. They tried to be intimate and enthusiastic. They appeared to one another exactly as they had in college—as raw youngsters whose present mustaches, baldness, paunches, and wrinkles were but jovial disguises put on for the evening. "You haven't changed a particle!" they marveled. The men whom they could not recall they addressed, "Well, well, great to see you again, old man. What are you—Still doing the same thing?"

Some one was always starting a cheer or a college song, and it was always thinning into silence. Despite their resolution to be democratic they divided into two sets; the men with dress clothes and the men without. Babbitt (extremely in dress clothes) went from one group to the other. Though he was, almost frankly, out for social conquest, he sought Paul Riesling first. He found him alone, neat and silent.

Paul sighed, "I'm no good at this handshaking and 'well, look who's here' bunk."

"Rats now, Paulibus, loosen up and be a mixer! Finest bunch of boys on earth! Say, you seem kind of glum. What's matter?"

"Oh, the usual. Run-in with Zilla."

"Come on! Let's wade in and forget our troubles."

He kept Paul beside him, but worked toward the spot where Charles McKelvey stood warming his admirers like a furnace.

McKelvey had been the hero of the Class of '96; not only football captain and hammer thrower, but debater, and passable in what the State University considered scholarship. He had gone on, had captured the construction company once owned by the Dodsworths, best known pioneer family of Zenith. He built State capitols, skyscrapers, railway terminals. He was a heavy-shouldered, big-chested man, but not sluggish. There was a quiet humor in his eyes, a syrup-smooth quickness in his speech, which intimidated politicians and warned reporters; and in his presence the most intelligent scientists or the most sensitive artist felt thin blooded, unworldly and a little shabby. He was, particularly when he was influencing legislatures or hiring labor spies, very easy and lovable and gorgeous. He was baronial; he was a peer in the rapidly-crystallizing American aristocracy, inferior only to the haughty Old Families. (In Zenith, an Old Family is one which came to town before 1840.) His power was the greater because he was not hindered by scruples, by either the vice or the virtue of the older Puritan tradition.

McKelvey was being placidly merry now with the great, the manufacturers and bankers, the landowners and lawyers and surgeons who had chauffeurs and went to Europe. Babbitt squeezed among them. He liked McKelvey's smile as much as the social advancement to be had from his favor. If in Paul's company he felt ponderous and protective, with McKelvey he felt slight and adoring.

He heard McKelvey say to Max Kruger, the banker, "Yes, we'll put up Sir Gerald Doak." Babbitt's democratic love for titles became a rich relish. "You know, he's one of the biggest iron men in England, Max. Horribly well off. . . . Why, hello, old Georgie! Say, Max, George Babbitt is getting fatter than I am!"

The chairman shouted, "Take your seats, fellows!"

"Shall we make a move, Charley?" Babbitt said casually to McKelvey.

"Right. Hello, Paul. How's the old fiddler? Planning to sit anywhere special, George? Come on, let's grab some seats. Come on, Max. Georgie, I read about your speeches in the campaign. Bully work!"

After that, Babbitt would have followed him through fire. He was enormously busy during the dinner, now bumblingly cheering Paul, now approaching McKelvey with "Hear, you're going to build some piers in Brooklyn," now noting how enviously the failures of class, sitting by themselves in a weedy group, looked up to him in his association with the nobility, now warming himself in the Society Talk of McKelvey and Max Kruger. They spoke of a "jungle dance" for which Mona Dodsworth had decorated her house with thousands of orchids. They spoke, with an excellent imitation of casualness, of a dinner in Washington at which McKelvey had met a Senator, a Balkan princess and an English major-general. McKelvey called the princess "Jenny," and let it to be known that he had danced with her.

Babbitt was thrilled, but not so weighted with awe as to be silent. If he was not invited by them to dinner, he was yet accustomed to talking with bank presidents, Congressmen and club woman who entertained poets. He was bright and referential with McKelvey:

"Say, Charley, juh remember in Junior year how we chartered a seagoing hack and chased down to Riverdale, to the big show Madame Brown used to put on? Remember how you beat up that hick constabule that tried to run us in, and we pinched the pants-pressing sign and took and hung it on Prof. Morrison's door? Oh, gosh, those were the days!"

Those, McKelvey agreed, were the days.

Babbitt had reached "It isn't the books you study in college but the friendships you make that counts" when the men at the head of the table broke into song. He attacked McKelvey:

"It's a shame, uh, shame to drift apart because our, uh, business activities lie in different fields. I've enjoyed talking over the good old days. You and Mrs. McKelvey must come to dinner some night."

Vaguely, "Yes, ideed—"

"Like to talk to you about the growth of real estate out beyond your Grantsville warehouse. I might be able to tip you off to a thing or two, possibly."

"Splendid! We must have dinner together, Georgie. Just let me know. And it will be a great pleasure to have your wife and you at the house," said McKelvey, much less vaguely.

Then the chairman's voice, that prodigious voice which once had roused them to cheer defiance at rooters from Ohio or Michigan or Indiana, whooped, "Come on, you wombats! All together in the long yell!" Babbitt felt that life would never be sweeter than now, when he joined with Paul Riesling and the newly recovered hero, McKelvey, in:

Baaaaaattle-ax
Get an ax,
Bax-ax,
Get-nax,
Who, who? The U.!
Hooroo!

III

The Babbitts invited the McKelveys to dinner, in early December, and the McKelveys not only accepted but, after changing the date once or twice, actually came.

The Babbitts somewhat thoroughly discussed the details of the dinner, from the purchase of a bottle of champagne to the number of salted almonds to be placed before each person. Especially did they mention the matter of the other guests. To the last, Babbitt held out for giving Paul Riesling the benefit of being with the McKelveys. "Good old Charley would like Paul and Verg Gunch better than some highfalutin' Willy boy," he insisted, but Mrs. Babbitt interrupted his observations with, "Yes, perhaps—I think I'll try to get some Lynnhaven oysters," and when she was quite ready she invited Dr. J. T. Angus, the oculist, and a dismal respectable lawyer named Maxwell, with their glittering wives.

NEWPORT PLAN TO WASHINGTON

Plea for Harbor Aid to be Made This Week

Facts to be Placed Before Board of Engineers

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Newport Harbor advocates are here to appear before the Board of Rivers and Harbors engineers for Federal funds to develop that Southern California port. The hearing is set for Wednesday of this week and all of the facts will be set before the board to secure the aid of the United States in making a commercial port of Newport.

During the day a preliminary program was mapped out in a conference with Senator Shortridge, who will present the committee at the board hearing. C. C. Chapman, noted orange grower of Southern California and one of the pioneers of that part of the country; Francis Cuttle, president of the Riverside Water Company, Riverside; Harry Welsh, Newport, and George T. Peabody of Newport are in the delegation, and Maj. Leeds, nationally known as a port authority, will present the technical points of the project.

The visitors are well fortified with comparative figures showing the local co-operation offered and the growth of Newport, as well as the possibilities of developing the port as an important addition to the great increase in ocean tonnage in Southern California. Maj. Leeds comes on this mission with the support of the Los Angeles Harbor committee, and his knowledge of local conditions, together with the standing he has before the rivers and harbors board, will insure that all the facts are revealed to the board.

BRITISH COLUMBIA MINING PROFITABLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER, Dec. 4.—Nearly $5,000,000 has been distributed this year in dividends by British Columbia metal and coal companies. Unless the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company pays a dividend this month the aggregate distribution this year will be slightly under that of last year.

British Columbia mines have paid, up to date, about $65,000,000 in dividends. This has been divided up as follows, coal mines, $34,000,000 of which the Wellington Collieries have paid $16,000,000. Copper mines about $2,000,000, gold $14,000,000, silver-lead, approximately $8,000,000, zinc $100,000, mining and smelting $7,000,000.

Considerable development work has been done on many of the large producing properties this year and the dividends that ordinarily would have been distributed have gone into capital expenditure.

OLD TROLLEY WIRE HALTS RADIO TALK

ELECTRICIANS FIND TROUBLE IN PHOENIX DISTRICT AFTER SEARCH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Dec. 4.—Radio communications in the Phoenix district for four days were "wrecked" by a roar that came in on a common wave length in unaccountable fashion. Local electricians devoted many hours to the uncanny manifestation, testing from many receiving stations in an effort to localize the noise. They succeeded, the trouble being located by E. A. Nielson, J. W. Hamilton and Plant Manager W. C. Hornberger of the Central Arizona Light and Power Company. It lay in the sagging of an old and grounded trolley wire in the northeastern part of the city, one that had dropped near to a wire of the Central company, from which it received current that arced with a wave length of disturbing sort.

The wire was removed and radio enthusiasts again are "listening in" under pleasing conditions.

EMBARGO PREVENTS PLANTING OF COTTON

WILD BOLL WEEVIL CLOSES IRRIGATED TRACT NEAR TUCSON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Dec. 4.—The planting next spring of at least 15,000 acres of medium-staple cotton in this vicinity has been blocked by refusal of the State Board of Horticulture to lift an embargo from a tract of irrigated land in the Santa Cruz Valley. Prohibition of the growth of cotton was laid two seasons ago, on the ground of contamination of the area by the Thurberia, the wild boll weevil of the near-by hills.

It is contended that this is not a dangerous weevil, but the board takes the position that it might become dangerous if it were to find good conditions in cultivated cotton. It is feared that the weevil might spread to the cotton fields of the Gila and Salt River valleys.

REPARATIONS BODY SHORT OF FUNDS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—The Reparations Commission members and employees in Berlin are spending anxious days with the prospect before them that the salary well is drying up. The members of the commission hope that the French government will offer to pay their salaries, but there is a prospect that they will be forced to close the Berlin office.

TAXPAYERS MAY LOSE IN THEFTS

Stolen Delinquent Funds Must be Repaid

San Bernardino Auditor is Given Verdict

Judge Rules Payments Due Treasurer's Office

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 4.—By a verdict of Superior Judge George R. Freeman today in the hearing of a demurrer in the county's litigation against ex-Auditor S. G. Berger, individual taxpayers may suffer the loss of $26,000, misappropriated during Berger's administration.

In collecting tax redemption funds, the auditor was acting as the agent of the taxpayers and not the county, Judge Freeman ruled in sustaining a demurrer of Berger's attorney to the county's suit to recover $26,000. The former auditor, who resigned a year ago, attacked the litigation on the grounds that the county's complaint did not contain sufficient facts to constitute a cause of action. Berger resigned after the grand jury had exonerated him of suspicion, but urged a reorganization of the office.

CUSTOM NOT LAW

Representing the county, Dist.-Atty. Johnson argued to the court that the former auditor, by mailing notices of delinquent taxes and collecting payments followed a custom in vogue in the county for more than twenty years and should be responsible for the theft of the funds from his office.

Custom cannot displace law, the jurist ruled, asserting that the taxpayers' acts in paying funds to the auditor legally constituted him as their agent and to them alone he was responsible. The law provides that the County Treasurer shall collect tax redemption payments.

The Treasurer's signature was forged to receipts issued in the auditor's office in the theft of the $26,000 during a five-year period.

SUICIDE CAUSED

By the court's ruling, the taxpayers suffered the loss, not the county. If the verdict stands after the county files an amended complaint, as ordered to do by the judge, the litigation will be knocked out and the county will collect the taxes on the property.

Thus the taxpayers, whose payments were stolen, would again be forced to pay the assessments to redeem their property, on which taxes were delinquent.

Thus the taxpayers, whose payments were stolen, would again be forced to pay the assessments to redeem their property, on which taxes were delinquent.

The theft of the $26,000 was discovered a year ago by accountants and led to a grand jury investigation. On the eve of the quiz, J. Ira Cole, a deputy auditor, killed himself.

ANGUISHED EVANGELINE FINDS MATE

Newspaper Stories of Bride's Plight Result in Happy Reunion

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 4.—Through the columns of local newspapers, an Arkansas modern Evangeline was found in the arms of her strayed Gabriel within three hours after the paper left the press Monday afternoon carrying the story of the pitiful plight of the young bride who had been waiting in a Bakersfield hotel for a week to be claimed by her young husband.

James Wilson, 22, husband of the younthful bride who came here to meet him, was within eight miles of his wife's hotel room here during the long week of anguish the pair spent in longing for each other. Wilson, when he read the paper, hastened into this city to carry her away to their temporary love nest out in the cotton fields. It hadn't occurred to the groom to call for his mail at the address given his wife; therefore the heart-rending separation, friends of the young couple said.

WILL SELL FORSAKEN LAND

County to Dispose of Lots in Former Colony of Spiritualists in Summerland

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 4.—The county Board of Supervisors has called a special meeting for the 19th inst. at which time action will be taken to dispose of 150 lots in the town of Summerland, seven miles south of here, which have been held for thirty years for delinquent taxes.

George F. Becker, superintendent of the Seaside Oil Company at Summerland, appeared before the board and urged that steps be taken to restore the lots to usefulness, and intimated that he will purchase them himself at public auction if nobody else wants them.

DEEDED TO STATE

According to County Auditor Albert T. Eaves it will be necessary to trace the history of each lot, prepare descriptive lists and advertise before the lots are sold. The lots have been deeded to the State for many years and have paid no taxes.

Summerland was settled as a spiritualist colony during the early history of Santa Barbara county. The townsite was laid off into lots of 25x75 feet, and advertised to Spiritualists all over the country.

COLONY FOUNDED

Quite a colony was started and the majority of the lots were sold. Oil was struck in 1898 and property owners clamored to dispose of their lots for oil speculation, while others, desiring a quieter locality than the oil town afforded, left and never disposed of their land.

Delinquency, in most of the cases, dates back to the discovery of oil.

The supervisors agreed with Mr. Becker that they will be prepared on the 19th inst. to take final action to dispose of the lots, either as a whole or in blocks. They will set a minimum figure, in accordance with the statutes, at which the property can be sold.

CERTAIN OF IDENTITY OF DEATH AUTO

Police Find Remains of Shattered Lens on Scene; Reward Offered

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MONROVIA, Dec. 4.—Positive identification of the car belonging to Leonard G. Sanders, proprietor of the Rainbow Cafe, as the machine that knocked down and instantly killed Mrs. Mary G. Wiley and her daughter, Miss Jessie Wiley, Saturday night in Pasadena, was arrived at today by officers working on the case, according to Chief of Police E. A. Bovee.

Pieces of headlight lens picked up near the scene of the double tragedy that matched exactly the lens of the Sanders car from which the right headlight was missing, threads of cloth adhering to the bumper that proved to be of the same material as Mrs. Wiley's dress and the dented fender of the car all go to prove, officers believe, that it was the Sanders car that ran down the two women.

No clew to the whereabouts of Mr. and Mrs. Sanders has been found. Mrs. O. Mickel, mother of Mrs. Sanders, declared today that they take frequent trips over Southern California and are gone days at a time. She said she expected to hear from them in a day or so. Sanders was last seen here by Spiros Gazetos, the Greek chef, according to the story told the police by Gazetos. Sanders came into the restaurant about 9 o'clock Saturday evening, took some money from the cash register and told the Greek he was going away, asking hte chef to take care of the business for him. Since that time neither Mr. nor Mrs. Sanders has been heard from.

A warrant for the arrest of the retaurant proprietor was issued in Pasadena. Mr. Wiley has offered a reward of $100 for their arrest and the Pasadena plolce have offered $50 more, Chief Bovee said this afternoon.

OFFERS TO GIVE FUND TO VICTORY HIGHWAY

HANFORD, Dec. 4.—The Kings County Chamber of Commerce will give $500 toward the Victory Highway if the Board of Supervisors will give approval, half to be given in 1924 and half in 1925. The original sum asked for was $1500, which was reduced to $1000, but the chamber, while expressing itself willing to help in construction of the highway, thought $500 a reasonable amount, considering the fact that this county is not on any of the principal State highways.

BACKS AUTO LAW OF STATE

Pasadena Officials Decide Against Additional City Provisions to Compel Sane Driving

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 4.—In spite of recent motor vehicle test case that have been held in this city, and in spite of the recommendations of Chief of Police Charles Kelley for more stringent speed laws, Pasadena will abide by the newly enacted State Motor Vehicle Act and will not attempt to enact a supplementary ordinance, it was announced today.

The city's decision came as a result of a recommendation presented the City Manager by James H. Howard, City Attorney, who holds that the State law affords officers ample authority to prosecute motor-law violators.

Chief Kelley recently requested the passing of a municipal law to determine the rate of speed automobiles should be driven. It was the belief of the Police Chief that the new State law which abolished speed traps and other features was inadequate to control the situation. The City Attorney, on the other hand, declares the city is not invested with power to modify the requirements of the State in any way.

Recently a prominent Hollywood doctor was arrested for violating three of the city's vehicle ordinances. The doctor represented by the Automobile Club of Southern California, contested the case on the grounds that the city was not following out the requirements of the new State law. A Pasadena judge found him guilty and the case was appealed. It is now awaiting a hearing in the Superior Court.

UNBORN BABY IS ADOPTED

First San Bernardino Woman to Ask for Expected Infant is Given Preference

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 4.—Out of the twenty applicants for the "gift babe," expected into the world at Christmas time, a mother was selected today.

The first woman to ask for the babe, whose unwed expectant mother offered it for adoption at birth to save a family name from shame, was awarded its custody. Dr. Albert Harlow, who made the selection of the babe's mother, said that he "in all fairness" was forced to give the child to the first applicant. Twenty other women, who begged for the child, were disappointed by the doctor's decision.

PLEADS IN VAIN

One woman, whose baby died a year ago, appeared three times at the physician's office, once accompanied by a minister to testify to her good character, was broken-hearted when she was not granted the child.

In a letter to the physician she wrote:

"Kind Sir:

"You will please pardon me for taking your time for this letter, but yesterday after calling about this baby, I wasn't satisfied until I had come to the office and talked to you. Now something prompts me to write you and I don't feel as though I made my plea strong enough to let you know how disappointed I would be if I did not get this baby.

"Doctor, our home is so vacant without a child and who knows, perhaps, it was the Lord's will to take mine from me that I may give this one a home.

OUTFIT READY

"I at this time have a whole layette ready for some baby and have just been waiting and trusting the Lord would make it possible for my empty arms to be filled."

Childless women appeared in person, called by phone and wrote numerous letters to the physician, begging for the baby, the doctor said.

The baby will probably be born within three weeks, Dr. Harlow said. Its unwed mother wants the child but her parents have persuaded her to make the supreme sacrifice of motherhood to protect the name from shame, according to the physician, who has pledged to the girl that her identity will not be announced.

The successful applicant for the child is a married woman, 28 years of age.

MAN FOUND INJURED ON ROAD DIES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MC FARLAND, Dec. 4.—Lying unconscious on the paved highway, an unidentified man about 70 years of age was found four miles south of Famoso at 6 o'clock this morning. He was taken to McFarland where he was given all possible aid by Dr. Nyvall, but he died without regaining consciousness.

Mystery surrounds the circumstances as the man's visible injuries were insufficient to cause death. His nose was broken and there were cuts over the eyes but no indication that he had been struck by a motor car. It is believed he was walking when overcome by heart disease and that the injuries to his face were the result of falling forward to the paving.

The only possible mark of identification on his clothing indicates that he might once have been in Gila Bend, Ariz.

SAN DIEGO TO GET REFINERY

...Angeles Snowolene Company is Expanding

Work on First Unit Already Under Way

Expect Production to Start Early in Year

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 4.—The proposed erection of a refinery by the Angeles Snowolene Company of Los Angeles, was announced today coincident with the commencement of work on the first unit of the plant. The refinery will be located in a section of the Industrial Land Trust of National City owned by the Chamber of Commerce. The first unit, it is said, will have a capacity of 2500 barrels a day.

The Angeles Snowolene Company is an independent California institution with filling stations in San Francisco and in Los Angeles. They already have three refineries and the proposed one in National City will take care of the contract with the Van Camp Seafood Company which requires delivery both at San Diego and San Pedro of several hundred thousand barrels of products approximating about $5000,000 in value.

Among the products of the refinery in addition to high grade gasoline, will be deodorized cleaning benzine, engine distillate, kerosene, turpentine substitute, mineral seal oil, stove gas and smudge distillates, fuel oil, and light and heavy lubricating oils.

The crude oil for refining purposes will be supplied by the Angeles Snowolene Company from their Los Angeles fields and some will be obtained from the Jet holdings in Texas.

Actual construction on the cement foundations for steel tanks, pumps, etc., was under way today and the work is to be rushed in the hope of starting production immediately after the first of the year. A large number of filling stations will be established in San Diego and vicinity for the distribution of the products, it is stated.

Ontario Considering Purchase of Motor Apparatus

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ONTARIO, Dec. 4.—Purchase of a new motor fire engine was being investigated today by the fire committee of the City Council following receipt by the city government body of communications from Fire Chief Edward J. McGready and City Service Manager O. S. Rose in which it was pointed out that while new buildings have been erected in Ontario during the last four years to the value of approximately $4,000,000, additions to the city's fire-fighting equipment in the same period have been confined to the purchase of hose.

Service Manager Roen was authorized to hire a fire truck as an emergency measure until new apparatus can be purchased; since one of the city's motor fire engines is reported to have gone completely out of commission yesterday and it was feared that in its present crippled condition the department would be unable to cope with any possible serious fire.

PORT NOTES

Keels will be laid at the William Muller shipyards this week for two more tugs for the Wrigley fleet, larger and more powerful than any previously turned out. Their completion will increase the Wilmington Transportation Company tugs to nine. The shipyards also will turn out two more barges for the same company in the near future, according to J. N. Stewart, vice-president and traffic manager of the transportation company. A new glass-bottom boat for the Santa Catalina Island Company to be named the Princess also is progressing rapidly and the same yards it will have a length of 90 feet, 20 feet beam and will be equipped with plate-glass "wells" through which the submarine gardens may be viewed, and with powerful searchlights at the bottom of the boat to illuminate the gardens at night. The latter feature is one of the innovations which William Wrigley, Jr., personally instituted last summer, an experiment proving the gardens are thus enhanced in beauty and the light serves to attract hundreds of fish of great variety so closely that they may be viewed through the "wells." Mr. Stewart has just returned from the East in the interest of the companies, with which he has been the past ten years.

Keel also will be laid for the Wilmington Transportation Company's new million-dollar steamer Catalina at the Los Angeles Shipyards this week. The steamer Avalon also is back at the company's dock after two months at the Los Angeles Shipyards where she received new boilers and a new smokestack, and is undergoing remodeling of her ballroom, deck and passenger accommodations. She will resume service to Catalina within ten days—the Cabrillo will be laid up, and, later with the Hermosa, will undergo general overhaul.

Yachtsmen and other sportsmen are being solicited for membership in a new hunting club with headquarters at Ensenada. It is known as the Santa Clara Ninaroo Club and according to E. A. Morrison who arrived yesterday at Los Angeles Harbor aboard the Alija, has about 25,000 acres. Several lodges already have been erected on the tract, according to Morrison. David Zarate, former Mayor of Ensenada, is said to be one of the backers.

Six ancient schooners are being remodeled into Spanish galleons at the harbor for Frank Lloyd, Inc., for use in filming the famous sea yarn, "The Sea Hawk," written by the popular author, Rafael Sabatini. Several hundred thousand dollars are being spent on the vessels, it is said. The ships include the Esther Bushne, Miami, Murias and the Commada.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—The Oceanic liner Ventura sailed today for Sidney with 197 passengers and a capacity cargo. Company officials said it is planned as improved passenger and freight business to the Antipodes.

The Oceanic Company has closed negotiations for the purchase of the former steamer Sierra, now lying at the New York Shipbuilding Company's plant in New York. She was commandeered by the United States government during the war. It was believed that the Sierra will be sent here to undergo extensive reconditioning before again entering the service to Australia out of this port.

The steamer Nanking left here today for Tacoma to enter the drydock of the Todd Shipbuilding Company, where she will be reconditioned for the Admiral Line in forty-two days at a cost of $97,000. She will then run in the company's coastwise trade.

The Cunard liner Franconia sailed early today for Honolulu, continuing her round-the-world tour. She arrived here from New York Sunday.

Responses received from trade centers of the Atlantic, Midwest, Gulf and Pacific States to date indicate that the inauguration of the Dollar Steamship Company round-the-world service on January 5, when the liner President Harrison is scheduled to sail, will be attended by representatives from virtually every State in the Union, according to Chamber of Commerce officials here.

A. G. Bates, New York, arrived here today to assume the general managership of the Pan-Pacific Line, a new freight service to be established from Pacific Coast ports of the United States to the west coast of South America.

The New Electra Line steamer Chile was forced to return to her pier with the aid of two tugs an hour after she cleared for Portland today with passengers and freight. The vessel experienced trouble with her motors.

COOS BAY (Or.) Dec. 4.—The steamer City of Victoria sailed from here this morning having on board 2,000,000 feet of lumber. The steamer is bound for the Columbia River to finish her cargo.

The gasoline schooner Prairie arrived off the bar from Rogue River this afternoon and tried the bar but found it too rough for entry. She is lying off the harbor until tomorrow.

SEATTLE, Dec. 4.—Being delayed in the north by heavy easterly gales, the steamship Northwestern of the Alaska Steamship Company will arrive here Thursday more than two days late, according to announcement today by local agents. Included among the Northwestern's passengers in land here will be nine officers and forty-one survivors of the crew of the Japanese steamship Shinkoku Maru, which was wrecked November 28 on the coast of Montague Island, Prince William Sound.

The vessel will discharge a large cargo of freight here including copper ore loaded at Cordova, Alaska, and ridnight.

Seattle representatives of Alexander & Baldwin, Limited, northwest agents for the Matson Navigation Company, announced today that they had abandoned plans for passenger service from Seattle to the Orient via Hawaii in conjunction with the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, pending action on the proposed service by the trans-Pacific passenger conference in San Francisco. Under the new arrangement, passengers from here for the Orient could have included Hawaii in their itinerary.

The steamship Alaska, of the Alaska Steamship Company, which has been undergoing extensive repairs and inspection, will resume service to the north, sailing from here December 15, it was announced today.

The steamship Victoria, which took the Alaska's place while she was being overhauled, will take the place of the steamship Alameda sailing December 17, when the latter vessel will be up for repairs.

With 4 large shipment of holiday offerings from oriental ports valued at more than $1,000,000, exclusive of the cargo of silk, the steamship Ilyo Maru of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha Company arrived here today.

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Dec. 4.—The steamship Khyber, of the Admiral Oriental Line, will sail from here tomorrow with a cargo of 1,250,000 feet of logs and lumber, 1000 tons of wheat and 500 tons of herring.

The steamship Cyprus will arrive here tomorrow to load 1,000,000 feet of lumber and 2000 tons of general cargo.

EVERETT (Wash.) Dec. 4.—After visiting almost every country in the world that has a seaport, the British tramp steamer King Cadwallon arrived here yesterday on her initial trip in Puget Sound waters.

The King Cadwallon was built in Hongkong in 1920 for the British government. It was sold later to a Greek shipping concern, sailing under the name of Stathis. Last June the name was changed to King Cadwallon to conform with color ships of the American Trading Company. She is the sister ship to the King Idwal, which will call here for a lumber cargo soon. She will load a cargo of lumber destined to Sydney and Melbourne. She is scheduled to sail from Port Angeles for Australia December 21.

PORT TOWNSEND, Dec. 4.—Encountering heavy weather in the straits just outside of this port, the tug Warrior was compelled to return here today. The tug was en route to Port Angeles to tow a barge loaded with paper to Seattle.

ASTORIA (Or.) Dec. 4.—After discharging freight in Portland the steamer Charles H. Cramp sailed this morning for Seattle.

The steamer Wapama with a cargo of lumber from St. Helens sailed this morning for Los Angeles Harbor.

The steam schooner Rosalie Mahoney with lumber from Kalama and Portland sailed this afternoon for Los Angeles Harbor.

The steam schooner Willamette arrived this morning from San Francisco and went to St. Helens to load lumber.

PORTLAND, Dec. 4.—Portland's in and outbound domestic water commerce for the first eleven months of this year totalled 2,379,531 tons, valued at $169,653,647, a healthy growth over the corresponding figures of 1,677,959 tons valued at $121,815,432 for 1922. The figures are compiled from Merchants' Exchange records.

Ship clearances for the first eleven months of this year totalled 1274 vessels, with a tonnage of 2,630,256 in comparison with 1970 vessels of a tonnage of 2,884,397 during the first eleven months of 1922.

The Wawalona which was delayed several days with engine trouble, left today for the Orient with a capacity cargo of lumber, cereal and mixed freight.

The supply of lumber ships in trans-Pacific business, adequate for the past several months, will be taxed to at least the limit during the present month and through January, according to estimates made by leading local sawmill operators today.

This situation will be true throughout Oregon and Washington in the case of nearly all export lumber cutting mills, the Portland operators say. Mills will start operations within the next ten days for annual overhauling. Some will be closed throughout December and the first part of January. Others will close early in January. In some cases plants will be closed for six weeks.

TACOMA, Dec. 4.—The Ruth Alexander arrived today with general cargo from California ports.

The Cadaretta arrived tonight with general freight from California.

The Africa Maru returned today from Vancouver, B. C., to complete loading.

The Orthrya departed this afternoon for Australia, with lumber.

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The productive area of the Torrance field was proven to extend one mile farther east yesterday with the blowing in of Sentinel Joughin No. 1, located south of the old Redondo-Long Beach road. The nearest producing well is the Superior Oil Company's Torrance No. 8, one mile to the westward.

Sentinel Joughin No. 1 blew in while the drillers were baling for a shut-off test. The well is drilled to 3632 feet and was cemented at that depth, the drill having penetrated a short distance into oil-bearing formation. The cement was drilled through and, while the crew was baling for the shut-off, the well blew in, spurting oil over the derrick. It is the second well in the Torrance field to blow in, the first being the Midway Northern well, one and a half miles west, also located on the old Redondo-Long Beach road.

Drillers killed Sentinel Joughin No. 1 as quickly as possible, owing to the necessity for drilling deeper into the oil formation. It was estimated that when the well is put on production it probably will be about a 2000-barrel well.

The Standard Oil Company is setting the oil string in a well located 1800 feet directly north of Sentinel Joughin No. 1 which drillers expect to put on production before the end of the week. This well is cemented at 3556 feet and is drilled more than 200 feet into oil formation. Production is being held back pending the construction of tanks to receive the oil. Observers of this part of the field expect the well to prove a good producer.

Another well put on production in the Torrance field yesterday was U. S. Royalties No. 5, located on Fir street, near the Superior Oil Company's Torrance No. 8. This well came in with a flow estimated at 2000 barrels. It is drilled to 3755 feet, was cemented at 3520, and contains 225 feet of 8¼-inch perforated casing and 3500 feet of three-inch tubing.

Superior's Torrance No. 8, the nearest well to the Sentinel Joughin No. 1, is producing between 1500 and 1900 barrels daily from a depth of 3800 feet. It is cemented at 3529 feet.

While some of the biggest gasoline producers in Southern California anticipate another reduction in the price of gasoline, government reports indicate that conditions, from the refiners' standpoint, are showing some improvement.

One of the most prominent oil men in the West stated a few days ago that he did not think the price of California crude would be cut again in the near future, but that he wouldn't be at all surprised if gasoline took another drop.

Production of gasoline in the United States in October amounted to 659,960,570 gallons, constituting a new monthly record, states the Department of the Interior as a result of statistics compiled by the geological division.

Notwithstanding this report, gasoline stocks on hand at refineries November 1 amounted to but 946,872,683 gallons, a decrease of 25,572,149 gallons as compared with October 1.

Gasoline in storage November 1 amounted to 41.6 days' supply at the October rate of demand. In comparison with the situation on Nov. 1, 1922, the bureau of mines' current figures show an increase of 20 per cent in the new supply of gasoline, an increase of 32 per cent in the total demand, and an increase of 31 per cent in the refinery stocks taken on the gallon basis.

The statistics indicate a substantial improvement in the gasoline situation from the refiners' point of view. The surplus stocks have been reduced to normal, taking into consideration the increases in supply and demand. Both foreign and domestic demand are holding up well for this time of the year, and in addition the total demand is in excess of the new supply.

To Oil Convention

R. A. Broomfield of the Powder Oil Company and L. H. Johnson of the Pensoil Company are leaving the city today for St. Louis as the vanguard of a delegation of Pacific Coast oil men who will attend the fourth annual convention of the American Petroleum Institute at the Statler Hotel in St. Louis, the 11th, 12th and 13th inst. Broomfield and Johnson will stop over at Tulsa for a few days before going on to St. Louis.

Thomas A. O'Donnell of Los Angeles, president of the American Petroleum Institute, will be one of the principal spekaers of the convention. During the session matters of general interest to the industry will be considered, including the production and market situations, the begring of conditions in Europe on the general situation, and similar subjects.

Special group meetings will be conducted for the discussion of pipeline, ship and rail transportation problems, the improvement and standardization of drilling methods and equipment, and other matters of technical nature.

Use New Principle

An interesting experiment is being used by the E. G. Lewis drillers in attempting to place Illustrated Review No. 1 in Signal Hill field back on production, according to reports from the field. The principle of gas pressure exerted from outside the tubing is involved in the experiment, which is said to be the first of its kind in Los Angeles basin fields.

The plan involves the introduction of tubing into the casing tapping the oil sands. Gas pressure is then exerted from the casing head into the casing outside the tubing. According to theory this process should push the oil up the tubing to the surface.

Refuses to Flow

The Sanchez well of the Standard Oil Company at Los Nietos, is resisting efforts of the drillers to force a flow, it is reported from the field. The well blew in unexpectedly about ten days ago, it is said, but was killed pending construction of storage facilities, and when the drillers attempted to put the well on production again, it refused to flow.

"SAY, FOLKS"

Do you know the initials of the sturdiest little old Oil Corporation in this "Beauty State" of ours? "J. P. C., that's her."

Sturdy I said, and you know what sturdy means, "STRONG," "HEALTHY," "WHOLESOME" They can tell you all kinds of funny stories about our progress and financial standing, but let me whisper to you that your C. C. knows where he's at every minute.

After all when you boil it down to the last analysis, it's "the old pay-off" to you that's going to make the worthwhile noise, and those that think I won't be there are crazy.

It looks like a safe bet right now that inside of a few weeks, the "Julian Pete" will be loading into tankers at the Harbor, thirty to fifty thousand barrels of crude oil a day, and taking at least a fifty-cent a barrel profit on every barrel we handle.

"Food for thought," so give it the once over in your mind, and perhaps you might decide to grab a few "Julian shares" while the grabbing is good, because it won't be ever thus.

SANTA FE PUTS CARDS FACE UP

President Takes Public Into Corporate Confidence

Secrets of Star Chamber No Longer Tolerated

Hoover's Assistant Locates Here; World Traders

In his first public statement since his announcement that he would "turn editor," and through the medium of the printed page, seek to inform the public correctly on transportation problems, W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, says:

"Incorrect and misleading statements are being made quite frequently in speeches and partisan publications and occasionally in newspaper and magazine editorials and articles as to the value of railway property, the cost of railroad operation, the revenues received from the operation of the railroads, the distribution thereof, and as to freight and passenger rates and fares. Such statements are sometimes due to lack of information or to misinformation, but many of them are made with the knowledge of the fact that they are untrue, for the purpose of obtaining political or personal preferment, or to prejudice the employees of the railroads against the management, and to prejudice the public against the private operation of railroads, for the purpose of bringing about government ownership."

Here are a few of the facts given in President Storey's first bulletin:

The Santa Fe System Companies operate 11,706 miles of railroad, of which 11,519 are owned by the Santa Fe. In addition the company owns one-half of the capital stock of the Northwestern Pacific Railway Company, which owns and operates from San Francisco to Eureka and Trinidad, Cal., a distance of 317 miles. The Santa Fe also owns one-half the capital stock of the Sunset Railway, operating fifty miles of railroad. The Santa Fe also owns 1101 miles of second track, six miles of four-main track, and 4424 miles of yard tracks and sidings. Its mileage is located in twelve States, as follows:

Illinois, 282 miles; Iowa, twenty miles; Missouri, 270 miles; Kansas, 2873 miles; Oklahoma, 1180 miles; New Mexico, 1408 miles; Louisiana, sixty-four miles; Colorado, 507 miles; Texas, 2583 miles; Arizona 869 miles; Nevada, 12 miles, and California, 1451 miles.

The Santa Fe System Lines have stock in numerous terminals and depot companies. The Santa Fe owns 2102 locomotives, 74,151 freight cars, 1561 passenger cars, 4823 work cars and work equipment units.

The Santa Fe owns all of the shares of capital stock of the affiliated system companies.

On December 31, 1922, the outstanding capital stock of the Santa Fe System was 3,512,260 shares of the par value of $100 each, aggregating $351,226,000, of which 2,270,525 shares are common stock paying dividends at the rate of $6 per share per anuum, and 1,241,737 are preferred stock paying dividends at the rate of $5 per share per annum. The total funded debt of the Santa Fe System Lines on the above date was $287,732,594. The total capitalization including common and preferred stock and funded debt was $639,,048,794. Investment in road and equipment December 31, 1922 was $824,018,724.

The holders of common stock on that date numbered 41,845, and preferred stockholders 22,795.

The average number of employes of the Santa Fe in 1922 was 67,171, their average hourly compensation was 60 cents, their average annual compensation $1552.64, and their total compensation amounted to $104,202,571.30.

The Santa Fe taxes for 1922 were approximately $18,400,000, $2,800,000 of that amount being due to the abnormal conditions resulting from a settlement during that year with the United States for the period of Federal control.

ENTERS LAW FIRM

W. C. Mullendore of Washington, D. C., who since early in the administration of President Harding, has been assistant to Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, has resigned his position with the department to practice law in Los Angeles. He will be associated with the firm of Fredericks & Hanna, the senior member of which firm is Congressman John D. Fredericks.

Mr. Mullendore recently came to Los Angeles on a vacation trip and also to make an unofficial study of the oil and commercial development in Southern California with special reference to their relations to the problems handled by the Department of Commerce. He will act as the Los Angeles counsel of the Pacific Steel Corporation, of which T. T. C. Gregory of San Francisco is the general counsel. Because of his long experience in Washington and his familiarity with government departments, Mullendore will also give special attention to legal problems which require handling with the Federal government.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Seasonal Signs of Prosperity; Too Much Livestock; Retail Sales Activity; Credit Situation

A seasonal but potent indication of prosperity is found in the balance sheets that many industries are now publishing covering their year's business. Every day the financial columns of the Times contain accounts of declared dividends and increased annual earnings, particularly in industrials. In the stock market trading is healthy and either reflects, forecasts or discounts, according to the point of view, this condition.

In the packing industry the current Armour's Magazine reports a fair month despite the vast numbers of live animals that have come to market. It is said that about 9,000,000 more hogs have arrived this year than last; a condition that is unprecedented.

The same authority says that the packer has met and is meeting these abnormal receipts and is taking the animals and paying cash for them day in and day out, and while it would be impossible to dispose of all that meat on the market now, it is obvious that labor has been pretty well employed to permit the absorption of such huge quantities of meat as have been absorbed this year. Of course large quantities of the product are going into the cellars but the farmer continues to find a daily active market for his hogs. The prospects are that receipts this month will continue to be abnormally large and some difficulty will be met in efforts to prevent the market from breaking under its own weight.

The volume of carloadings continues to be tremendous showing that there has been no abatement in the purchase of commodities. Reports from savings banks throughout the nation indicate a healthful increase in total deposits. Building activities continue brisk and the seasonal decline in sections usually affected by bad weather conditions is less than had been expected. Wages in most lines continue high. In the Los Angeles district there is the usual winter signs of over-supply due to the heavy influx from other parts of the country. Collections are good.

CLOUDING THE ISSUE

Early activities of the new Congress were not very reassuring and the speculative market has paused to await developments. Business men generally would be well pleased if the law-making body would adjust the nation's tax laws in accordance with the suggestions made by Secretary Mellon, and then take a long recess.

The radicals are apparently in a position to do considerable damage, and as an example of the existing state of mind, there is a distrust of the future of the rails because it is feared that Washington, always given to railroad baiting, will now consider a great number of bills designed to further hamper the operation of transportation lines. All that the railroads are now asking is a period of freedom from destructive legislation, and it would be to the interest of the country were the agitation suppressed for a time on the part of those who seem to consider the railroads an object of a continued and relentless attack.

So far as the tax measures are concerned the Mechanics and Metals National Bank sums the situation up accurately when it says in its December Business Letter:

"It is the simple fact that existing tax schedules have resulted in definite harm to the country as a whole, and have about defeated their purpose, that leads to the present demands for adjustment. The need for supplying the money necessary for the government has consequently fallen back on the small taxpayer. Seven years ago, in 1916, one out of every 337 income-tax payers in the country was in the so-called higher surtax brackets, paying a tax on an income in excess of $300,000. In 1921, one out of every 22,000 income-tax payers made returns on an income over that sum. The inference is clear. Tax payers who considered surtaxes confiscatory have withdrawn their capital from productive business that was taxable and have invested it instead in tax-exempt securities or adopted other lawful methods of avoiding the realization of taxable income.

"The economies effected in the operation of the government warrant a reduction in the collection of revenues, and Congress has been shown how that reduction should be made, and where: The best interests of the country recommend the plan that has been put forward; its adoption would be a long step in the right direction."

RETAIL SALES GAIN

Gains in the sales volume in October in department stores throughout the country were very nearly at the same rate as in September, according to T. L. Blanke, controllers' congress of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Increases in sales in the women's ready-to-wear and piece-goods departments, as reflected in the association's departmental sales barometer, are with few exceptions of a satisfactory nature.

Sales in the ready-to-wear departments for the month of October were in most instances a trifle smaller than in the preceding month. The gains and losses in these departments for October over 1922 were as follows: coats, 15 per cent; suits, 3 per cent (decline); skirts, 12 per cent; dresses, 9 per cent; misses' wear, 5 per cent; furs, 2 per cent (decline); juniors and girls, 3 per cent; waists, 3 per cent (decline); sweaters, 12 per cent; millinery, 1 per cent (decline).

For the year 1923 to the end of October, the women's-apparel departments show the following gains over the same period in 1922; coats, 14 per cent; suits, 4 per cent; dresses, 15 per cent; misses' wear, 15 per cent; furs, 12 per cent; juniors and girls, 10 per cent; waists, 3 per cent; sweaters, 8 per cent; millinery, 7 per cent. A comparison of the October figures with the year to date shows that there is a pronounced difference in favor of the averages for the year.

In the piece-goods departments, dress goods are in the lead for the month of October with a gain over 1922 of 20 per cent. This department also led in September. Silks and velvets are again in second place with a gain of 11 per cent. Domestics are third with 9 per cent and linens last with 8 per cent.

The report for the year to date in these departments shows that silks and velvets have a gain of 19 per cent, dress goods, 19 per cent, domestics, 7 per cent and linens 6 per cent. There is practically no change in the relative gains of these departments from the previous report issued a month ago.

BOND INTEREST

While the subject of tax reform is of primary importance a commendable advance toward simplification has been achieved during the last few years in the matter of administering the income tax, and one of the most recent changes in procedure is intended to simplify the collection of bond interest.

After the passage of the Revenue Act of 1921, the Bureau of Internal Revenue omitted the requirement that domestic corporations file certificates in collecting bond interest. Corresponding relief was recently extended individual citizens and residents who own foreign stocks and bonds not containing a tax-free covenant clause. The use of ownership certificates is now required of citizens and residents only with respect to interest from bonds under which debtor corporations agree to assume a portion of the income tax. Certificates are still required of nonresident alien owners in collecting domestic interest items.

CREDIT SITUATION

The Credit Clearinghouse weekly report shows purchasing throughout the country at practically the same level as a week ago. There is a decrease at large of 0.6 per cent.

The Pacific Coast section records increased purchasing in California and Oregon, with less buying in Washington. There is a marked increase, equal to 3.0 per cent in the Mountain section, responding to the large output of copper.

The North agricultural section shows less active buying in all States, while the middle agricultural section is almost even with last week. In the South agricultural section purchasing is still active, although there is a slight decline from last week. Purchasing throughout the East section was almost even with the preceding week.

Collections continue good throughout the country with some slowness in the Mountain section.

Material Costs Falling; Upward Trend Prevails in Stock Market

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions in its current issue says in part:

"Further progress is being made in laying foundations for prosperity. Costs of materials are falling, as illustrated by about twice as many declines as advances in Dun's weekly quotations of commodities. Labor costs at the moment are still rising, but are bound to decline later in consequence of the slowly growing unemployment. Interest rates have fallen considerably.

"Radical politicians control seven votes in the Senate, and about thirty in the House, so that owing to the fairly equal membership of the old parties they hold the balance of power. Indications are, too, that in the next Parliament the Labor party is likely to hold the balance of power.

"As to the stock market, brokers and professional traders rather generally believe in the upward movement upon the basis of reputed bullish opinions and operations of leading men, while economists do not believe in it because the rise has no foundation in trade improvement. However, these non-economic rallies or recoveries not founded upon business betterment have often occurred in the past; have usually run from a few days to a few months, and have amounted as an average to about 10 3-8 points.

"Comparison of the lowests of 1923 with the lowests of 1921 in the average prices of twenty-seven different groups of stocks discloses that nine of these groups were recently down around the 1921 lowests. Nearly all of the deflated stocks, however, with the exception of coppers and non-dividend rails, are in a very weak earning position."

COTTON SNAPS BACK AFTER EARLY LOSSES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The cotton futures list recovered most of its losses after an early break of some $5 a bale today. The severe decline reported from Liverpool induced heavy selling by various interests in the New York market but trade and speculative buying caused a sharp recovery in the afternoon after a period of comparative steadiness around mid-day. The undertone was distinctly good at the close and final prices were but 9 to 17 points net lower. The trade was a moderate buyer in the last hour when demand from shorts and sold out bulls continued active and inspired the rally.

Spot cotton was quiet, 10 points decline, 36.65 for middling upland.

Southern spot: Galveston 35.80, 10 points decline; New Orleans, 35.35, 37 points decline; Savannah, 35, 20 points decline; Augusta, 34.88, 12 points decline; Memphis, 35.50, unchanged; Houston, 35.25, 15 points decline; Little Rock, 35, unchanged.

GOLD

Do you remember the story of the coat that stood on London Bridge from dawn till dusk, vainly trying to give away GOLD Sovereigns? The crowd was too "wise" to INVESTIGATE. It was too good to be true. Otherwise the Bank of England would not have had enough GOLD to meet the eager demand. Failure to INVESTIGATE has kept many men from FORTUNE.

The limited offering of Standard Oil Mining Co. stock at 50c per share seems like giving away real GOLD at a very few cents on the dollar. Not a PROSPECT but a real GOLD MINE, in a proven California GOLD district; already with a production record of millions and with glittering GOLD veins which appear capable of more MILLIONS; with transportation at hand, electric equipment and only 30 feet additional development required to bring "high grade" production from five rich and known veins.

Add to your interest, 75% of the PROFITS from GOLD every 60 days is DIVIDENDS which, under present ruling, are exempt from Federal income and surtaxes.

WILL YOU cross the Bridge of OPPORTUNITY or will you INVESTIGATE? All we ask—we DARE you—to INVESTIGATE. For this purpose our office is open this evening till 9 o'clock. See or call Mr. Sadler. Make him PROVE that this is the best GOLD offering available TODAY. Or use the COUPON. IT will bring you the PROOF.

Please send me full particulars without obligation about Standard GOLD Mining Stock.

BOND QUOTATIONS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The listed bond market continued fairly active today, but traders reported that over the counter trading had slowed down somewhat. Prices generally were firm with chief interest centered in the more speculative bonds.

Much of the buying in the railroad group and in the domestic industrials, for that matter, was influenced by the movement of the affiliated stocks. Thus Erie bonds moved to higher ground, the general 4s climbing more than a point.

Bidding for public utility liens slowed down perceptibly with the result that a considerable number of those bonds sagged slightly.

Little interest was displayed in foreign government bonds which moved irregularly with a firm undertone. Active bidding for the American Liberties caused those bonds to display considerable strength in the forenoon, but scarcity of buyers later resulted in recessions, a few of the bonds closing below yesterday's final figures.

While confirmation was lacking, reports were current in the financial district that the Pennsylvania Railroad contemplates an issue of around $100,000,000 in general mortgage bonds within the next thirty days.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Following are the closing quotations on bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Furnished by Logan & Bryan, 636 South Spring street.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Injection of new enthusiasm into the trading in stocks and bonds was apparent yesterday on Los Angeles Stock Exchange. Bond prices were somewhat firmer under the influence of a broadening demand, while stock prices were disposed to fluctuate uncertainly.

Moderate-sized dealings in Globe Petroleum took place at 15 cents, off 1 cent from the final price of the previous session. Demand for Shell Union forced the market quotation up 1-8 of a point to 15 1-8, while United Oil declined a like amount to 22 3-4. Finishing at 40 1-2, U. S. Royalties advanced 1-2 cents. General Petroleum was quiet and unchanged at 33.

United Eastern resumed its downward course, and closed at a new low of 98, representing a loss of 6 cents. Tom Reed was actively bought on a rising market that took the price up 1 1-2 cents to 63. Telluride was ahead 1-2 cent at 22, while Gold Dust was firm at 7 1-2 cents.

General Petroleum and Union Oil bonds were active at stronger prices. General Petroleum 7s of 1931 climbed 3-8 of a point at 103 7-8, and Union Oil 6s of 1925 ascended 1-8 to 99 1-8. San Joaquin Light and Power series C 6s of 1950 advanced 1-4 to 97, and Pacific Gas and Electric 6s of 1941 were unchanged at 100 5-8. Southern California Gas 6s of 1950 sold at 96.

Wheat Offers Poor Response to New Buying

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Considering the heavy and persistent buying of wheat for several days by houses with eastern connections and the short covering operations, the wheat market was regarded as having made a rather poor response. Prices moved up to from the finish of the previous day into new ground on the present upturn, and finished ⅝@⅞c higher. Jackson Brothers, and Logan & Bryan led the buying, while there was free selling by a local house which was a liberal buyer in Winnipeg, closing spreads. The latter market gained ⅝@1c. Chicago dragged, as compared with Minneapolis, which was up 1⅝@1¾c, and the Southwest gained ⅝@1¼c.

Cash houses were on the buying side of December corn, which gained ⅛c on the May, selling at ⅛c under early, but closed around 1c under, gaining ⅝c, while deferred deliveries were ⅛c higher. Oats were up ⅛@⅜c and rye advanced ⅛@⅝c.

There is a growing belief that something bullish will come out of Washington shortly, and part of the buying during the day was based on this. There is a change in sentiment, with a more friendly feeling toward the buying side and less disposition to sell on the part of the local element, except on the bulges. Government reports showed that exports of wheat from the United States from July 1 to October 30, aggregate 99,000,000 bushels, or 43,000,000 bushels less than last year, but the total was larger than expected and had some effect.

It is said that part of the liberal domestic exports include considerable Canadian wheat ground in bond and exported as American product. Export demand from abroad remains slow. Liverpool closed ⅛@⅝d higher.

Oat prices are gradually advancing, with the market at the best figures in several weeks. Local sentiment is rather bullish, but there is an absence of outside trade. Receipts, sixty-four cars.

There was no material pressure on rye, but speculative interest was not as large as recently, and the market lagged somewhat as compared with wheat. Little was heard regarding export business.

Follette Trial Delayed to Get New Evidence

The trial of Channing Follette, former presiding justice of Los Angeles Township, was adjourned yesterday by Judge Reeve to January 2, in order that depositions may be obtained from defense witnesses who are out of the State and who are expected to swear there is such a person as the Mr. Rollins said to have been referred to by Follette in testimony before the Grand Jury.

Follette demanded that he be placed on trial tomorrow on the charge of attempted bribery but Dep. Dist. Atty. Clark said the District Attorney had elected to go to trial first with the perjury charge. Follette and his counsel, Paul Schenk, both declared they were anxious to get the cases cleared up as soon as possible. They said, however, they had just received the transcript of the evidence given when Follette was re-indicted November 26 and could not go ahead on the perjury trial until they got the depositions they needed. Both cases were set for the 6th inst. some time ago.

CCUSED BOOTLEGGERS FACE BRIBERY TRIAL

RAND JURY INDICTS TWO CHARGED WITH OFFERING MONEY TO ESCAPE

Two indictments charging bribery of police officers on the part of asserted bootleggers were returned yesterday by the county grand jury.

One of the indictments accused Inosaka, a Japanese, of attempting to buy his freedom the 2d inst., from Patrolman T. J. Flynn, who had him under arrest for violation of the Wright Act. Inosaka was said to have given the officer $225 in an effort to secure his release.

The second indictment charged Ide Skermetti with similarly trying to purchase his release November 24, last, from Patrolman Charles Wykoff for the sum of $150. In each case bail was set by Judge Avery at $5000.

FREEHOLDERS FOR UNITY IN TRAFFIC REGULATION

Charter Amendment, Approved, to Give Complete Authority to Single Board

Unity of action in dealing with the traffic problem was given official approval by the Board of Freeholders last night in adopting an amendment to the new charter which directs the City Council either to form a Municipal Traffic Commission or to delegate powers of traffic regulation to either the Board of Public Works or the Board of Public Utilities.

The action came as a compromise with the Los Angeles Traffic Foundation, a civic organization, which had proposed the consolidation of the Public Works and Public Utilities Board.

The Freeholders, however, provided that the Municipal Traffic Commission, if created, be checked by the Council with the provision that no recommendation of the body could be enforced without the approval of a majority of the Council.

COUNCIL ALSO CHECKED

The Council, likewise, will be checked by the provision that it will be unable to initiate a regulatory measure without a two-thirds vote of all members of the Council.

A committee headed by Paul G. Hoffman from the present organized traffic commission urged the board to organize into one bureau, in a manner which, all matters pertaining to street construction, maintenance and operation. Mr. Hoffman said members of the Commission after two years' study were almost unanimous that this could be done as the only way out of the city's traffic difficulties. He argued that the present city department having to do with this matter—Works, Utilities and the City Council—could not possibly function in unity, although in themselves they may be efficient and that unity was essential.

BOARDS INTERLOCK

He said that in the laying out of streets, maintaining them, tearing them up and the regulation of traffic after they were completed and repaired the boards interlocked and that one board must have authority and specialization so as to see the complete problem, now only viewed in fractions by the various city bodies.

The action of the Freeholders in giving the City Council the alternative of forming an entirely new traffic body or else giving the powers to one of the existing boards, follows the advice of Mr. Hoffman and his associates, although it leaves the matter with the Council rather than as part of the new charter, as desired.

The Freeholders' meeting in the afternoon refused, by a vote of 11 to 10, to consolidate the public works and public utilities boards. However, at the evening meeting, the subject was re-opened by Franklin D. Howell and his motion, as adopted, was carried with but one dissenting vote, John S. Fluer voting in opposition.

PROPOSAL FAILS

The proposal of William Mead to create a Municipal Housing Commission to finance the building of homes, was brought up for an informal vote at the request of Orra E. Monnette, and failed to carry when E. P. Clark and

ZONING LAW EDICT TO BE GIVEN SOON

Second Court of Appeals Ordered to Pass on Issue on 17th Inst.

The legality of the Los Angeles zoning ordinance will be determined before Second District Court of Appeals at Los Angeles the 17th inst., according to an order of the State Supreme Court issued yesterday at San Francisco.

The order was issued in the form of an alternative writ of mandate, directed to the City of Los Angeles, in an action brought by A. C. Blumenthal and Joseph Schenck, demanding that city officials approve plans for the construction of an apartment house on Hollywood Boulevard and La Brea avenue, which plans had been refused approval, and a building permit denied, because the zoning ordinance forbids such a structure in that locality.

The plaintiffs are represented by Attorney Milton Cohen.

On November 8 last, Cohen filed an application in the Second District Court of Appeals here for a writ of mandate compelling city officials to grant the permit. This writ was denied by the court. Then, on November 27 last, a similar application was filed in the State Supreme Court and was argued last week.

At a late hour yesterday afternoon, according to telegraphic advices from San Francisco, the Supreme Court granted the alternative writ which will led to the final ruling.

WAMPAS BALL BOYCOTTS CITY

Film Publicity Men Fail to Long-Hour Permit

Will Take Annual Affair to Other Town

Movement in Protest of Police Board Grows

The Wampas ball, regarded as one of the major social events of the season in motion-picture circles, will be held "somewhere in California" in 1924. That "somewhere" will not be within the city limits of Los Angeles.

Such was the announcement of officials of the Wampas, officially known as the Western Motion Picture Advertisers' Association, yesterday following the refusal of the Police Commission to grant permission to conduct dancing after midnight on February 23, the date set for the ball.

The Police Commission denied the application of the organization for extension of the dancing time limit at its regular meeting yesterday morning and immediately thereafter officers and members of the motion-picture press organization began to make plans for giving the annual ball elsewhere. It was stated last night that the affair probably would be given either in San Francisco or Pasadena.

CITE PAST PERMITS

The request for permission to conduct dancing after midnight came before the commission in a formal communication addressed to that body of officials of the Wampas and was the subject of an extended discussion on the part of members of the Commission and representatives of the motion-picture organization.

Following the reading of the communication Mayor Cryer announced that the Police Commission had no power to grant such a request. Ray Leek, speaking for the Wampas, stated that the organization had been granted an extension of time last year and the year previous and the organization was only following precedent in making the request for the coming ball.

"Do you mean to tell me that a request of this kind ever has been officially granted by this organization?" the Mayor asked.

Mr. Leek replied that permission in the past came either from the Commission or the current Chief of Police but he was uncertain as to the exact responsibility.

WAS UNOFFICIAL

Mayor Cryer then asked Charles McKeag, secretary to the Commission, if he ever remembered of such action on the part of the Commission.

"No official action," McKeag replied, "but unofficially—"

RIGID DANCE POLICY SCORED

Advertising Club Calls Commission's Attention to Fact That City Now is Metropolis

Following an address by Sol Lesser, vice-president of the West Coast Theaters, Inc., and president of Principal Pictures Corporation in which he criticises the "discriminatory" action of the Police Commission in ordering the Picture Directors' ball closed at midnight, the Advertising Club, at a luncheon at the Biltmore Hotel yesterday, unanimously passed a resolution favoring more liberal civic policy in regard to regulations on dancing.

The resolution, which was first adopted by the board of directors and then submitted to the club members as a body, was as follows:

"Be it resolved that the Advertising Club express its desire that in the enactment and enforcement of local rules, regulations and ordinances, those public officials engaged in exercising such functions will be impressed with the fact that Los Angeles is a metropolitan center and a community of big interests and that it should be too broad to give countenance to regulations and sumptuary ordinances imposing unnecessary restrictions."

Pointing to the fact that the romantic business of making motion pictures represents an investment of more than $2,750,000,000 in America, Mr. Lesser said that the cinema industry in Los Angeles alone during 1922 showed an expenditure of $140,000,000, and predicted that statistics for 1923 will reveals a local expenditure of more than $200,000,000.

STONE MARKS CITY GROWTH

Officials and Prominent Men in Profession Meet at Realty Board Building Ceremonies

The placing of a granite block on Flower street near Sixth street yesterday afternoon marked another advance in the growth of Los Angeles. It was the laying of the corner-stone of the new home of the Los Angeles Realty Board, a ceremony attended by almost the entire membership of the board and by several city and county officials.

Attendant to the corner-stone-laying, a series of short addresses were made by past and present board officials and by Mayor Cryer, telling of the part the organization has taken in the expansion of the city, and the part it will take in the future.

TELLS OF GROWTH

Mayor Cryer told how, thirty years ago, no person could be found with enough courage to predict that Los Angeles would have grown so rapidly as it actually has in the past thirty years. It was the spirit of boost, enterprise and industry and such bodies as the realty board that made it so, he said.

Herbert Burdette, the first secretary of the Los Angeles Realty Board, reviewed the early days of the board, its growth and its achievements. He also called to mind the history of Los Angeles twenty years ago, its tiny business section and its small-town proportions.

Following the introduction of prominent figures in the board, records of the organization were placed in a copper receptacle and imprisoned beneath the huge granite block.

Irwin G. Hart, president of the Los Angeles Realty Board, manipulated the trowel, assisted by Tom Ingersoll and the Mayor.

LUNCHEON SPEAKERS

Preceding the corner-stone ceremonies the regular luncheon of the board was held in the Elite Cafe, 423 South Flower street, and following the site of the new home for the realtors. The speakers were Dr. George Winfield Scott and County Supervisor J. H. Bean, who told of the traffic conditions in the city and county of Los Angeles.

Supervisor Bean told the realtors that present traffic congestion on the county roads will make a future bond issue to build more roads imperative.

"Such a bond issue is essential," he said. "One of the chief builders of Southern California has been our good roads. They have brought thousands of people to us and have increased property values. We should continue the building of these good roads."

HARBOR PROBLEM SOLVED

New Booking of Tonnage Plan Adopted Expected to Expedite Shipping at Local Port

One of the most important steps in the recent history of the Los Angeles Harbor was completed yesterday when members of the foreign trade committee of the Chamber of Commerce concluded work on the solution of the problem of booking freight for the local port. In the future all shipments booked to the local harbor will be billed Los Angeles Harbor and they will be held on "hold" tracks until the particular point of delivery at the harbor has been designated.

Previously there have been three distinct terminals at the harbor, namely Wilmington, San Pedro and East San Pedro. In order to bill shipments properly it was necessary that a shipper in the East or Middle West know exactly in what part of the harbor these terminals are located and their relation to the vessels to which his shipments were consigned.

APPROVAL ANTICIPATED

Under the present plans, which need only the approval of governmental bodies having control of tariff matters, no confusion will result as all tonnage will be booked simply "Los Angeles Harbor," to be sent to the proper place in the harbor on its arrival there. In the past all shipments improperly directed occasioned delays and extra charges through switching.

No opposition to the plans is anticipated by members of the chamber's committee as it has been the practice of the governmental bodies in control of such matters to simplify shipping arrangements as much as possible.

As a result of the agreement it is thought that much export tonnage which has been going to other Pacific Coast ports will be handled through the Los Angeles Harbor. In the future tariff quotations will read "Los Angeles Harbor" and the shipper will not have to worry regarding the particular section of the port to which his material should go.

PROBLEM OLD ONE

During the rapid strides which have been taken during the past five years the problem solved yesterday has been one of the most perplexing of a traffic nature affecting Los Angeles. On numerous occasions it has been given consideration but it was not until some weeks ago that a solution seemed possible. At this time the entire matter was referred to members of the chamber's foreign trade committee who are executives of railroads serving the harbor.

The men who worked out the solution in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce and F. P. Gregson, secretary of the Associated Jobbers and the chamber's traffic manager, are T. J. Day, freight traffic manager of the Pacific Electric; H. E. Anewalt, general freight agent of the Santa Fe; Marius de Brabant, assistant freight traffic manager of the Union Pacific, and J. T. Saunders, assistant freight

FLEET SETS EARLY DATE FOR SAILING

Departure for Winter Rendezvous is Announced for January 2

The entire United States battle fleet will depart Los Angeles Harbor for winter rendezvous in the Caribbean Sea on the afternoon of January 2, next, according to a change in plans announced yesterday aboard the flagship California. The advanced date of departure has been made necessary by combined army and navy war maneuvers at the Panama Canal, which call for the arrival of the fleet at the Isthmus January 14.

The advance guard of the greatest fleet ever assembled under the American flag will depart San Diego for Coco Solo, Canal Zone, on the 27th inst. It will consist of the aircraft tenders Aroostook and Gannet and the collier Jason.

The main body of the fleet, consisting of ten superdreadnaughts under Vice-Admiral Henry A. Wiley—California, Maryland, Tennessee, New Mexico, Idaho, Mississippi, Arizona, New York, Nevada and Texas; thirty-seven destroyers under Rear-Admiral S. E. W. Kittelle, the entire force of the aircraft squadrons, battle fleet, in command of Capt. A. W. Marshall; the fleet base force under Rear-Admiral Jehu V. Chase and submarine divisions sixteen and seventeen, in command of Capt. G. C. Day, will assemble off this port January 2 and proceed directly to Panama, conducting maneuvers en route.

Two superdreadnaughts, the Pennsylvania and Oklahoma, will not accompany the fleet to the Caribbean but will late this month proceed to the navy yard, Puget Sound, for annual overhaul. They will rejoin the fleet upon its return to Los Angeles Harbor May 5, next.

The entire battle fleet will hold rehearsal exercises off this port on the 7th and 8th inst. in preparation for the winter maneuvers of the combined fleets. All forces, including aircraft, destroyers, submarines, train vessels and battleships, will be assembled here tomorrow evening.

BANDIT SUSPECTS INDICTED

Murder and Robbery Comprise Charges Against Members of Two Gangs of Asserted Crooks

The grand jury yesterday indicted two gangs of asserted bandits, captured by the police and Sheriff's office during the past week.

Jack Ferdinand, John Sears and "Smoky John" Geragac were indicted on charges of murder, the result of the killing the morning of November 27 of Charles A. Chapman. Howard Hanna and Arthur Goslin, termed by police the "Dumb-bell Bandits," were indicted on charges of robbery, the result of the hold-up Monday morning of G. W. Potter, cashier of the Pacific Electric car barns at Sherman.

Goslin, shot through the body and the right knee by Sergt. Frank Barnes of the Beverly Hills police, and Sergt. Z. J. Gruey of Hollywood, was on the operating table at the General Hospital last night when the indictment was returned. Surgeons despaired of his life. Hanna was shot in the right arm when the fugitives were discovered in the hills back of E. L. Doheny's home, and is also in the General Hospital.

Police yesterday discovered $294 of the stolen $4032, which left $353 still missing. The money was lost by the bandits when they made a blind dash into the hills after the robbery. Witnesses before the grand jury were Barnes, Gruey, Potter, Detective-Lieutenant Oker and Deputy Sheriffs Bright and Hunter.

Ferdinand was first indicted with Harold Fields and I. R. Robertoy on the charge of murdering Chapman, an insurance agent, during a robbery on South Park avenue. Sears and Geragac were taken into custody the next day and Sears confessed that it was he and Geragac who accompanied Ferdinand during the robbery.

Fields and Robertoy have been identified as having aided Ferdinand in the robbery of the post office at Triumfo, and, after the murder indictment is dismissed against them, they will be turned over to Federal authorities for prosecution on the Triumfo robbery, according to Chief Trial Deputy District Attorney Buron Fitts.

Ferdinand, Sears and Geragac are to be arraigned tomorrow morning, when the trial date is to be set. The death penalty will be asked for all three, Mr. Fitts said yesterday.

Deputy Sheriffs Townsend, Purrier, Catlin, Bright and Hunter gathered the evidence against the Ferdinand gang. It is believed that the men under arrest are responsible for a long record of robberies.

BEACH CITY VOTE LEADS FOR STEELE

Candidate in Mayoralty Race at Santa Monica is Running Ahead

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent.

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 4.—With returns from thirteen out of twenty-three precincts complete, John C. Steele tonight had established a comfortable lead in the race for Mayor of Santa Monica, indicating that he would be elected.

Of the three other candidates, Burt Kenaston was running second, Charles Heil, third, and Charles H. Brown, last.

Although 9000 voters were registered, only 5000 votes were cast. The vote on a $1,000,000 bond issue for improvements to the water system and construction of a new city library was close and it was impossible to predict tonight what the result would be.

Principal interest centered in the election of three Board of Education members, because of opposition to the policies of H. M. Rebok, present superintendent of schools. The three candidates who expressed opposition to Mr. Rebok were well in the lead on early returns.

City Engineer John A. Morton had a substantial lead for the post of Commissioner of Public Works. M. R. King, incumbent police judge, apparently had been re-elected over F. W. Shapleigh and C. M. Spencer.

PHONE COMPANY TO BUILD

Will Erect Costly Structure on Rampart Boulevard Near Seventh for New Central Office

To represent an initial expenditure of more than $1,600,000, and planned ultimately to be a limit-height structure, a new telephone central office will be erected on Rampart Boulevard between Seventh and Eighth streets, it was announced yesterday by N. A. Powley, commercial superintendent of the Southern California Telephone Company.

Preparations have been under way and the million dollar unit of equipment has been ordered for some months, according to Powley. Steel will arrive about January 1 on the site of the office which is to help serve the increasing population of the Wilshire district when completed. The site of the new structure adjoins the present Drexel telephone office.

The original height will be four stories and the design is such that stories can be added to the height limit as the Wilshire district becomes more densely populated, making necessary additional telephone facilities. As the district builds up, and the reserve space in the building is filled with equipment, another five stories will be added. Due to the nature of the telephone equipment, the ceilings will be higher than those of the average building, making nine stories reach to the 150-foot limit.

The building will be 134 feet long by eighty-two wide, of fireproof concrete and steel frame construction. The exterior will be face brick and terra cotta.

The original four stories will cost $350,000, and the first unit of equipment will mean an expenditure of $1,250,000. According to Mr. Powley, there will be room for at least two such units before it will be necessary to build additional stories.

MINISTERS RAID GROTTO CIRCUS; EIGHT ARRESTED

Presence of Police Prevents Riot at Closing of Asserted Gambling Games

Flanked by Acting Captain Massey of the vice squad and seven of his picked men, Dr. R. P. Shuler and Dr. Gustav A. Briegleb, ministers of the gospel, last night swooped upon the Jinnistan Grotto Circus at Washington and Hill streets and personally directed a raid that led to the arrest of eight men on the charges of conducting gambling.

The eight men were taken into custody by the police after Dr. Shuler and Dr. Briegleb pointed them out. One of the prisoners wandered away in the crowd and escaped. The remaining seven were taken under guard to Central Police Station and charged with having operated gambling games. Bail of $250 each was supplied by Harry Raymond and other Masons.

RIOT THREATENED

The prisoners gave their names as William Adams, 1244 Exposition Boulevard; R. C. Scaife, 837 West Fifteenth street; George French, 1506 Scot avenue; S. C. Carroll, Sequoia Hotel; George L. Crowder, 511 North York Boulevard; A. W. Angel, 3404½ Whittier Boulevard, and H. C. Marshall of 1100 Burnside street. It was when the prisoners were booked that the police discovered that one of the eight taken into custody had escaped. It was announced that a warrant will be issued for him today.

The prisoners had to be taken out of the circus through a dense crowd that for a time appeared to threaten trouble. Only the cool-headed work of Capt. Massey and his men prevented a disturbance.

Although the entrance of the clerical raiders was peaceful and was accompanied by the playing of several bands in the great tent, their departure was hasty and to the tune of lusty cat-calls and loud jeers. The near riot got under way when A. W. Shaw, managing director of the circus, mounted a counter of a raided booth and made a speech in which he told the crowd that the raid was instigated by Dr. Shuler and Dr. Briegleb and attacked Mayor Cryer and his administration.

"I want you people to know that this raid was engineered by our dear minister—what's his name (then some one yelled Shuler!)—Shuler, and our dear Brother Briegleb, here," he called out.

FRAME-UP CHARGED

As the hoots and jeers got louder the two ministers edged toward the exit.

"Let's go, Bob," was the last word heard from their direction as they disappeared through the canvas flaps.

The excitement started when Capt. Massey and his men gathered their prisoners in one of the raided booths and proceeded to gather up the evidence. Earlier in the evening Dr. Shuler and Dr. Briegleb entered the large tent and at once proceeded to play the different games in the tent. Arm in arm they strolled around, playing the games for about half an hour. Then, still arm in arm, they left and met the officers, detailed to the raid by Chief Vollmer, two blocks away. The policemen were then sent into the tent and placed some marked money in circulation. This task accomplished the officers returned and after a conference in Dr. Briegleb's automobile marched on the circus.

PRISONERS BOOKED

Capt. Massey asked the ministers to point out the men who were in charge of the booths when they played and the arrests were made.

The prisoners were booked at the Central Station to "Briegleb, Shuler and Massey."

Mr. Shaw, after the raid, charged that he was "double-crossed" in that he submitted a list of the games he intended to run to the City Prosecutor's office and was told that they would

COUPLE IN CELLS AS BIGAMISTS

Second Wife Tells Police They Decided to Wed, Then Get His Divorce

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Helen Power, 19 years of age, and Lemuel B. Wollston, 21, went through the form of a marriage ceremony, using a license obtained earlier in the day from the County Clerk's office.

Two hours later, the couple were occupying cells in the County Jail, charged with suspicion of bigamy. The person responsible for this sudden change in their position was Mrs. Mary Wollston, who says she is the wife of the groom. She told police that she has been living with Wollston for three years past at 802 East Adams street and that their matrimonial bonds have not been severed.

Miss Power, who is cashier for a downtown automobile financing company, said she met Wollston when he came to make payments on his car. She said he told her he was unhappy with his wife and wanted to get a divorce and marry her. They met a week ago, police say she told them, and finally decided they would marry first and get the divorce later. Detectives White and Hartmeyer made the arrest.

TWO PLEAD GUILTY AND ARE SENTENCED

Little time was wasted in the cases of Juan Martinez and G. Domingues, accused of two robberies. Martinez pleaded guilty yesterday in Judge Hardy's court, a few days after having been held to answer to a charge of robbery of H. Younglove of an automobile valued at $1350. He was sentenced to San Quentin for from five years to life for first-degree robbery. Domingues pleaded guilty to robbing L. Dabney, Ersell Dabney and N. W. Hendershot of $6.50 and was also sentenced for first-degree robbery.

SHIP OFFICERS IN DRY NET

Five Charged With Smuggling Liquor; Sailor Kicked Off Vessel Gives Information

The five principal officers of the Shipping Board tanker Hoxbar, docked at Los Angeles Harbor since November 30, were arrested by Federal officers yesterday, charged with smuggling liquor into this port, and failing to have it on their manifest. Those arrested included the captain, J. S. Hulings; O. Byrnes, first mate; Fred W. Kelelina, second mate; H. Daniels, third mate, and W. L. McGuinness, chief steward.

The officers seized twenty-one cases of liquor, each containing twelve one-fifth gallons, and one case with nine one-fifth gallons.

A sailor, who said he had a grudge against the ship officers because, he declared, they kicked him off the ship, carried information to the Federal authorities which resulted in the arrests.

DE MILLE'S FILM THRILLS

"Ten Commandments," Given Premiere at Hollywood, Declared Producer's Masterpiece

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

At last—a superpicture! A masterpiece of pictorial impressions! Cecil B. De Mille's "The Ten Commandments," the photographic wonders of which will live with us for many days to come!

We have heard about its purpose and its theme; we have listened to the stories of the energy and the travail that went into its making, when the throngs of principals and extras went out into a stormswept seaside location, and still other principals fought through its emotions and its everlasting sequences of rain. We have even joked about the fact that it would turn out to be another of the director's famous aquatic spectacles.

EVENT OF YEAR

And we have wondered and guessed, and guessed and wondered again, but I doubt if any of us have quite surmised aright, or whether until the audience saw it last night we had any definite idea of the magnificence and beauty—and possibly even the truth that inhabits beauty—that the production of "The Ten Commandments" would actually disclose.

Even after the first audience have told their friends what it is like, have described the marvels of technical effects, and of color photography, the opening of the Red Sea and the wild mad pursuit of Pharaoh's chariots—even then nobody will quite realize what these things mean until they actually see them on the screen.

The premiere of "The Ten Commandments" is undoubtedly the big event of the year. It stands as one of those unique first presentations that can only take place in Hollywood itself. Every innova-

URGES SIREN POLICE CALL

Vollmer Asks Council to Aid in Protection Work

City Lawmakers in Favor of Plan; Seek Costs

Chief to Give Figures to Committee Tomorrow

"We have a splendid force of men in the Los Angeles Police Department," declared Chief Vollmer to the City Council yesterday in urging the appropriation of funds for sirens to summon the policemen, "but we ask an opportunity to increase the efficiency of your police force. The sirens are needed for the immediate protection of the city.

"Recently, it was necessary to inform ninety officers in the Wilshire district at once of an emergency that had arisen. With the sirens, we could have those ninety men telephoning to headquarters at once there securing necessary information and then mobilized for the work in hand. But we had no method of reaching those ninety men until each had in the course of his duty called in to police headquarters at the usual times.

"Give us an opportunity to show what the department can do to combat crime, when properly equipped for service."

Councilman Wheeler said: "There is not a member of the Council that objects to your request. We only must know fully and completely what it will cost to install and maintain the siren signal system so that the funds will be available for you."

SEEK COST DATA

Councilman Mushet said: "The City Council is favorable to you and to your administration, Chief. But as chairman of the finance committee, I must know what each departmental request will cost so that we can conduct the city government in a business-like manner for the taxpayers."

Chief Vollmer said he would appear before the Council's finance committee tomorrow afternoon with detailed cost estimates. It was the Chief's opinion that an appropriation of only $7000 to purchase the seventy sirens would be required, as the money necessary for installation, operation and maintenance could be appropriated from the $1,000,000 bond fund authorized nearly two years ago for a police signal system.

Councilman Mallard said that originally he had been inclined to give heed to protests from Los Angeles people that the sirens would be objectionable on account of the noise they made, especially late at nights, but the Councilman said that he had been convinced by demonstration of the operation of test sirens that the noise objection was unfounded. Of the noise feature of the sirens, Chief Vollmer said:

"After twenty years' experience in Berkeley with the sirens, I am prepared to say that they are not objectionable to the public. When they are heard, the people told me that it was with satisfaction that they knew by the sirens that the police were on the job for the protection of the public. Most major crimes occur before 10 p.m., and the sirens will seldom be sounded after that hour."

SHOTGUNS NEEDED

Chief Vollmer at the meeting of the Finance Committee tomorrow afternoon will also urge the appropriation of $1500 for the purchase of fifty shotguns for the police department. The shotguns will be used to arm the police when engaged in round-ups of bank bandits and hold-up men.

A committee of the Grand Jury yesterday conferred at the City Hall with Mayor Cryer, Chief Vollmer and Police Commissioners Montgomery and Birnbaum to urge improvement in Los Angeles jail facilities. The grand jurymen called attention to the overcrowded conditions in Los Angeles jails.

Chief Vollmer told the grand jurymen that all of their recommendations had been incorporated in a comprehensive report laid before the City Council and in the hands of the Council's civic projects special committee as most of the improvements must be financed from bond issues. The Council has already, however, appropriated $36,000 from the general fund for the building at once at Lincoln Heights jail of an annex of three units with facilities for housing 1000 men prisoners. The emergency jail addition will be completed about February 1.

MAY ADD TO PARKING ZONE

Morning Traffic Rule Extension Recommended to City Council by Committee

Following the recent enactment of morning no-parking regulations, the City Council's Public Safety Committee yesterday afternoon agreed to recommend enlargement of the boundaries of the congested district, inside of which the stringent downtown traffic regulations will apply.

The 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. no-parking regulations expire on the 24th inst., although they may be made permanent at that time, and the new extensions to be made to the congested district expire on April 1.

Before this date the committee of business men and traffic experts which is making a comprehensive survey of the parking situation in the entire city is expected to make its report, and the Council will then doubtless adopt a complete new traffic ordinance. The morning no-parking law and the extensions to the congested district are being made as emergency measures made by the Council in order to expedite the movement of street cars during the holiday shopping season.

The new streets added to the congested district are all thoroughfares on which there are street-car tracks, and the all-day parking now permitted on these streets blocks the rapid movement of the cars. The new streets to be added to the congested district are as follows:

Ninth street, from Figueroa to San Pedro street; Tenth street and Eleventh street, from Main to Figueroa; Twelfth street, Main to San Pedro street; Pico street, Main to Figueroa; Seventh street, Maple avenue to Alameda street; Fifth street, from Los Angeles street to Central avenue; Fifth street, from Olive to Figueroa; Third street, Second street and First street, from Los Angeles street to Central avenue; Figueroa, from Second street to Pico street; Broadway, from First street to California street; Temple street, from Broadway to Hill street; San Pedro street, from First street to Ninth street.

The Public Safety Committee, which recommended the additions to the congested district as a temporary emergency measure consists of Chairman Sanborn and Councilmen Allan and Mushet. Councilman Allan said: "While the morning no-parking and the extensions to the congested district are temporary emergency measures until the no-parking committee completes its survey, we can all see the handwriting on the wall. We are fast coming, a bit at a time, to more or less general no-parking in the business districts, in order to keep traffic moving."

The Council yesterday appropriated $3500 to the committee which is making the survey of parking conditions. The committee is expected to report the results of its engineering checks and investigations and its recommendations about March 1.

LIBERAL DANCE POLICY SOUGHT

in Los Angeles is $500,000 a week, and almost every dollar of this money stays in Los Angeles, although that stupendous sum is brought here from outside territory," said the speaker. "The motion-picture industry leads all other enterprises in the Southland, the production of petroleum coming second and the production of foodstuffs third in importance."

Declaring that the film industry and advertising men have "made Los Angeles grow up," Mr. Lesser said that the greatest advertising slogan in the world consists of nine letter which spell "Hollywood."

"If you go to Europe and register at any hotel as John Doe from Hollywood you send a thrill through the entire establishment," said the speaker. "Moving pictures have changed the thought of the world, and we may safely add that the thought of the world has been improved thereby. It is being found that no amount of advertising will influence the now discriminating public to go to see a bad or a poor picture.

"More than 18,000,000 persons a day are patrons of moving-picture houses in the United States alone," continued the speaker. "Hundreds of millions of persons throughout the world see every successful picture filmed. Without having robbed the rich of their joy in the fine arts those arts have, through the cinema enterprise, been placed in the hands of the ditch digger and the clerk.

"The royal marriage of industry and art has been effected by the development of the motion-picture business," said Mr. Lesser. "Constant inspiration fires the minds of those artisans and laborers, who make romance to order, who write poetry with hammer and nails, who build palaces and hovels from the fabric of imagination and construct ships of beauty that sail to dreamland's sun-lit shores.

"Through means of this modern art the wife of the Dakota farmer is enabled to forget her cramped surroundings as she sits in the town theater and watches the unfoldment of the drama of life in all its phases walks with kings, princes and presidents, visits the homes of those who dwell in affluence, gets new ideas on the latest styles in dress, interior decoration and architecture and discovers what the world is doing in education, science and industry. The motion picture stands today as the greatest seller of ideas in the world."

Another speaker was Ross Welch, first vice-president of the club, who spoke on "The Objective of the Advertising Club." Speaking of the organization's motto, "Truth in Advertising," Mr. Welch said that truth, as an abstract proposition, means little, and that honesty and integrity must be practiced if their effect on business and character are to be realized.

A feature of the program was the giving of vocal solos by Miss Harriet Bennett, accompanied by Mrs. Guy Bush. A. Carman Smith, president of the club, announced that the speaker next Tuesday will be J. Dabney Day, president of the Citizens' National Bank.

TRAFFIC UNITY POWER FAVORED

Mrs. Ida I. Bellows voted against it.

Mr. Mead, however, declared he was assured that the amendment creating the Commission would be passed by the Board if all members were present. Eleven members have signified their intention of supporting the amendment. But nine Freeholders were in attendance at last night's meeting and two of the four announced opponents of the amendment, Mrs. Bellows and Mr. Clark, were present.

"The Housing Commission will be the greatest single step ever undertaken by a municipality to help its citizens," Mr. Mead declared in defending the document from the attacks of Mrs. Bellows and Mr. Clark. "The purpose of the amendment is to make it possible for the man with small resources to build a home."

MEASURE EXPLAINED

The Housing Commission, composed of fifteen representative citizens, would have the supervisory power over the bonds issued for the financing of home building, Mr. Mead said. Under no circumstances would the city be obligated or would it be possible for the miscarriage of the purpose of the amendment as all bonds would be secured by the real estate owned by the citizens seeking the aid of the Housing Commission in financing the building, Mr. Mead said. All officers of the Chamber of Commerce are in favor of the amendment.

The original provision for redistricting of Councilmanic wards to take place immediately before election, was changed by the board on motion of Freeholder Horn, who voiced the objection that Councilmen would seek to redistrict the wards in such a manner as to gain the most support. On his motion, the date for redistricting, which is to take place every four years, was set on October 1. The usual method of districting on the basis of population was disfavored by the board, it voting that the districts be based on the number of votes cast in the proceding gubernatorial election.

DEPARTMENT OF TRUST

The department of trust was recognized by the board by unanimous vote. This department, an entirely new division of municipal government, is unique in city government, Philadelphia being the first city to use it. The department will have jurisdiction over bequests and trusts given to the city and will carry out the details of the arrangements whereby the trusts were given the city. It will have the result of removing political influence from the execution of trusts and will encourage bequests to the city, Mr. Mead stated.

The board will meet Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m. At that time the housing commission amendment will be voted on and several minor matters not yet voted on, will be put before the board. The new charter is to be finished and in order by December 10.

STILL TAKEN IN RAID

Prohibition enforcement agents yesterday visited the house of Peter Large, 1404 East Sixty-first Place, yesterday, and captured a twenty-five gallon still, fifteen gallons of moonshine and seven gallons of mash. Peter is in the County Jail.

MARINERS HELD ON RUM CHARGE

Deputy United States Marshal Mangerino, was sworn out by W. H. Maher, chief deputy in the office of Collector of Customs Schwaebe.

FIRST ENGLISH LIQUOR

The liquor, officers say, was loaded on the Hoxbar at New York, and was carried through the Panama Canal. It is stated that the stock was purchased of the rum fleet that hovers along the New Jersey coast, the liquor originally coming from Bermuda. It is the first English liquor that has appeared on the coast.

The five were arraigned before Commissioner Long, charged with conspiracy to violate the customs laws, and the bond fixed at $2500 each. They could not furnish the bond and were sent to jail. The hearing was set for the 11th inst.

REFUSE TO RESIGN

Shortly after the arrest of the officers of the tanker, Shipping Board officials here asked for their resignation. The officers refused to resign and were then declared deserters from the ship. Capt. Hulings, however, declared that he would fight this charge as well as the smuggling complaint, declaring that his predicament was the result of a plot by dissatisfied members of the crew, who smuggled the liquor aboard without his knowledge in order to incriminate him.

Capt. Hulings has been sought by the authorities since Saturday afternoon. The vessel was boarded shortly after its arrival by customs officers, who had been notified from Washington that the whisky had been taken aboard at the Panama Canal for illicit disposal here.

The Hoxbar is owned by the Shipping Board and operated between Los Angeles and New York by McCallister Brothers. It had been held at the harbor since Saturday, but was cleared yesterday for New York with Capt. L. E. Waterman in command and a new crew.

NATURE STUDY TOPIC

At the luncheon meeting of the Masonic Club of Los Angeles today Dr. Charles L. Edwards, supervisor of nature study of the Los Angeles public schools, will be the speaker. He will give an illustrated talk on "An Ideal Zoological Park and Acquarium for Los Angeles. Dr. Edwards is an authority on wild animals. The program will be give in the club dining room at the Alexandria. Members and their guests are invited.

of the Commission broke in on Mr. McKeag's reply to state that "there was no discretion lodged with the board."

"The ordinance so states that there will be no dancing permitted after midnight," he stated.

Mryor Cryer then wanted to know why the Wampas was in "such a hurry" about the matter.

Mr. Leek replied that the organization wished to go ahead with plans for the affair, and if they were assured that the ball could not be continued after midnight in Los Angeles, they wished to make arrangements for the dance in some other city.

In the discussion that followed Mayor Cryer declared if chiefs of police had granted permission for dances after midnight in the past they had exceeded their authority. He reiterated his original statement that the commission was without legal power to grant permission to hold the affair after the hour of midnight, and that as far as the commission was concerned the request was denied.

REQUEST REFUSED

The Mayor was then asked if he would make recommendation to the City Council for a change in the dance ordinance. The Mayor laughed and said "it was not proper and rather unusual."

And then the commission took up other business.

Preceding the meeting of the commission, three motion-picture actresses, Carmel Myers, Patsy Ruth Miller, and Helene Chadwick, visited the office of Mayor Cryer where members of the police body held a private conference prior to the regular meeting. As the members of the commission, Mayor Cryer, I. W. Birnbaum, and S. T. Montgomery, filed out of the Mayor's private office, they were halted by the actresses and presented with the official request for extension of dancing time at the proposed Wampas ball.

The members of the commission were asked to pose for a photograph with the three film celebrities. Commissioner Birnbaum at first objected. Later he, with the other two members, posed. Mayor Cryer remarked about the "beautiful background"—the trio of actresses stood behind the members of the commission as the flashlights boomed—and the pictorial phase of the situation came to a pleasant end.

PASTORS PROTEST

While the commission was discussing or rather denying the request of the motion-picture organization for dancing time extension, members of the City Council were listening to the reading of a communication signed by eight ministers of the city requesting that any proposed change in the dancing ordinance be taken up in the regular manner and a public hearing be held.

The communication was signed by Hugh K. Walker of the First Presbyterian Church, M. Howard Fagan of the Wilshire Christian Church; Elmer E. Helms of the First Methodist Church, J. Whitcomb Brougher of the Temple Baptist Church; Herbert Booth Smith of the Immanuel Presbyterian Church; Gustav Briegleb of the Westlake Presbyterian Church; Bob Shuler of the Trinity Methodist Church, and James A. Francis of the First Baptist Church.

HEADWAY MADE

Meantime the movement for the organization of groups resenting the action of police in closing the Motion-Picture Directors' ball at midnight was gaining headway throughout the city. Fred Niblo, president of the Motion-Picture Directors' Association, announced that he had sent out more than twenty invitations to organizations to join in the forming of a new political party to be known as the Better Los Angeles Nonpartisan League. This party will advocate "a Mayor and a City Council reflecting the wishes of the great majority rather than a small minority," according to Niblo.

The Advertising Club adopted resolutions condemning the action in closing the Motion-Picture Directors' ball at midnight. F. J. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, announced that his organization would be represented at the proposed meeting of organizations protesting against the so-called blue laws.

E. C. Coy, representing the Actors' Equity, announced that although official action could be taken by his organization only after sanction by the executive board in New York, he felt sure the Actors' Equity would back any movement to secure government by the majority. Fred Beetson, secretary of the Motion-Picture Producers' Association, stated that if the movement was kept strictly nonpartisan he felt that his organization would surely sanction it. President Bishop, of the Chamber of Commerce, stated the matter had not come before the directors of that organization yet, but that it might be considered at the meeting to be held Thursday.

SCREEN WRITERS' GUILD

The "midnight curfew law for adults" is merely a symptom of serious internal municipal illness, the Screen Writers' Guild declared yesterday in resolution adopted by the executive board which announced its readiness to join other organizations in demanding "metropolitan government by metropolitan minds." The resolutions said:

"The Screen Writers' Guild of the Authors' League of America indorses whole-heartedly the stand taken by the Motion Picture Directors' Association for a more liberal government of Los Angeles and pledges itself to assist in any movement made by public spirited organizations to attain that end.

"The Guild feels that the stopping of the directors' ball at midnight, while a wholly deplorable incident, was merely a surface symptom of a civic trouble much deeper. The city of Los Angeles, it appears, is controlled by a very active, intolerant minority inimical to its growth as a metropolis. The trouble is within; the surface indications may disappear with a probable repeal of the midnight curfew law for adults; but the cause of the trouble will remain, because it is within.

"The Screen Writers' Guild, therefore, joins itself with other organizations of a public and semipublic character in demanding a metropolitan government by metropolitan minds for a metropolis."

The Police Commission granted fourteen dance permits to fraternal, charitable and social organizations at the meeting yesterday and referred four to Police Chief Vollmer for investigation. Two were denied. Applications for permits to conduct dancing in cafes were granted to Agreci & Fadinin, who have opened a cafe in the basement of the Christie Hotel, Hollywood, and H. Ernest Davis, who will conduct a negro cafe at 1143 East Twelfth street. Several permits to conduct dancing academies were granted, J. L. Arnold was denied permission to conduct dancing in a cafe at 1260 East Ninth street.

The Pacific Coast Amusement Company, 3200 Long Beach avenue, better known as Madison Square Gardens, was granted a permit to conduct boxing matches. This boxing club was a stormy petrel during the last few weeks of the tenure of C. A. DeCoo as a police commissioner. Chief Vollmer once requested that its doors be closed, but the commission at that time refused the request.

The commission yesterday refused to sanction transfer of ownership of three private police patrols, operating in Hollywood, following recommendation of refusal on the part of Chief Vollmer. The East Side Mothers' Club and the People's Clinic, both, colored organizations, were granted permission to conduct games of skill and science but Mayor Cryer warned both organizations they must submit a list of games to the City Prosecutor before the next meeting of the commission. Chief Vollmer stated if games of chance were indulged in the police would make arrests.

PASTORS RAID GROTTO CIRCUS

pass under the head of games of skill and science. The only games raided by the ministers and the police in which corn and beans were used by players to cover up cards held by them. Some of the games were not touched.

Shaw, in his speech first charged Capt. Massey with bad faith in making the arrests but later told his audience that Massey was under orders and not to blame.

FINGER PRINT ORDER

When the prisoners got to the City Jail they found there an order, issued by Chief Vollmer earlier in the day as part of his re-organization program, instructing the officers to finger-print all prisoners taken into custody on gambling charges. This order was declared applicable to the Grotto men and their finger prints were ordered taken at the Identification Bureau.

The ministerial raid was preceded by a day of activity at the Central Police Station. Early in the day a man who said he was John S. Berger, showman and promoter of the late lamented Pageant of Progress concessions, called Capt. Massey and complained that the games at the Grotto Circus were being run in violation of the law. He said he did not believe the City Prosecutor's office ruling on games of skill as distinguished from games of chance was applicable to the games at the circus. Massey told him to come to the station and discuss the matter with him personally. This Berger, or the man who said he was Berger, refused to do and attempted, the captain said, to give him orders. Massey hung up the phone.

A few hours later Dr. Shuler communicated with Capt. Massey. Acting on orders of Chief of Police Vollmer, Capt. Massey arranged for a conference in the Vice Squad office. Promptly at 6 o'clock the two ministers appeared. There was a long discussion. At 6:40 p.m., the two ministers left the station arm in arm. At 7:17 p.m., Officers Bray and McMullen arrived from a near-by cigar store with a large stack of silver coins and proceeded to "mark" the money for the adventure ahead of them.

In the meantime Officers Bergman, Smith, Hoy, Abbott and Acting Lieutenant Littell were held under "sealed orders." At 8:45 p.m., Capt. Massey left the station and fifteen minutes later the other officers, in two police cars, headed south and assembled at Eighteenth and Hill streets.

The two ministers themselves played various games and later pointed out the men with whom they had played and requested the arrests. After they had played these games and before they showed Capt. Massey the men with whom they had played, members of the police party likewise played at various games, using marked money.

PLANS FOR WEEK

Plans for a motion-picture night at the annual circus were announced last night by Manager Shaw. Friday night has been set aside as the occasion for the festivities in honor of the film people. Invitations are being extended to the stars and other notables of the industry to visit the circus on Friday night. Special entertainment features of interest to members of the screen colony are being arranged.

Tomorrow night will be celebrated in honor of the Southern California Baseball Association with Frank Kerwin as head of the executive committee in charge of plans and Carl Sawyer as host. Members of the Business Women's Club and Maccabees also will be honored guests tomorrow night.

The circus will be open until Sunday night.

"SAY, Santa, be sure to bring us an Ampico in the Chickering. Mother and Dad have been talking, oh! so much, about one for Christmas, and I know we'll all be so happy with it. Pick out a nice Ampico baby grand at the Southern California Music Company. Now, don't forget, Santa."

It is not a genuine Ampico if the name Ampico is not on the fall board of the piano. Be sure AMPICO is there.

LINERS TO SAIL AROUND WORLD

Seven Great Vessels Ready for Dollar Enterprise

President Harrison Will be First on Long Run

Both Passenger and Freight Service Offered

The opening of a round-the-world combined passenger and freight service from Los Angeles Harbor, with seven former United States Shipping Board vessels, was announced for the 30th inst. yesterday by the Robert Dollar Steamship Line.

The Dollar line is establishing a new office at 629 South Spring street, with L. C. Shreve as agent in charge, in conjunction with the opening of the new service. For several years past they have been represented here by C. J. Lehman.

TRIP TAKES 110 DAYS

On the 30th inst., the President Harrison, a 360-foot vessel used by the Shipping Board as a passenger liner, will leave the port of Los Angeles to circle the globe. The trip will take 110 days, and the vessel will visit the ports of San Francisco, Kobe, Shanghai, Hongkong, Manila, Singappre, Colombo, Suez, Alexandria, Naples, Genoa, Marseilles and Boston, returning to Los Angeles by way of Panama Canal. On February 4, the second vessel, the President Hayes, will leave this port.

SAILINGS FORTNIGHTLY

Thereafter, a liner will leave regularly every two weeks.

This round-the-world service is the first to be established from this port. The seven vessels used in it were purchased several weeks ago by the Dollar line from the Shipping Board. In addition to the new line of steamers, the Dollar line will maintain all the vessels at present visiting Los Angeles Harbor in intercoastal traffic.

OPEN DRIVE FOR JEWISH ORPHANAGE

Mothers' Alliance Asks Public to Help in Buying New Home

A drive to obtain $10,000 for the purchase of an adequate home for the Jewish orphans of Los Angeles, was started yesterday morning by the Jewish Mothers' Alliance composed of 1500 members and of which Mrs. I. Flaxman is president.

The present headquarters of the Mothers' Alliance are at 800 North Evergreen street at which location eight orphans are now being cared for. However, the recent appeal on the part of scores of Jewish orphans for food and shelter inspired the officers of the organization to call a drive for funds that will make possible the purchase of a home in which more than 100 children can be adequately cared for.

"The Mothers' Alliance has already deposited $500 as a deposit on a beautiful twenty-two room building on a large lot at 244 North Breed street," said Mrs. Flaxman. "We have a ninety-day option on the place and we do not doubt that the charitably inclined people of Los Angeles will assist us to make the purchase.

Mrs. Flaxman said that several members of the organization have volunteered, in case the building is purchased, to furnish the rooms and also to build a large screen porch capable of accomodating twenty-five beds. The maintenance of the home will be taken care of from the funds secured through membership dues and by the giving of entertainments.

Mrs. L. H. Evans is chairman of the drive, Mrs. A. Wolfson is secretary and Nicholas Lube, 342 South Broadway, is treasurer.

"We are expecting that the Jews of Los Angeles, especially, will respond liberally to our appeal," said Mrs. Flaxman. "It is the intention of the institution to give the orphans a real traditional Jewish upbringing, as well as to make them good citizens."

Sues Employer; Broke Pledge to Marry, is Charge

Revealing an alleged broken romance with her employer which she declared ended last Friday when he broke off their engagement and told her they would not be married, Miss Maybell Kuhlman yesterday filed suit for $25,000 damages for asserted breach of promise against J. E. Markley, merchant.

According to the complaint, Miss Kuhlman and Markley became engaged in August, 1922, and on last Thanksgiving Day went to Santa Ana to procure a license, but were unable to do so because the county offices there were closed for the holiday. Markley then is said to have told Miss Kuhlman they would postpone the marriage until last Saturday, but, the plaintiff stated, he changed his mind and on last Friday informed her their engagement was off.

Miss Kuhlman said she and Markley had been constantly together since the date of the alleged proposal and that they purchased real estate jointly for the purpose of providing a home after they were married.

The complaint was prepared by Attorney Ben C. Cohen.

DESPERATE CHARACTERS

This business of furnishing two deputies to journey a few thousand miles East with a prisoner who is wanted under suspicion of having violated the Volstead Act savors a little bit of putting justice in the picnic class.

THE SPEED LIMIT

The General Electric Company is reported as making some electric locomotives for French railways having a speed of 100 miles an hour. Seems as if they are more needed in this country than abroad. We may not have many more places to go, but we are in more of a hurry to get there than they are in France.

PILGRIM'S PROGRESS

The People's Progressive party is the name of the organization under which Henry Ford is being offered as a Presidential candidate on the ballot in some of the States. So many people do their progressing by means of a Ford that the title almost suggests itself. And it must be admitted that there is more progress in one of Henry's bugs than there is in Hiram Johnson's politics—therefore, there is no trespassing on the old Progressive preserves.

THE CANNON'S MOUTH

Uncle Joe Cannon is reported to have cut loose from the habit he had of smoking eleven long, black cigars every day. He has only been indulging it for fifty or sixty years, but now, at the age of 87, he is inclined to the thought that perhaps the custom is reckless and extravagant. It has been asserted by some that tobacco and whisky are stunting in their effect. If Uncle Joe had lived a more moderate and austere life he might even now be more than 100 years old instead of a mere stripling of 87 or so.

SAVING THE DAY

Gov. Pinchot cannot do much in the matter of regulating the price of coal. Most of the anthracite is mined in his State and it is being sold there at figures ranging from $8 to $14 a ton. Naturally the non-union or open-shop mines are able to supply the black diamonds to the consumer at the lower figures. They have not been so afflicted with strikes, nor have the workers been paying heavy dues and assessments to the union. If the people of America are able to get all the coal they need this winter—and at a reasonable price—it will be through the capacity of the independent mines.

OUTSIDERS INSIDE

It is expected that thirty-four governments will officially participate in an international customs agreement which should simplify the commercial intercourse between the signatory powers. Representatives of most of the countries recently concluded a three-weeks' conference at Geneva and the American Chamber of Commerce has been advised of the steps.

Although Uncle Sam did not officially take part, certain representatives of the Departments of State, Commerce, the Treasury and the Tariff Commission listened in at the sessions. Likewise, there was present in a consulting capacity a delegation of the International Chamber of Commerce, of which our own Willis H. Booth is now the president. It seems odd that, although America will not officially participate in these world conferences and agreements, this country furnishes most of the suggestions and most of the accomplishments. American chambers of commerce inspired most of the program now agreed upon.

When the convention comes into full force it will ease the trade relations of many countries. Consular invoices and certificates of origin will be standardized. The customhouse treatment of commercial travelers and their samples will be simplified and uniform blanks will be used in consular offices as far as possible. Harsh penalties for errors in documents will be a thing of the past. Advertising matter will receive lenient and liberal treatment from customs officials. Baggage inspection at European frontiers will take place on the trains instead of in the customhouses.

A permanent international body of customs experts will be established with headquarters at Geneva for the purpose of dealing with all international customs differences as they arise. There will be a full and prompt publication by each nation of all material changes in its tariffs and regulations and there will be a general publication of all information through offices at Geneva, Brussels, Paris and Washington.

One of our own government officials says that the conference upon customs reforms was a conspicuous example of what an international gathering can do to facilitate the business of the world and make for better understandings between all peoples. Yet, thanks to the isolationists of the United States, this country would not directly and officially participate, although we are more concerned than any other government or people. This is why the American attitude is considered a great jest in international circles.

BALDWIN'S FORLORN HOPE

Great Britain is passing through the final throes of a desperate struggle, almost a forlorn hope, by the party in power to abandon a free-trade policy that has been in effect for eighty years and re-establish a protective tariff. It is a courageous effort on the part of the Baldwin government, which deliberately precipitated a crisis in politics at a time when it had a working majority of seventy-nine members in the House of Commons.

Whatever the fate of that government, it has given an example of sincerity in politics which will not be lost upon the British people. The Conservative leadership was secure so long as it did not rock the boat. But the condition of British commerce, labor and industry was far from secure. On this point the Conservatives and Labor are in accord. The following statement of labor conditions appeared in the London Daily Herald, a Socialist party organ, and was quoted with approval by the Morning Post, a Conservative newspaper that is leading the fight for a protective tariff:

> The workers of Great Britain are passing through a period of distress more severe than any within living memory. Their wages have been beaten down and their standard of living reduced. Unemployment on an unparalleled scale has become a permanent feature of our industrial system. For the fourth winter in succession more than a sixth of the working population is idle or continuously underemployed.

Conservative and Labor agree that the condition of the worker is desperate; but they differ radically concerning the remedy to employ. The Labor party would relieve the present stress on the working population by a capital levy. They would "tax the rich to feed the poor" until what they consider a condition of temporary unemployment passes. The Conservatives assert that this would only be a palliative that would drive capital from the country and make the condition of the workers still more deplorable. They propose a protective tariff which would both raise considerable revenue and would preserve the British markets, in part at least, for British labor and industry.

Commenting on the statement of labor conditions by the Daily Herald, the Morning Post observes:

> Such is the state of the country that used to boast itself the workshop of the world and which still follows an economic policy abandoned or rejected in every other nation. The patient is certainly ill, so ill that if there is a remedy it would be criminal not to try it. If we confine ourselves to tranquillity we shall probably end in the tranquillity of death. We must try some prescription and the question is whether we are to try a cure which has been tested by the experience of every country in the world or a remedy that has never been tried anywhere, but the mere threat of which recently threw Switzerland into convulsions.

Lloyd George returned invigorated from his American visit and has thrown himself into the fight with an enthusiasm that his gray hairs would seem to belie. He is the leader of the Liberal forces, traditional free-traders. He sees in the present crisis an opportunity to cripple the party in power and, perhaps, to establish a new coalition government with Lloyd George as the master coalitionist.

Asquith is the nominal leader of the Liberal forces, Lloyd George having consented to serve under the chief whom he helped to tip out of the saddle during the second year of the war and nimbly clambered into his seat. As a free lance, an opportunist in politics, Lloyd George is without a parallel. He speaks twice a day to crowded houses, while lesser speakers harangue the overflow outside. But the English elections of last year demonstrated that, while Lloyd George can attract thousands of auditors to his meetings, they are a class that laugh at his sallies, but vote with the Conservatives. It is one thing to get an audience and another to extract their votes.

According to the consensus of opinion of the neutral observers, the Conservatives are likely to win the election on Thursday, but with a reduced majority that will make the adoption of a protective tariff very doubtful; for a number of Conservative candidates are not in sympathy with the protectionist policy of the Baldwin government.

About the best that the Liberals can hope for is to win enough seats to take the opposition from the Labor party. So many of the workers are supporting a protective tariff that the Labor leaders themselves admit that about the best they can hope for is to retain their present number of seats in the House of Commons.

Conservative papers are making capital out of heckling Lloyd George concerning labor conditions in the United States under a protective tariff. The Morning Post says that "at the present time things are better both for master and man in the United States than in any other country in the world." And continues, "It is a pity, by the way, that Mr. Lloyd George, who had so many sneers for the Prime Minister's policy, did not give the House of Commons last night his impressions of the Fordney tariff. But our workingmen, to whom protected America is the only refuge from free-trade England, may find these things out for themselves and may prefer a remedy justified by experience to the cupping and bleeding of the Socialist program."

It would be an almost startling reversal of precedent of the first protective-tariff campaign in Great Britain should win. Experience proves that such changes of traditional policy only come after many preliminary defeats. For a government sitting firmly in the saddle to risk its seat by such a change in policy is equally without precedent; but it offers an inspiring example of men who are willing to sacrifice their present political dominance, as well as their political future, for what they believe to be the salvation of British labor and industry. Through such sacrifices does a people not only become great, but maintain its greatness.

RESPECT FOR LAW

Big business must also comply with the law. In New York a judge dissolved and penalized a Cement Manufacturers' Association under a charge that it was either restricting output or establishing a price agreement. In Chicago sixteen jobbers or manufacturers of plumbing supplies were indicted and fined for seeking a monopoly and operating under a trust agreement. Yet labor unions are in the belief that they can form combinations, fix wages and operate under restrictive agreements without yielding any responsibility to the law. How do they get that way?

Boom! Boom!

THE WAY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR

An inquiring soul from Johns Hopkins has been conducting an investigation into the reason why men go wrong. He produces some startling statistics which show that, according to their numbers, just as many college men end in penal institutions as do their untrained brothers. A sheepskin is no insurance that the owner will tread the paths of honesty throughout life, despite the fact that he has less excuse for turning to criminality than one who has an uneducated mind. There is this one difference, however. College graduates rarely serve two terms, whereas uneducated men often return again and again. Once the owner of a trained mind suffers the penalty of wrong doing the logical reasoning his alma mater endowed him with enables him to see that lawbreaking does not pay.

Most of the uneducated criminals are pitifully young, but 40 or past is the age when college men stray from the straight and narrow path. The legal profession captures the honors in the numbers of its representatives who are doing penance behind prison walls. The medical profession runs a close second, many doctors being incarcerated for the objectionable crime of dope-selling. Dark financial manipulations, cheating others that they may live in luxury and forgery are the commonest crimes committed by college graduates. Few are out-and-out bandits, confining themselves to such offenses as swindling widows and orphans by selling them worthless stocks or oil wells. A university, it seems, can implant a conscience where one never grew before. And 98 per cent of the college graduates who are languishing behind prison bars are members of some church.

When we come to the ladies, ah! there is a different story. College women almost never go to prison, except occasionally for murder. The ladies will shoot. Jealousy, the investigator states, is almost invariably back of such murders. "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," whether she is a bachelor of arts or a humble factory worker. When a woman becomes wildly jealous she is stripped of education, ideals and the civilized veneer of centuries and becomes a living embodiment of her savage primeval ancestors. Then is the time for the man who has trifled with her affections, or the other woman, to set out for the nearest patch of tall timber.

BABY BLUE

The psychology departments of the great State universities are certainly conferring lasting benefits on the human race. Some of the subjects about which learned professors knit their brows may seem a trifle piffling to the layman, but the sages must know what they are about. Formerly they dealt with abstruse subjects beyond the ken of the more humble, but now they are busy with problems dealing with work-a-day life.

Our own university at Berkeley has just made a contribution of knowledge useful to the female sex. It appears that the psychologists at this institution have been studying the mooted question as to which color in the spectrum allured the masculine eye the most and they have at last arrived at an answer. Hereafter a bachelor's degree will not entitle the feminine holder to a reserved seat for life in the ranks of the unmarried, since she will emerge from the institution loaded with useful knowledge as to what to wear and how when she wants to allure some desirable specimen of manhood.

Baby blue is the color to make them eat out of your hand, according to the psychoanalysts. Ninety-nine and one-half per cent of the men have a baby-blue complex and when they see a sweet young thing, or one not so young for that matter, all enswathed in softest blue their hearts begin to thump and the protective instinct is aroused. And there is no better way to protect a lady than to offer her your name and provide her with a home and three squares a day. Despite modern reforms, this still remains woman's favorite method of being sheltered from the harsh winds of life. Those crafty damsels who are having difficulty in dragging an offer out of a canny swain are recommended to try the baby-blue route. It will give the grass widow with two different sets of alimony checks coming in a helpless and unsophisticated look.

Red still remains the color de luxe to vamp in, with varying shades of purple running a close second, but light blue is the shade to hasten them toward the marriage-license bureau. These additions to feminine knowledge make those who were graduated several years ago regret that their degree was conferred a few years too soon. What a run for her money a lady can have equipped with this information and the price of a new set of clothes.

OVERLOOKED THE RING

A burglar broke into a telephone exchange in an Ohio town and stole some of the girls' wraps. But he did not take any of their rings.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

Make Men Stand on Your Shoulders

When Prof. Tyler of Amherst left his German professor of biology he said to him:

"What shall I do when I return to America?"

The professor replied:

"You have stood on my shoulders that you could see further than I. Make men stand on your shoulders."

I worked with a carpenter once who, whenever we came to a new job, would explain everything as we went along. He put me on his shoulders. I saw what he saw. I brought new ideas because I had had a different experience.

Another man with whom I worked would never explain anything. If I was up against something I did not understand he would push me one side and do the job.

All this happened years ago. One man took pleasure in helping me. He did not worry whether I would learn too much and get ahead of him or not; the other was fearful I might learn too much, see too much, go ahead too much.

I saw both men about a year ago. The first is a contractor, does a good business, has a big car, is reported well off; the second is still a plain carpenter, often hard put to get work.

And, by the way, did you ever see the light of pride come to a man's eye when he exclaims:

"I taught him how to do that!"

There is much more satisfaction teaching the other fellow how to do better than there is in holding him back.

Make them stand on your shoulders.

RIPPLING RHYMES

PROBATION

The wolf that slew the farmer's fowls was captured in a trap; at midnight hour its frenzied howls disturbed that granger chap.
He left his warm and downy bed and to the trap repaired and to the snarling wolf he said, "At last I have you snared. You've frequented my coops and pens and there disturbed the peace; you've slain my large Polled Angus hens and eaten priceless geese. You are deserving of the worst that man-made laws can do; and, looking out for safety first, I'd promptly butcher you. But I'm inclined to mercy now, since you are in a hole; another chance I will allow—I place you on parole. I trust your honor to avoid my well-known henhouse door; in works of virtue be employed—now go and sin no more." The humbled wolf was moved to tears, at least it seemed to be;
it frisked its tail and wagged its ear, so happy to be free. While gorged with chickens it was bent on courses most sublime, but soon it hungered, then it went to pull another crime. And so at dawn the farmer found his chickens cold and dead, his priceless roosters lying round, the coop all splattered red. "Oh, when I had that critter jailed it should not have been freed; the honor of a wolf," he wailed, "is but a broken reed."

PEN POINTS

By the Staff

They're off at Washington.

Brace up, the Congressional Record will soon be with us.

Between dodging indictments and his creditors Gov. McCray of Indiana appears to be a fairly busy man.

Back East they are discussing how long Indian summer lasts. It is a twelvemonth proposition in Southern California.

Speaker Gillett: Is Capt. John D. Fredericks in the House? The Clerk: He is. The Speaker: Then let Congress come to order.

That Marx Cabinet in Germany has the wrong name to succeed. Marks are about the worst imitation of money on the footstool.

Gov.-elect Fields of Kentucky is opposed to dancing at his inauguration. And we can't blame him. A Democrat has but little excuse for dancing.

U. S. District Judge Thompson of Philadelphia has come to Los Angeles to try the alleged oil-promoter frauds. You may fire when you are ready, Judge.

The investigation of the veterans' bureau by a Senate committee brought out some interesting things, but the general tenor of the revelations has been suspected for a long time.

It is announced that President Coolidge will make no speeches before the Republican National Convention meets. Hasn't that New Englander a queer idea of the necessities of American politics?

The question whether President Coolidge has the power to pardon Comptroller Craig of New York that has been left to Atty.-Gen. Daugherty ought to be easily determined. The Constitution of the United States declares that the President "shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment."

Two factors are chiefly responsible for the situation into which Congress has drifted. One is the political primary system, which impresses a legislator with the notion that he is responsible only to a local constituency and not to the country and the party. The other is the rules of the Senate which deliberately place in the hands of the minority a power which is foreign to the traditional American principle of the rule of the majority.

A firm stand taken by President Coolidge on the question of reducing the tax burdens of the people will shatter such opposition as may exist in his own party. The fears of Senator Lodge that the radical bloc's "barking dogs" may be aroused should be swept aside. Such expediencies and fears are political cowardice. No great political party can impress itself upon the voter's mind by playing a defensive game by polly-foxing and pussy-footing with issues.

THIS IS THE DAY

Martin Van Buren, eighth President of the United States, was born at Kinderhook, N. Y., in the year 1782. He was nominated by the Democratic party in 1836 and defeated his Whig opponent by ninety-seven electoral votes. He served only one term.

THE BLOOMING AUTHOR

BY ALMA WHITAKER

I don't believe the etiquette books lend us any sort of guidance. There seems to be no chapter devoted to "conduct becoming an author."

No wonder we crude parvenu authors either overdo the swank or the humility. The humility is the hardest. I am having an awful time trying to be reasonably modest these days. I feel sure one should. But directly I have argued myself into something like decorous humility somebody sends in an order with a tender request for an autograph and I get chesty right away. I will wager that dear old John McGroarty acquired his "By gollies!" on the day he first became an author and tried to look modest as requests came rushing in for "autographs."

Of course, publishers in a general way are a valuable antidote. They have no illusions about one whatsoever. The Times-Mirror Press Company knows altogether too much about me. True, they got out a perfectly fascinating circular in which they mentioned me as among the brightest and best, but they gave me clearly to understand that—er—that was sheer good business optimism. I wasn't expected to accept it as their serious personal opinion of me and my precious book, "Trousers and Skirts"—but merely what they trusted the book-buying public might be induced to think of me after the artist and the bookbinder and the sales force and the advertisements had lent me their stylish embellishments.

They preserve an attitude of hoping sales will at least cover overhead expenses. They look utterly pained if the author shows any vulgar mercenary desires to participate in profits. They hope there will be profits, of course. They, being in the business, are entitled to consider possible profits—but really authors should be more spirituelle.

That is to say, up to a certain point.

But, having regard to that "overhead," via which the publishers have risked real money and thus lavished a very dangerous tangible compliment on the author—well, the least an author can do is to drop just enough refined sensitiveness and spirituality and get busy selling books. Not, you understand, by direct, crude methods—heaven forfend—but by subtle, entirely ladylike methods, delicately dropped hints, casual, cute, little references and all that sort of thing.

By which you will realize that publishing one's first book is almost as poignantly thrilling as having one's first baby. There is the day one first whispers to one's nearest and dearest that one's suspicions seem to be justified. There is the day the contract is made and assurance becomes doubly sure. Even the publisher has a kindly, sympathetic twinkle in his eye that day and one notes the added tenderness and respect in the family.

The day they first sent me the proof sheets I swanked shamelessly. I remember feeling much the same when I viewed my baby's layette and the doctor said I was getting along splendidly.

The day I first saw those ebullient circulars I simply bubbled. I wanted to go right off and embrace the fellow that wrote it. He didn't give me any encouragement—no more than the man who delivers the cradle under other circumstances. All in a day's work for him.

Then came the cover design, submitted for my approval. I love having things submitted for my approval. This was my baby's baptismal gown. It was rather jazzy and frisky, to be sure, but I waxed bright-eyed and softly sentimental. The great day was so near.

Then the orders began coming in. I shall always regard one George Dickinson, insurance man, who sent in the very first order, sight unseen, as a glittering hero. He had just written me a nice fan letter about a story in the morning paper. He didn't try to sell me insurance, but wrote on his business letter head. I replied tactfully. I did not try to sell him a book—but—ahem—just happened to inclose one of those cute little circulars. Who says the age of chivalry has passed? After that it was much, much harder for the publisher to keep me in my place.

Then Cora Young ordered seven. Cora, right there in my own office. Cora, the society editor. Now I ask you, how can one be humble when a society editor buys seven of one's books and pays cash for 'em? If I swanked more preposterously than usual that day it was Cora's fault.

Then came the last anxious weeks before "delivery." Every expectant mother knows all about them. The day that precious book flaunting its giddy title, "Trousers and Skirts," with its jazzy cover, was laid in my arms (for we had gone through the exquisite agony of christening it months before) I was the center of the universe. This day authors must call me "confrere." Only young mothers and authors can put on the right-eous swank I oozed that day. Both mothers and authors get blase in time, but the first-born raises one to the celestial heights, no matter what sort of a scraggy morsel the infant may be.

After that life became one long flutter after another. At the Ebell Club they fetched me from the mere "press" table and elevated me to the "guest" table. Newspaper confreres were noticeably respectful. Even relatives conceded me attention. Friends discovered me twice as interesting. Acquaintances became ardent friends.

And it was on the book's birthday that Louise was having her party at the Biltmore. I hesitated about ethics—but finally took the book along. Really I couldn't let it out of my hands. But Louise introduced me as "Mrs. Jerome Reynolds." A few seconds [illegible] she mentioned that "[illegible] baker was bringing out a book.

"Is it clever?" asked a [illegible] lady. "I used to read that [illegible] an's stuff, but she seems to [illegible] gone off lately."

Cruel blow. Louise [illegible] I smiled a ghastly, sickly [illegible] Then I rallied. "Just for that, I sell you a copy," I grinned. [illegible] lations, explanations, apologies [illegible] think I have sold her [illegible] She asked me to lunch. [illegible] She was more unhappy [illegible] than I. Thus may an author [illegible] upon adversity.

But it is maidlous. Oh, [illegible] stuff. Can one keep pearls [illegible] the ground? Press-cuttings [illegible] is the next item on the [illegible] How in the past I have [illegible] culler of press-cuttings? How [illegible] they show me the pile? [illegible] collecting 'em and gloating [illegible] 'em when one knows the [illegible] ones were put in by friends of [illegible] fluence and the others have been left out of the collection.

But I got two flattering notices that week. I knew [illegible] well they were essentially [illegible] of "friendship." But I read [illegible] read them. Wonderful, [illegible] literature. And, of course, [illegible] could not just read and [illegible] Certainly not. So far I have [illegible] acquired a press-cutting [illegible] but, oh, I can feel it coming. [illegible] There is a precious little [illegible] in my desk. . . . I get [illegible] self trying to be so casual [illegible] it, but just mentioning [illegible] haps visitors might be [illegible] to see. . . . Gosh, how [illegible] author can fall.

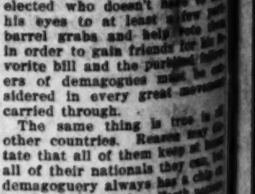
And it isn't only the [illegible] sible swank. There is [illegible] more insidious about this [illegible] business than that. Sales! [illegible] the most refined and cultured [illegible] thors begins to realize that [illegible] ing, positively nothing but [illegible] will have the slightest effect [illegible] the demeanor of a publisher. [illegible] —ahem—upon the ultimate [illegible] meanor of one's family. If it [illegible] one is a "successful author" ([illegible] derful words.) If it doesn't one [illegible] just another frost!

"Yep," remarks the publisher coldly. "Most authors sell a [illegible] hundred to their friends. We'll [illegible] see if it gets the public."

Never mind, my book, my [illegible] mother loves you . . . [illegible]



[From the Martian "Observer."]

The Japanese Empire just now [illegible] earnestly desirous that all [illegible] tionals should stay at home [illegible] build up their own country. [illegible] United States is desirous that [illegible] should do the same thing. [illegible] fore, now that the United States [illegible] proposing that immigration from [illegible] Asia be barred, the Japanese government, it is announced, is [illegible] paring to use all diplomatic [illegible] at its command to protest [illegible] bar, which would do more to [illegible] its people at home than anything [illegible] else.

That shows what illogical [illegible] tures Earthites are. It isn't merely the Japanese, it is all Earthites who are in that boat. There isn't a nation on Earth which doesn't want its people to stay at home because it is generally the best and the most daring, the most progressive, the least rutbound and the most self-reliant people who go [illegible] venturing into new and strange countries. There isn't another country on Earth which wouldn't be [illegible] drafted of its very best if the United States would only throw down its immigration bars and therefore there isn't another nation on Earth which shouldn't be grateful to it for putting them to [illegible]

That fact is so palpable that even those Earthy-minded people [illegible] ously called statesmen—or [illegible] them, at least—can see it. [illegible] does that make any difference? Of course not! For when has there ever been a time on Earth when the so-called statesmanship of the planet has not put national [illegible] nity," quoted, above national welfare? We Martians have been watching Earth a long time and we have never seen it.

There appear to be some real statesmen on Earth, but even they often have to compromise with demagogues in order to secure the support of the latter for a part of their more logical programs. [illegible] one can watch the United States Congress, for instance, without realizing that that country has a government of the compromisers, by the compromisers and for the compromisers. There isn't a sincere Representative or Senator elected who doesn't have to close his eyes to at least a few pork barrel grabs and help vote them in order to gain friends for his favorite bill and the purblind followers of demagogues must be considered in every great movement carried through.

The same thing is true in all other countries. Reason may dictate that all of them keep at home and all of their nationals they can, but demagoguery always has a chip on its shoulder. And so Earth nations frequently get ruffled at each other when they ought to be loving and saying: "Thank you, thank you!"

Politicians agree that President Coolidge is making a mistake in not entering the primaries as a candidate. But he feels that he would be undignified for the President of the United States to go scrambling after preconvention votes; that he will not lift a finger to secure delegates, he will not make a political speech or participate in any other activity that could be construed as a bid for convention strength. This may be magnificent, but is it politics?

No doubt Charles Dickens [illegible] his character of the Artful Dodger from the present-day politicians trying to get away from an automobile.

Pianist and Contralto Give Sprightly Numbers

Impersonator's Dixie Songs Find Warm Welcome

BY R. G. ORMISTON

The "Sylinders of Sunshine" were going on all three in The Times radio last night when they presented a program arranged by the Suburban Estates Company. G. Allison Phelps, the publicity manager of the concern, again attained success in the role of radio impresario. Needless to say, Mr. Phelps is a radio enthusiast and as a direct result of the concerts which he has arranged and given over to KHJ in the past, is strongly convinced of the value of radio in advertising.

The "Sylinders of Sunshine" are the three Selbys, Ida Selby-Donnell, pianist; Pearl Burck-Selby, contralto, and L. J. Selby, impersonator. The three artists were heard individually and in ensemble, and they uncorked much sunshine for Radioland.

Ida Selby-Donnell played the Rubinstein with a charming touch and fine rendition of Percy Grainger's "Country Dance," "Barcarolle," by Rachmaninoff, and "Gavotte in A Major," by Gluck-Brahms were highly satisfactory from every standpoint. An interesting number, demonstrating the pianist's ability, was "Variations and Forms on a Popular Theme."

STIRS RECOLLECTIONS

L. J. Selby, impersonator, gave many songs of the old South, impersonating the old-fashioned negro. These songs were heard by Mr. Selby as a child on the steamboats of his father in the Southern rivers. The songs are the result of his recollection of the words and melodies and the piano arrangement by his daughter, Ida Selby-Donnell. Negro spirituals, lullaby songs and plantation lullabies made up a program of splendidly interpreted impersonations.

Pearl Burck-Selby, contralto, is soloist of the Second Church of Christ Scientist of Los Angeles, and gave several songs of decided appeal in a voice of sympathetic warmth and pleasing quality. "Indian Love Lyrics," by Finden, and "A Hundred Years From Now," by Bond; "Sweetheart," by Lynes and "Ask Not," by Barry were among the well-chosen list of selections.

Sol Cohen, violinist, and member of the newly organized "Trio Intime," which made its debut in The Times studio recently, gave several violin solos, accompanied by Ida Selby-Donnell. He played from Hubay and Massenet, with a masterly technique and interpretation.

READING HAS PUNCH

G. Allison Phelps, who has engineered the many entertaining programs presented through the courtesy of the Suburban Estates Company, was heard in another of his philosophical and original readings. Abounding with humor, but carrying a punch, these talks are making G. Allison famous.

Dr. Thomas Lutman, pastor of the Mesa Congregational Church, delivered an address over the KHJ microphone last night, putting behind it all the vital energy and magnetic personality with which he is blessed. Inspirational in nature, Dr. Lutman's talks invariably hit the bull's eye in his analysis of human nature, and his answer to the query "Are Thoughts Things?" was no exception.

The noontide broadcast featured Major and his orchestra from the Rendezvous, Crystal Pier, Ocean Park. They put on an hour of captivating dance music that met with popular approval. Among the many spirited numbers was Major's own composition, which he has named "Low Down."

MONTE AUSTIN HERE

Monte Austin, baritone, accompanied by the orchestra, sang many of the latest popular songs. The hour's entertainment was of the type that makes a big hit with the noontide audience and radiates happiness throughout Radioland.

The matinee program opened with a piano solo by H. G. Hoffman, pianist-organist of Clune's Broadway Theater. He gave "When You And I Were Young, Maggie," with variations of his own arrangement, and displayed a remarkable technique and musicianship.

Mrs. Ray Fisher, contralto, and Geraldine Dolan, pianist, both of Anaheim, were heard in a program of vocal and piano solos, charmingly rendered. Mrs. Fisher has been a resident of Anaheim for thirty years, and has done considerable church singing in the Southland. Her choice of songs included "Smilin' Through," by Penn, "Shadows," by Bond, "Thy Will," a sacred song by Marston, and "For You," by Isabel North.

Geraldine Dolan favored with several solos, playing with pleasing effect Chaminade's "Scarf Dance," and "O Sole Mio."

NOTABLES GATHER

The children's hour saw Mirandy Snowblossom Johnsing ambling 'round the studio looking for Mother Trevor's picture book. Mother Trevor was unable to come, so Mirandy was on hand to open a new page for the lads and lassies. She opened to page thirteen, and lo! out popped Uncle Remus. The two darkies had a grand reunion, much to the delight of the listeners.

The Sandman arrived also, it being His usual evening to greet the kiddies. Queen Titania played a joke on Uncle John by hiding in the studio, and when she was finally found she gave the song of Fairyland to make amends. The kindly Sandman brought the earth children a bedtime story about "Happiness."

Another feature of the period was the appearance of Judge Fitzgerald, famous judge of horses and horse-races. He knows good horses and how to judge them.

PAIR HUNTED FOR KILLING OF FARMER

Man Found With Body Riddled by Bullets; Seen With Mexicans

Two asserted chicken thieves are being hunted by Deputy Sheriffs Catlin and Sepulveda as suspects in connection with the murder of Juan Villalobos, 41 years of age, whose bullet-riddled body was found Monday near his home at Hynes.

An investigation into the slaying, according to officers, brought information that the dead man and two unidentified Mexicans were seen in the vicinity of a farmer's house near Hynes from which three dozen chickens were stolen Sunday night. It was reported that loud talking was heard about the time the shooting was believed to have occurred, giving rise to the theory of officers that Villalobos was shot in a quarrel with the other men.

The suspects are reported to have fled in an automobile with an Arizona license.

Villalobos was shot seven times with a German Luger pistol, according to officers. Six of the shots were in various parts of the body and one was through the heart.

The body is being held at Miller's Undertaking Company in Downey. An inquest probably will be conducted tomorrow.

PRINCESS HERE TO AID DRAMA

Wife of Serbian Prince in City on Vacation

Formerly Was Miss Calhoun, Famous Actress

Abandoned Stage to Help Husband's People

BY MYRA NYE

The coming of Princess Lazarovich-Hrebilanovich to California and to this city, where she lived so many years, recalls a beautiful romance and awakens memories of the first days of John Stephen McGroarty's Mission Play, in which she, as Senora Yorba, appeared in its premiere presentation.

But the Serbian Princess, born Eleanor Calhoun, has not been idle since her marriage to the foreign Prince. She cut short her career at the highest moment of its rapidly ascending achievement. After appearing in Racine's "Hermione" in Paris twelve years ago, she returned to England, where her Shakespearean impersonations and especially the sensation created by her Lady Macbeth, played at the Shakespeare Memorial performances at Stratford-on-Avon, gave rise to extraordinary predictions as to her place in classic drama and brought proffers of highest aristocratic and financial support for a plan she had long cherished.

That plan was to found in London an art theater for the production by the world's finest English-speaking players of the masterpieces not only of Shakespeare, but of all nations. But at this point in her embryo plans Prince Lazarovich-Hrebelianovich came to England to try to win support for the famous Macedonian committees to free the people of the Balkan lands from the Turks and Austrians.

He interested Eleanor Calhoun so deeply in those victims of age-long tyranny, who had known a glorious past, that she forsook all her own dreams to help him make his vision come true. Since then, at her husband's side, her life has been devoted to that object. Her visit here will be but a short vacation from her great work, as she deems it. But she will give her aid to theatrical productions of merit.

As collaborator with Prince Lazarovich she has had a hand in helping prepare his two-volume history of that region, published by Scribner's in America, a book which is recognized as authority. She has seen, during the years she has been away from California, most of her husband's purposes achieved; the oppressors driven out, dismembered nations reunited, and work has now begun on the great engineering project originated, directed and financed initially by him, known as the Danube-Egean Canal.

The canal is designed to be 300 miles long, carry boats of 1800 tons burden and link up, through the Danube and the great German interior waterway system, the North Sea and Suez in a continuous water road, via Saloniki.

In addition to her writing with her husband, the Princess has had published by the Century Company her European memoirs entitled "Pleasures and Palaces."

Princess Lazarovich shares her husband's active belief that the South Slavs, the Serbs, Croats and Slavenes can only hope for sound and free development for individual and nation if they make their new state a federal republic on American lines. She is herself thoroughly American in her traditions and ancestry; a grand-niece of the great statesman, John C. Calhoun, a grand-daughter of the Calhoun, who founded Paducah, Ky., and a daughter of the late Judge Noble Ezekial Calhoun, one of the pioneers and organizers of the State of California, and his wife, Laura Butler Calhoun, biological student and writer.

As Eleanor Calhoun the Princess was educated at the State Normal School at San Jose, followed by university and art courses in London and Paris. She has acted in London in the foremost theater opposite such artists histrionically noted as Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson and in Paris opposite Paul Mounet and Coquelin, and with the Comedie Francaise and Odeon companies.

Daughters of British Empire

A cablegram dated the day that the Queen Alexandra Chapter, Daughters of the British Empire, celebrated in this city the birthday of the English Queen Mother, last Monday, was received by the chapter from Sandringham Palace. It read:

"Queen Alexandra thanks the Queen Alexandra Chapter of the D.B.E. sincerely for their kind good wishes upon the occasion of her birthday. She much appreciates their thought of her."

The seventy-ninth anniversary of the Queen's birth was December 1. She is still tall and stately, with a figure unbent by her years, and still the most popular woman of royalty today, according to Mrs. C. D. Thompson of the local chapter, who was presented at court during the regime of Queen Alexandra, when the court was much more impressive and ceremonious than today.

Mrs. H. Duncan Smith of Montreal, who has just motored down from that city and is stopping at the Biltmore for the winter, was another attendant at the anniversary celebration of the chapter who has also been presented at court. A Canadian, however, her presentation was on Prince Edward Island to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and to Princess Patricia.

Mrs. A. L. Ogilvie gave musical readings during the program, accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Adams of Winnepeg. Mrs. Daniel Clarke is Regent of the chapter and presided.

Daily Sewing Hints from

We have now covered the whole field of sewing except fitting. As all paper patterns are cut according to standard sizes, it is frequently necessary to make slight adjustments to suit individual figures. Careful basting on the indicated seam lines and a knowledge of these are requisite for successful results.

No alterations should be made until the entire garment is adjusted carefully pinned, and subjected to a close scrutiny. Sleeves and armseye are attacked first of all as it is on the right location and adjustment of these important features that the well-fitting bodice depends. The normal shoulder seam is a straight line from the neck to the point of the eye in an inconspicuous place just back of the highest part of the shoulder. Square shoulders may require the letting out of the shoulder seam, and sloping shoulders the taking in of a deeper seam to remove wrinkles at the front and back of the shoulder.

Radical changes at the shoulder usually necessitate clipping at the waist slightly under the arm, and marking carefully with pins the exact line on which the sleeve is to be sewed. The accepted armseye line defines the exact width of the back and chest and calls for a fairly deep shoulder. Any increase or decrease in the width of the sleeve is made in the seam of the sleeve, and the latter so adjusted in the armseye that the straight threads of the cloth hang straight down the arm from the shoulder to the elbow, the fullness being eased to fit the top of the sleeve, giving the appearance of no gathers.

Desired changes in the line at the neck for greater becomingness should be made with pins placed close together.

If you desire further information regarding any question of dress making, write "The Vogue Editor" care of The Times. Your letter will receive prompt and careful attention.

WAGE CLAIM SETTLED

Dispute Was Over Commission on Sales Commission

Settlement of a [illegible] wage claim, brought by [illegible] Waterman against the [illegible] Fitzpatrick Finance Company, was brought about yesterday through the offices of State Labor Commissioner Steinech.

Waterman, former sales manager for the company, had claimed a total of $70,000 commission, of which $9000 had been paid, leaving an unpaid claim of $61,000. The company offered him $5000 more, or a total of $14,000, which he refused. The settlement yesterday was for $7500, or a total of $15,500.

The claimant's figures were based on sales of [illegible] in sections in Valhalla Cemetery Park near Burbank for $1,500,000 at a blanket commission of 2 per cent. He alleged a verbal agreement with the company, which Osborne and Fitzpatrick flatly denied. A large organization of salesmen sold all the [illegible] about four and one-half months.

ACID BURNS STUDENT

Collision in Doorway Results in Serious Injuries

Nitric acid splashed from a bottle in the hands of a fellow student with whom he collided in a doorway, gave severe burns of the face, neck and arms yesterday to Harry Cohen, 20 years of age, of 1000 East Fourth street, a student at the University of Southern California. Cohen was treated at Receiving Hospital. It was reported that he started to enter the laboratory of the college when A. Bonaparte, carrying the acid, was leaving. The accident followed.

Why does THE BILTMORE serve HIGH SCORE BUTTER?

Naturally, then, in selecting such an important, every-meal food as butter, the Biltmore Management chose Golden State.

It is not an accident that Golden State is "high-score" butter—uniform-quality butter—dependable butter.

It is made from selected, pure, rich cream — quality-tested and pasteurized — then churned and packed in our modern, sanitary, well-equipped creameries, located in the heart of California's finest dairying districts.

Say "Golden State," to your grocer! Compare it for quality and flavor!! You, too, will agree that it pays to insist.

★ The "score" is the expert's gauge of butter quality. It is a fact that Golden State averages from 1 to 5 points higher than other Southern California brands.

SOCIETY

BY CORA YOUNG

Miss Elizabeth Taylor is entertaining a delightful house guest, Miss Helen Slater, at her home on Lake street. Miss Slater is the daughter of Mrs. U. M. Slater of San Francisco, and attended a fashionable school in New York with Miss Taylor and Miss Hortense McLaughlin. Miss Taylor is giving a dinner party in honor of her guest next Monday evening, preceding the debut ball for Miss McLaughlin, which takes place at the Biltmore Hotel that evening. Today Miss Slater and Miss Taylor are to be guests of Miss Eleanor Cole at luncheon at the Assistance League community house in Hollywood.

Announced at Luncheon

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Ethel Frances Coleman to Albert E. Schaehenman was made at a luncheon at the Ivory Lodge and theater party given by Mrs. P. O. Sundin of South Catalina street last Saturday. Miss Coleman, who has lived here almost all her life, is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Coleman of South Ardmore avenue. She is well known in musical circles as well as society, contributing generously of her beautiful soprano voice for the pleasure of her friends.

Mr. Schaehenman, formerly of Louisville, Ky., has made Los Angeles his home for two years. The wedding will take place in this city on January 2.

Today and Tomorrow

For the first time in many years a real Spanish fiesta is going to be celebrated again in Southern California, when the Assistance League dispenses hospitality for local charities at its community house, De Longpre avenue and St. Andrews Place, Hollywood, today and tomorrow.

Real Spanish coffee will be served in the Latin-American way, with azalea, in the vine-covered patio both afternoons, under personal supervision of Mme. J. Rosine and Mrs. Hancock Banning, jr.

Elaborate luncheons will be served on the roof garden with Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy and Mrs. Neal Dolly as hostesses. Many tables have been reserved for afternoon mah jongg, with Miss Katherine Mellus presiding. On Thursday evening a Spanish barbecue supper will be served under supervision of Mr. E. Avery McCarthy.

Some of the most unusual objects to be had in Los Angeles may be seen at the Christmas shop, which is showing articles hand made by women of the Los Angeles Russian quarters, and doll furniture finely made by crippled men.

Mrs. Robert Frank Gross is general chairman of the shop, and with debutantes, has been working faithfully for many months on the exquisite conventual articles now offered for sale. Miss Alice Hicks, Mrs. Gross's daughter, is donating her beautiful singing voice at the dinner hour this evening and tomorrow evening, accompanied by Arthur Dodge. Edward Maltby will entertain at the piano and Miss Tilda Wilson is giving her delightful concertina both evenings.

Dance and Dance

Miss Joan Hill entertained twelve guests Monday evening with a dinner party at the Fine Arts Theater, followed by a supper dance at the Biltmore Hotel. This charming affair was to compliment Mrs. Hayward of Victoria, who is visiting Mrs. Chester Wallace Lee, and has been the guest of honor at many parties since her arrival two weeks ago.

SHORT FROCK FROM PATOU

Patou's clothes are, as always, supremely wearable, for he is one of the Paris designers who seem to have grown out all over, so that he knows just what the smart woman wants to buy.

This is a street frock, not in black and white, as the sketch would seem to indicate, but in navy blue. The fabric is broadcloth, the striping is black braid of varying widths, and the fur is ermine. There is a detachable cape of the monkey, too, that fits up tight around one's neck. The collars, especially those tied with ribbons in up-and-down bows, are popular in Paris at the moment. The front panel of the coat, as one sees, has that fulness which is denied to the black. (Vogue, Inc., New York.)

Boyesen is High in Examination as Aide to Chief

Ralph S. Boyesen headed the civil service list for secretary to the Chief of Police, Chief Vollmer was unofficially informed by the Civil Service Commission yesterday, and is expected to be promptly appointed to the position, which he has held for some time past. The appointment will follow official notice by the commission.

Boyesen got a grade of 93.8; Glenn Gravatt was marked at 86.2 and Wallace H. Copping at 77.8. Mrs. E. C. Osterman, the fourth to take the examination, did not qualify.

Chief of Police Pendegast appointed Boyesen, who had been secretary to Mayor Snyder. He left the police department and for three years was editor of the American Legion Bulletin, coming back to become secretary to Chief of Police Oaks last spring. He was continued in the post by Chief Vollmer. The office was placed under civil service by the voters last May.

Commissioners Sustain Ousting of Patrolmen

The Board of Police Commissioners yesterday sustained the action of Chief of Police Vollmer in suspending two patrolmen, F. C. Kull and Charles B. George, pending their trial on a charge of accepting a bribe. The two were indicted by the grand jury, and their trial set for late this month.

Mayor Cryer explained that the commissioners did not pass judgment on the men's innocence or guilt, and that if they were exonerated in court, their cases would be reopened.

Saturday afternoon, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Atkinson announced to thirty guests the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eva Atkinson, to Truman R. Johnson. Miss Atkinson recently has returned from Hanchow, China, where she has been associated for two years with the Christian College.

Mr. Johnson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Johnson of Pasadena, and is associated with the Pacific-Southwest Bank in Pasadena. The date for the wedding has not been announced.

Bridge and Mah Jongg

Next Saturday afternoon the Zeta Beta Psi Sorority, composed of Marlborough girls is giving a bridge and mah jongg tea in the banquet room of the Elite for the benefit of the Orthopedic Hospital. Almost all the tables already are sold and the affair promises to be a brilliant success. The hostesses for the afternoon include Misses Mayre Benninger, Helen Worthington, Dorothy Henry, Zella Ingraham, Marjorie Hamlin and Katherine Jean.

Musical Mornings

Society is looking forward to the series of morning musicales at the studio of Miss Mildred Marsh on Oak Knoll avenue, Pasadena, when Miss Marsh and Henri J. Van Praag will present four programs, one sonata at each concert. The dates for these delightful mornings are the 15th inst., January 8, January 29 and February 19.

Both artists are well known here as well as in the East and abroad. Miss Marsh is an American artist, although she spent several years in Europe, where she played many times with famous orchestras. Mr. Von Praag, violinist, was at one time concert master of the Philharmonic Orchestra in Ostend, Belgium, and first violinist of the Royal Chamber Music Society of Amsterdam, Holland. For ten years before coming to Pasadena he was an important factor in the musical life of New York.

A notable list of society women are sponsoring the concerts, among whom are Mmes. William A. Brackenridge, David Blankenhorn, George H. Martin, H. H. Sinclair, W. W. Mines, Montague Glass, Edwin H. Fowler, F. K. Dickey, Carol Allen and George Dodworth.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

WASHING FLUIDS ARE POISONS!

Do you always put your lye preparations, which you use for laundry purposes or any other purposes, safely out of reach of your children? Do you always wash out very thoroughly the dish which you use to measure the lye? If you do not, mothers, you may regret it intensely.

Lye can cause the most terrible burns. There are too many children dying from starvation because of the carelessness of mothers leaving lye preparations around. Children have swallowed just a few drops of lye solution left carelessly in the measuring cup, and the scar tissue from the burns in the esophaguz (tube—gullet—leading to the stomach) has contracted the tube so that sometimes not even water can get by it.

In a paper which was prepared by one of the physicians in charge of the Bronchoscopic Clinic in Philadelphia, there is a report of twenty cases sent to the clinic during the past sixteen months. A few of these histories will be instructive.

A boy of 3 was sent to the clinic on account of the inability to swallow solid foods and the beginning difficulty in swallowing liquid foods. Three weeks before admission to the clinic the child's mother, while using lye for cleansing purposes, was called to answer the telephone. During this brief interval the child either ate some lye or drank some of the lye solution: His lips and mouth were severely burned. Since the accident he had been unable to swallow solid foods and liquids were taken with difficulty. There had been a gradual loss of weight and at admission the child was very pale, undernourished and quite ill. X-ray examinations showed a marked narrowing of the esophagus. In order to nourish the child he had to be operated upon and an opening made into his abdominal wall.

Another case was a girl of 2 years. About twelve weeks before she was brought to the clinic the child's mother was using lye to make soap and pouring the solution into cups. The child drank from one of the cups which had been previously emptied, but still contained a few drops of the solution. This child was also severely burned and could not take any solids or liquids. She also had to be fed through an opening cut into the stomach.

Still one other case to illustrate the importance of keeping lye out of reach of children. A boy, aged 9, was brought to the clinic on account of marked loss of weight and inability to swallow anything but liquids. When 4 years old he accidentally took some lye in coffee, mistaking it for sugar. He had received no treatment of any kind since the accident, and his condition was brought to the attention of the Red Cross during the medical examination of school children in a rural school. In order to save this child's life he also had to be fed through a cut in the stomach.

In some of the cases reported the physicians were able to stretch the esophagus by passing into it instruments made for that purpose. If this is impossible, then the patient must be permanently fed through the opening in the abdominal wall. This, or death.

"Wouldn't you think that preparations so terribly poisonous as these would be labeled with the "poison scare" labels with warnings to keep them out of reach of children, as are other poisons? They are not so labeled!

These terrible disasters which I have told you about can be traced to the fact that the mothers do not realize the poisonous nature of these preparations because they are not labeled poisonous. We must do something about this.

Individual mothers, parent-teachers' organizations and women's clubs, write to your State representatives calling attention to this urgent need for a law compelling the manufacturers of these preparations to label them with "poison scare" labels.

FORMER JAILER HONORED

J. Mark Bailey, former county jailer, now in charge of the transportation of prisoners, was given a gold badge yesterday by the turnkeys and guards of the jail. David E. Crouchorn, the new jailer, made the presentation speech, and Sheriff Traeger spoke briefly. Bailey has been in the Sheriff's office twelve years and was relieved from his duty as jailer at his own request.

MANY HEAR CEMETERY SITE FIGHT

Palms Spectators Crowd Court in Case Brought by Development Company

Scores of spectators from Palms crowded the courtroom of United States District Judge Bledsoe yesterday to hear testimony in the action brought by the Palm Crest Development Company against the county of Los Angeles to have restrained the operation of an ordinance adopted by the Board of Supervisors prohibiting the establishment and maintenance of a cemetery, mausoleum or crematory within one mile of where there are 100 dwellings. By stipulation the evidence taken in the State courts in the case brought by Emma N. Paul against the Palm Crest Development Company, involving a similar point, was made part of the record.

The trouble arises out of efforts of the corporation to establish a cemetery at Palms in a section which now is part of the city of Los Angeles. An old county ordinance restricts the operation of a burying ground in certain localities.

The witnesses for the most part are residents of Palms who object to the establishment of a place for burial purposes so near their homes. It is declared by the plaintiff corporation that the property, consisting of almost fifty acres, is located so as not to be objectionable to the owners of homes in that vicinity.

Reports From East Showing Travel on Increase

Los Angeles Goal of Those Who Seek Warm Clime

Florida is Losing as Resort for Winter Months

The tourist tide to Los Angeles from the East is expected to sweep aside all previous records for winter travel during the next few months, according to a report which has been compiled by F. S. McGinnis, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Southern Pacific Company.

The report is based on predictions and figures made and gathered by the railroad's general agents in their respective territories in the East. It shows an increase of from 20 to 25 per cent in the passenger movement to California from the East, as compared to the same period last year. It also indicates that the general conditions throughout the country favor a still larger increase in passenger traffic in the months to come.

BUSINESS GOOD

Passenger traffic business in the Missouri territority has been unusually good thus far, the road's general agent at St. Louis reports. The month of November has shown a material increase over the same month last year, and over October of this year, the St. Louis agent stated in his travel prospectus.

Business and financial conditions in Memphis, Tenn., have shown an improvement, and traffic movement from this territory to California is therefore on the increase, the agent in that city reported. The general outlook for December and for the winter as a whole is equally good, and the prospects are that winter travel to Southern California especially will exceed last winter's record.

Crop conditions have fallen below expectations, the report from Memphis continues. This will have its effect on the general business situation later, and will be reflected in decreased travel, but this will not be felt until spring, the report concludes.

PITTSBURG REPORT

The general agent at Pittsburg reports as follows: While it is too early to give anything like an accurate estimate of the amount of travel to California this winter, present indications point to a substantial increase in travel over a year ago. Inquiries are increasing with each succeeding week, and office sales at the present writing are in excess of the entire month of November, 1922.

Money seems plentiful, which has always been a barometer for increased travel to California, for when the markets are tight Florida benefits as against California for winter travel from this territory.

The report from the Baltimore (Md.) agency says if present commercial and industrial conditions in this section continue throughout the winter, I believe the movement from the Baltimore territory to California and Los Angeles will be about 15 per cent greater than last year.

Should we have a particularly severe winter in this section, there probably will be a still greater increase.

SEES INCREASE

The company's general agent at Philadelphia is not as optimistic as many of the others. He says ticket sales at this point to California have been constantly increasing ever since the office was reopened after government control until in 1921 they were greater than in any previous year in the history of the agency. In 1922 the sales fell off. From all indications 1923 sales will exceed those of 1921 and 1922 by a very large percentage. "This, in my opinion," he states, "is brought about by the fact that there has been more travel to California due to unsettled conditions in Europe, and while we can reasonably expect a continued increase in travel, due to natural increase in population, I doubt that we can continue to show an increase over that of the current year, especially since 1924 will bring a Presidential election."

The agency at Cincinnati says: "Outlook for the coming winter season is very encouraging. Business to California during October increased 50 per cent over the same month last year, and we are very optimistic of a continued good showing."

ADVERTISING PAYS

The transcontinental lines along with the All Year Club, Californians, Inc., Chambers of Commerce and other organizations, are continuing very extensive advertising campaigns in educating the eastern people and am pleased to say, producing gratifying results.

OKLAHOMA CITY. We can forecast a considerable amount of increased travel from this territory to California this winter. Travel from Oklahoma is heavier during the summer season than during the winter months, account of the mild winter here. Winter tourist travel seems to be holding its own. Requests for literature and rates to California are somewhat on the increase.

DETROIT. Prospects appear to be very favorable for an increased movement during the coming winter. There seems to be a great deal of interest shown about California in this section of the country and we have come across several people who have been going to Florida for several winters who are contemplating trips to California. The advertising being carried on by various California organizations is bearing fruit.

PROSPECTS GOOD

INDIANAPOLIS. Unable to make definite statement concerning the coming winter travel, but it would be safe to make a general assertion that prospects are better this winter than ever before, this is particularly true of Los Angeles, and especially applicable to one-way travel.

BUFFALO. Expect this winter season to be somewhat lighter than last year.

DENVER. Unable to give a conservative estimate of the amount of travel from Colorado territory to California this winter due to present business and financial conditions. From all inquiries and investigations it would appear that travel from this particular section to California during the winter months is going to be considerably less than last year. However, conditions may have a tendency to cause many of those who had anticipated visiting California to go there with a view of locating.

BIRMINGHAM. Present indications point to a steady flow of tourists from this territory into California this winter.

BOSTON. Business from the New England territory to or through California for the ensuing year should exceed last year's from 20 to 25 per cent. This estimate is based on inquiries we are receiving and evidence secured from our field force. The experiences of last winter which were exceedingly severe and the additional hardships experienced on account of the distressing fuel situation, will undoubtedly stimulate travel to that section of the country where such experiences will not be duplicated.

Judge Lamb, Formerly of This City, Dies

Judge Porter E. Lamb of Burlingame, formerly a resident of Los Angeles and of a prominent family, died suddenly yesterday in Augusta, Me., according to a telegram received last night by his sister, Mrs. James Donovan of 109 North Union avenue. He was stricken while visiting in the home of Gov. Baxter. Judge Lamb was a member of the bench at Burlingame at the time of his death.

Judge and Mrs. Lamb had gone East by water in hopes that an ocean voyage would benefit his failing health. Mrs. Lamb was with him at the time of his death. He was 44 years of age.

The body will be returned to California for burial. Besides the widow, Mrs. Josephine Lamb, and Mrs. Donovan, he leaves several children.

INCOME-TAX DATE NEARS

Final Payment on Yearly Assessment Will be Due on 15th Inst., Collector Warns

Yesterday United States Collector of Internal Revenue Goodcell notified 40,000 taxpayers in the local internal revenue district, that the fourth and final payment of their income tax will be due on the 15th inst. Unless paid by that time the taxpayer will be classed as "delinquent" and penalties and interest will follow.

Income-tax receipts for the Los Angeles district from January 1 to December 1, reached the total of $32,215,840, as compared with $27,269,564 for the same period of 1922.

Of the 230,000 personal returns filed this year, about 40,000 elected to pay their taxes on the installment plan, and it is these taxpayers that the notice referred to above has been sent.

So-called doubtful returns, numbering 15,000, are being investigated by special investigators sent here from Washington.

The drive of the deputies will be devoted to the verification of such returns, and to the checking of returns made by corporations of dividends paid to individuals, and of returns by corporations and partnerships showing salaries of $1000 or more paid to individuals.

Owing to the fact that there are many persons in the district with the same initials, it will greatly expedite the work if taxpayers will write their first names in full, and set down the addresses plainly. Up to July 1, of the present year, $500,000 in unidentified collections were carried on the books of the local internal revenue office. It required a force of clerks to run down and properly credit this immense sum.

DE MILLE FILM THRILLS CROWD

tion and every marvelous iridescent gleam of light and shade that the screen shot forth was weighed and praised and even thrilled over.

AUDIENCE APPLAUDS

Again and again during the long biblical prologue did the audience of celebrities burst into applause. At times the handclappings were even supplemented by muffled cries and cheers, especially when the full magnitude of such scenes as are comprised in the Exodus of the Children of Israel and the great inundation of the waters of the sea over the heads of the Egyptian soldiers, was revealed in all its awe-conjuring power.

One of the finest things that have been attained in "The Ten Commandments" is the general presentation. Grauman's Egyptian Theater, which was the scene of the premiere, has become renowned for this, and in considerably more than a year but two different productions have shown there. "The Ten Commandments" is the third, and it might be said that the whole spirit of the occasion—the beauty of the combined effects on the stage and in the music as well as on the screen—even transcends what audiences recollect as sovereign attractiveness in the cast of "Robin Hood" and "The Covered Wagon."

The mood is set right at the start, and it must be said without reservation that pictorially it is a highly artistic one. The presentation of the biblical characters is taken right from the film itself. The scene showing Pharaoh in his great pillared palace is duplicated in faithful detail, and the dancers and the figures in the actual drama come to life.

TABLEAUX PLEASE

Later we have examples of the art of time carried out in the groupings of different tableaux. There are first "The Three Wise Men." "The Babe of Bethlehem" and "The Last Supper." Finally, big epic stage pictures, like those typifying "Victory," "Fear," the "Struggle of Humanity," and finally leading back to the production again in the "Preparing for the Festivities at Pharaoh's Palace." These tableaux, with the music, and the songs and dances with which they are blended, comprise both barbaric and highly spiritual motifs, and are among the finest achievements of the kind that have been seen on the stage.

Of course, the impulse of such staging and presentation is irresistible. As well done as this is, it makes the screen almost assumes three dimensions, and the pictorial composition of the De Mille feature is so superlatively fine that you do not come down to the level of earth itself until you reach the modern story.

At the risk of being a trifle whimsical, I will have to say that I didn't appreciate being on the earth for at least twenty minutes after that modern story has started. The intermission gives one a chance to recuperate from the effects of the grandeur of the biblical drama, and the last portion of "The Ten Commandments" can then be anticipated with a great deal of interest. Whatever may be said for or against the mingling of such values as Mr. De Mille has in his two stories, it must be admitted that they both have power.

NEED TWO PARTS

Personally I'd like to take two pairs of eyes with me if I were going to see this picture again. One pair I'd reserve for the biblical portion, and the other I'd begin to use as soon as the thriller is under way. Really a criticism ought to be divided into two different parts when it comes to considering the production.

I have said sufficient I think to establish the wonders of the biblical story, which I have sought to emphasize thus far in this article. That section is a magnificent tour de force, and the only person who even comes near being the star is Theodore Roberts. The real stars are the men who photographed the narrative and those who achieved the technical effects, outside of Mr. De Mille himself, whose personality has dominated the scenes.

To a single actor go the majority of the laurels of the modern story of the McTavishes and their affairs. This actor is Rod la Roque, who plays the scoffer at the biblical traditions. He has turned the story so much his way that he has nearly won the sympathy of the public for himself, and come within an ace, you might say, of confuting the actual purpose.

Mr. La Roque heretofore has been lounging in the lighter sort of plays, but he has suddenly come to the fore as a real interpreter. He has absolutely sustained one of the most difficult characterizations through very dangerous shoals, and made you accept not only his characterization but virtually the entire last half of the play.

LA ROQUE STAR

Of course, he had his opportunity. Mr. De Mille has always been a great actor's director, and he may register one more splendid success in disclosing talent. The other parts are all well taken, but there is nothing to equal the way in which La Roque sinks gradually down into the mire of degradation, and the manner in which his suffering and his despair are by degrees etched on his face.

It is mostly in the acting that the appeal of the latter's portion of "The Ten Commandments" lies. The story is not one of conventional popular appeal by any means, because De Mille doesn't generally make the conventional type of story, but it has a plentiful share of hokum. Once you really become interested it holds, though, as few of De Mille's past pictures have gripped. It amounts in the summing to a sort of rarified thriller of the Grand Guignol type.

I hope I have made clear the manner in which I distinguish between the two different effects attained in "The Ten Commandments;" One, the biblical prologue, is glorious beyond measure, and will live in the memory of the public forever; the other is interesting and significant, because it carries out a purpose set forth in the prologue, and demonstrates as no other picture has demonstrated Mr. De Mille's capacity for serious dramatic effects. The combination of the two spun on a thread of the theatrical, makes a remarkably interesting and worthwhile entertainment. For the artistic connoisseurs there is a clash and a very bad one in these two different parts, but entertainment with a very worth-while thought embodied in it, they far surpass the majority of the pictures that we have known. It is not a complete victory for De Mille, but it is a capital one; and his pioneering deserves the finest sort of commendation.

ROBERTS'S GREAT ROLE

For adding to the biblical prologue one must praise beyond measure his choice of people. Mr. Roberts has surpassed anything he has ever done in a serious way as the Lawgiver of the Chosen people. Serene and dominant, he is a figure that commands the scenes in which he appears, especially when you view his flowing patriarchal beard as he stands in the midst of the throng. Estelle Taylor has several scenes that are exceptionally effective. She seems to match flawlessly the requirements of the role of Miriam. Charles De Roche has found himself as the statuesque Pharaoh. James Neill and Clarence Burton are also good in this part of the picture.

Praise belongs to all the people who appear in the modern story, but aside from Mr. La Roque, especially to Nita Naldi, for her portrayal of the lotus leper from Molokai. Leatrice Joy is, as always, fascinating and splendidly sympathetic as the wife, and Richard Dix sustains a character that is genuine, but unfortunately not noteworthy, while Edythe Chapman has given her most exceptional portrayal as Mrs. Martha McTavish, the mother who lives according to the letter but not the spirit of the law. Robert Edeson also is very good. Demands of time and space forbid giving some of these people the detailed credit for their work, they deserve, but they have all registered splendid performances.

"The Ten Commandments" is a picture that you cannot, by any stretch of the imagination, afford to miss. It offers new splendors of photography and theatrical wonders hitherto unrevealed. It is, in fact, the greatest masterpiece, thus far, of pictorial artistry—and it has a lot to offer besides.

INSURANCE MAN SHOT IN MISHAP

E. F. Williams May Die From Wound Received Cleaning Gun

E. Francis Williams, 63 years of age, one of the leading insurance brokers of the city, accidentally shot and wounded himself, probably fatally, late yesterday afternoon while cleaning a revolver in the garage at the rear of his home at 1973 Cheramoya street, Hollywood.

The revolver, which Mr. Williams had believed to be unloaded, exploded sending a bullet through his stomach. The victim was removed to Receiving Hospital in a police ambulance. Police Surgeon Saverien, who gave him emergency treatment, declared he had virtually no chance for recovery. Last night Mr. Williams was reported to be sinking rapidly and unconscious.

Police learned that Mr. Williams had noticed burglars prowling about his home for several nights and was cleaning the gun in order to have it in readiness should the burglars break in. Mrs. J. D. Maxwell of Occidental, his daughter, was in the yard when she heard the shot. She found her father lying on the garage floor with the gun still gripped in his hand.

Wyman Williams of 522 Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, a son of Mr. Williams, is manager of the W. J. Shaw Bond Company here.

Ruins in Mexico to be Filmed by Archeologists

A motion-picture record of some of the little-known ruins of Mexico, declared by archeologists to be superior in many respects to the famous ruins of Egypt, will be brought back to Los Angeles by a group of scientists and adventurers under the direction of Capt. D. S. Corlett, who departed Sunday for Mexico.

The expedition has the backing of the Archeological Society of Washington D.C., and of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. It is planned to make a film comparing the best examples of the ruins of Mexico, Egypt and California. If circumstances permit, the expedition also will undertake to make reels showing the agricultural possibilities of Mexico, depicting the growth of copra, coffee, rubber, cocoa, fiber and other principal products. The camera man of the expedition is W. J. Beckway.

EMBEZZLER SUSPECT TO BE TRIED MONDAY

William A. Bartholomae, Jr., accused on two counts of embezzlement from the Bartholomae Oil Syndicate No. 2, was arraigned yesterday before Justice Baird, who fixed bail at $5000 and set the 10th inst. for a hearing. One count charges taking of $15,000 and one of $9000. Bartholomae was a trustee of the syndicate, which is a common-law joint-stock company.

Mexicans Ask Right to Play Native Games

Fifty-four Mexican residents of Owensmouth yesterday added a formal protest to the numerous verbal arguments against the revocation of a permit to Cesto Mora Salcedo to conduct a handball court in the Mexican section of Owensmouth. The petition, addressed to the Chamber of Commerce of Owensmouth which requested the City Council to revoke the permit, and to the City Council, testifies to the character and peaceful disposition of Senor Salcedo and to the good that is said to have resulted from the handball court.

Praising the good effects of the court, the petition states before its establishment Mexicans and others would congregate in secret places and play card games and other pastimes "greatly endangering the safety and peace of the community," but that the handball court cured these evil conditions.

Handball, or in Spanish, La Pelota, is an ancient Mexican game and its playing is a source of much enjoyment to Mexicans, the petition says. The request of the Chamber of Commerce was brought to the attention of the Mexican residents chiefly through a story in The Times that described the situation in detail. Feeling is said to be intense among Mexicans in opposition of what they consider an inalienable right to play La Pelota.

Vaccination Urged by Officials to Prevent Epidemic

An appeal to the public to cooperate with the Health Department in preventing the further spread of smallpox in the city was issued yesterday by Health Commissioner L. M. Powers. There are now sixty-three cases, department records show, fifty-three of which are in the city detention hospital and ten quarantined in their own homes, and the increase in daily new cases since the first of the year has been almost constant.

"Vaccination before exposure is a sure preventive," Mr. Powers said, "and is harmless except in rare cases where it may have been incompetently done. But large numbers of the population have not been educated to understand this and this department under the law of the State is powerless to act until the disease has developed or we have reasonable proof that exposure to it has occurred. The result is that without the co-operation of the public all we can do is follow up the cases after they have developed."

Hotel Building is Planned for Eastside Site

Announcement was made yesterday by Architects [illegible] and Alpaugh that they have been commissioned to prepare plans for a nine-story and basement [illegible] construction, store and hotel building to be erected on the southwest corner of Fifth and San Pedro streets for E. N. Adams, at a cost of approximately [illegible].

Present plans provide for a structure to include stores on the ground floor with [illegible] stories divided into [illegible] half with baths and [illegible] with showers and lavatories. The building will be of reinforced concrete construction with brick exterior, terra cotta trim, and will be erected by the Johnson Company, who has been awarded the contract on a percentage basis.

The site of the proposed [illegible] and hotel building is 95 feet deep with 138 feet frontage on San Pedro street. E. N. Adams, who is planning the erection, is the owner of the drug store now [illegible] the corner.

Car Shakes Man Off Trestle; He Nearly Drowns

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 4.—[illegible] Smith, a cook at the Virginia Country Club, was injured and almost drowned tonight when he fell into the ocean from a Pacific Electric trestle between Seal Beach and Long Beach in his efforts to avoid being struck by a southbound interurban car.

Smith was crossing the trestle when the car bore down upon him. He climbed down a gas pipe, according to the railroad men, but the passing car dislodged him and he fell, striking his right arm and head. He sank out of it before he reached the surface of the waters. He sank twice, he said, and was rescued by H. D. Wills, motorman, and J. E. Price, conductor, who leaped in after him. Smith was brought by the trainmen to the Seaside Hospital in Long Beach. Physicians said he probably will recover.

BOND SALE [illegible]

The City Council will open bids at 2 p. m. on the 11th inst. [illegible] for the sale of $80,000 of 5½ per cent improvement bonds for the purchase of the now private [illegible] water system in the [illegible] district.

WOODS TO INVEST

NEW YORK PRODUCER SEEKS THEATER HERE

By Grace Kingsley

A. H. Woods, noted New York theatrical producer, is seeking a professional home here. He wants to secure a theater in Los Angeles in which to make productions, according to the statement of Mary Newcomb, former leading woman at the Majestic and now one of Woods's stars, who lately returned west.

"This desire of Mr. Woods to secure a local theater in which to make his productions is one of the reasons I am here," declared Miss Newcomb yesterday. "I am awaiting the call of Mr. Woods to return to New York and go into a new play, but in the meantime I am looking about for a theater, acting under his instructions. Two different theaters, one on Broadway and the other on Grand avenue, are now under consideration. Both are occupied at present, but their seasons will end next summer.

"One reason for Mr. Woods's desire to produce here is the fact that this city is fast becoming a real production center, and he will be able to give his successful plays a fair run before taking them to New York, thus having time to whip them into shape. Another is that he will be able to sell the picture rights to them readily, as they will be easy of access to picture producers, scenario writers and directors.

"Mr. Woods hopes to be located here by next summer, and I hope he will be, because he has promised that I may return to Los Angeles, of which I am very fond, and where I made my first real success. I expect to create the leading roles in one or two of his new plays."

Miss Newcomb was far and away the most popular stock leading woman the Majestic ever had. She went to New York last year and made a great hit in "The Woman on the Jury." She is the wife of Robert Edeson, stage and picture star, who recently bought a home here.

Flower Can't Be Stopped

You who admire the brilliant dancing of Flower Huger, solo dancer in Theodore Kosloff's ballet at the Orpheum, will be perhaps interested to learn that you came very near not seeing her at all, for the very simple reason that she came near not being in the ballet. If her mamma had had her way, Miss Flower would not now be pirouting before the public, but would be picking daisies in the healthful atmosphere of the family backyard.

Miss Huger has been studying dancing with Kosloff for the past seven years, beginning when she was a very little girl. She loves the work, and has always been, from the very a-b-c-one-two-three-kick days, Kosloff's star pupil.

But despite her genius, and despite her healthful exercise, she has remained rather delicate. So when she was taken ill with a cold in San Francisco, her mother one night came and spirited her back home to Los Angeles, insisting that she take a vacation.

But Flower grew rapidly better under her mother's nursing, and one afternoon when she was supposed to be resting in the hammock in the sunshine, she was hastily packing her suitcase, and when mamma was not looking she dashed down to the train, sent a wire dutifully to her mother, hopped the train northbound, and rejoined the Kosloff troupe at Fresno.

"Why, I never felt better in my life," declared the young dancer yesterday. "I simply couldn't be made an invalid by lying around thinking about my health, now could I? I hated to worry mamma. My mother is the most wonderful mother in the world, and I appreciate her, but I must think of my career."

Mr. Kosloff has some great plans for this young lady, who will doubtless become a nationally known ballet star one of these days.

Pola Negri's New Director

Mimitri Buchowetzki, the Polish director who is visiting the United States, has left New York for Los Angeles for a conference with Jesse L. Lasky, according to telegraphic word just received from the East.

It is on the books that he will direct Pola Negri in her next production. Mr. Buchowetzki among other films is responsible for "Peter the Great."

"Topsy and Eva's" New Actors

When the Duncan Sisters' show, "Topsy and Eva," goes on at the Majestic next Sunday afternoon, it will have several changes in the cast. These new players will all be taken to Chicago. Due to contracts heretofore signed by Basil Ruysdael and Harriet Bennett for another show, these two members are withdrawing.

Stanley Ford, of the New York musical comedy stage, has just arrived to rehearse the role of "Uncle Tom," and Allyn King, a Ziegfeld Follies star, who also has had experience in the drama, will play the role of Mariette.

Needless to say Miss King is beautiful; added to which she has a well-trained voice, a radiant personality and much acting ability.

Another change in the bill places Helen Gage, whose stage name heretofore has been Mitzi Kimball, in the role of little Harry, as the clever child actor, Margaretta Curry, is too young to be allowed on the stage under the laws of Chicago. Constance Reese will replace Aimee Torriani, who remains here to fulfill a writing contract for a film-fan magazine.

Matinee Idol Lands Here

Walter J. Bonn, handsome leading man, arrived from New York yesterday to begin rehearsals opposite Margaret Lawrence in Thomas Wilkes's production of "Secrets," which goes on at the Majestic, following "Topsy and Eva." He is handsome enough to establish a new matinee idolship.

The actor is a German and came to this country with Max Reinhardt, when very young, to appear in the New York production of "Sumurun." He afterward played with David Warfield in "The Music Master." It was as one of the stars of "The Children of the Moon" company playing Chicago that Thomas Wilkes saw Bonn, followed by his engagement by the producer for the Lawrence play.

Thomas Wilkes himself is expected home from New York this week.

One on Van Hoven

A good joke on Frank Van Hoven, Orpheum nut star, has just come to light. Among others, it was perpetrated on Trixie Friganza, who is at the Orpheum this week, while the two were in San Francisco.

Van Hoven is a great practical joker, out like all practical jokers, he occasionally meets his comeuppance. One morning early he called up a number of his fellow-actors, concealing his identity, and declared that their contracts were all cancelled. They were all more or less perturbed, and were about to wire East, when Van Hoven relented and called them back to let them know it was all a joke.

Next morning Van Hoven was called from his slumber at 4 o'clock, and when he opened the door the house porter on duty presented him with a 500-pound cake of ice. He had to accept it.

Leo Carrillo's New One

It isn't likely we shall see Leo Carrillo this season after all. He has parked "Magnolia," his Booth Tarkington play of the South, in the storehouse, back in New York, following its cool reception in the South, and Arthur Hammerstein is putting him out in another play called "Gypsy Jim."

Isabel Lowe, a cousin of Edmund Lowe, now playing at Egan's Little Theater in "The Waning Sex," is to be Carrillo's leading woman, while Harry Mestayer, formerly a Morosco Theater favorite here, has a leading role, and others in the cast are Elizabeth Patterson, George Farren, Averell and Clifford Thompson, the latter formerly of the Majestic here.

HUGHES SELECTS SIX OF TWELVE PLAYERS

Selection of six players for the cast of principals in his next Goldwyn production "True As Steel," was announced yesterday by Rupert Hughes, author-director. The story, written originally in sort story form by Maj. Hughes for a magazine and later adapted to the screen, deals with the problems of the woman in business.

Aileen Pringle, who just completed the role of the queen in "Three Weeks," will play the part of Mrs. Eva Boutelle, the woman in business. Eleanor Boardman, who became a popular favorite with her work in "Souls For Sale" and "Three Wise Fools," will play a prominent part as Ethel Parry, daughter of the male lead, which part has not yet been allotted. Gilbert Morse, the young man in love with Ethel Parry, will be played by William Haines, who was the juvenile in "Three Wise Fools." Jean Haskell, Lucien Littlefield and William Orlamond will have prominent roles.

The complete cast for the picture contains twelve principal parts. Maj. Hughes is considering players for the remaining six roles now, and plans to begin production soon.

GIVE AUTOGRAPHED PICTURES OF MARY

How would you like to have a personally autographed photograph of Mary Pickford?

Several thousand persons will be the proud possessors of these souvenirs next Friday after they attend Grauman's Million Dollar Theater, where Miss Pickford is portraying the title role in "Rosita."

Until the supply is exhausted, each ticket-holder attending the matinee on Friday will receive a photograph which pictures this star as Rosita in the costume of the little street singer of Toledo. The characteristic autograph of Mary Pickford will enhance the sentimental value of the picture as a personal gift from this cinema artist who is loved all over the world.

GERAGHTY SWITCHES UNITS

Tom J. Geraghty, production editor for the Thomas Meighan unit for Famous Players-Lasky, has been engaged to adapt the next starring vehicle for Gloria Swanson which is occupying him in New York. Mr. Geraghty, who left Los Angeles in September to adapt and later supervise "Pied Piper Malone" from the Booth Tarkington story for Mr. Meighan, completed the editing of the picture this week.

GUEST AT NEW YEAR PARTY

Mae Murray, Metro star, will be the guest of honor at the annual New Year's party of the Woman's City Club of Los Angeles to be held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Biltmore January 7. Miss Murray will make an impromptu speech concerning motion pictures and the opportunities they offer to women.

Of the Famous Talmadge Clan

Natalie Talmadge

She'll appear opposite husband, Buster Keaton, in "Hospitality" next week at Loew's State Theater.

Psychology of Light Proves Fascinating

According to Roland West, author, adapter, producer and director of "The Unknown Purple," the mystery melodrama which will startle patrons of the California Theater for another week beginning today, the most interesting subject he has ever studied is the psychology of color.

When the idea of "The Unknown Purple" flashed into the mind of the playwright he almost gave it up as he could not figure out the right colored light to use. He tried to forget the plot but it kept recurring to him and finally he went to the Metropolitan Museum and the result of his search was the fact that a purple light created the impression of chilliness and gloom. In fact some old masters referred to it as "macabre." This was the impression West wanted to convey on the stage and purple was chosen as the color of the rays to be used.

While searching out this information, West found several other things about color which he says have aided him with vaudeville sketches and motion-picture productions. He found that blue suggested innocence, pink coquetry and infidelity, green suggested treachery, red gave the impression of passion, while purple suggested mystery and the approach of death.

The use of the purple light on the stage was comparatively easy, but when the playwright came to Los Angeles to make his thriller into a motion picture the big task which confronted him was how to produce this violet ray on the screen. He spent weeks experimenting with different color-processes already known to the motion-picture art, but none of them produced the effect he desired.

At last he came to the conclusion that the only way to get the correct shade of purple he desired was to photograph the scenes in black and white and then get his effect in the printing.

The result of all this labor is one of the most mysterious colors ever seen on the screen. In the film the characters enacted by Henry B. Walthal, Alice Lake, Brinsley Shaw, Helen Ferguson, Ethel Grey Terrey, Stuart Holmes and Richard Wayne move through the violet mist in a manner which makes the audience grip their chairs and gasp when the lights flash up.

"SPOTLIGHT SWEETIES" IS BURBANK'S LATEST

At the Burbank Theater this week the Baby Dolls are presenting "Spotlight Sweeties" as their latest contribution to the musical-comedy entertainment of Los Angeles.

The show is nicely put together, staged by George Clark. The dancing numbers are staged with precision and the wardrobe is of the highest quality. Lee "Bud" Harrison and George Clark do most of the fun-making, ably supported by Gene Darby, William McKee, Grace Hutchinson and others.

On the illuminated runway the Baby Dolls show their charms and provide exciting moments when they mingle with the audience in a good-natured kidding contest.

GREY STORY NEXT AT METROPOLITAN

The spotlight glare continues to shine on the gay conduct of modern reckless sons and daughters in their party clothes, in Sam Wood's production "His Children's Children" from Arthur Train's successful novel, which holds forth at Grauman's Metropolitan Theater until Friday evening. Bebe Daniels, James Rennie, Dorothy Mackaill and George Fawcett are featured in the cast.

Zane Grey's latest story of the great west, "The Call of the Canyon," opens at the Metropolitan Saturday morning. Featured are Richard Dix, Lois Wilson and Marjorie Daw, supported by Noah Beery, Ricardo Cortez and Fred Huntly. This is Mr. Grey's second story to be produced by Paramount. Its theme is the conflict between a love of extravagance immediately following the great war and a love of clean life in the great outdoors. The story is described as refreshing drama, with a strong romantic punch.

MEET AT PAULAIS'

Last evening seventy-five members of the Municipal League gathered at Paulais'. Discussions on various municipal questions of the day were followed by short speeches and special entertainment features.

Invite Police to Showing of "White Tiger"

A special showing of Priscilla Dean in her latest Universal-Jewel production, "White Tiger," was given for Chief of Police Vollmer and the police force last night at Miller's Theater. "White Tiger" is the current attraction at the theater.

When crime experts and sociological workers disturb popular tradition by saying that there is no "honor among thieves" and that the romantic situations in stories of famous criminals are intolerable bunk, the average reader of underworld fiction smiles and thinks that someone is being "kidded." A large portion of the public refuses to believe that crime isn't romantic.

Critics have long said that the screen has the greatest power of any art to impress on people a new fact. Consequently, there is an importance attached to the engagement of "White Tiger," by police authorities, who say that in ridiculing the popular conception of "romance" in crime it does an incalculable good.

Tod Browning wrote the story of "White Tiger" originally for Miss Dean's use, and incorporated in it those elements in which she finds the best material for starring triumph, elements similar to those in "Outside the Law," a former Dean-Browning release.

Our Mabel is Real Human, if You Know Her

Though the outside world does not know it, Mabel Normand, the little star of Mack Sennett's latest production, "The Extra Girl," which is now playing at the Alhambra Theater, is a plain, real girl, with honest thoughts, good nature and a great affection for children and animals.

When Miss Normand was head over heels in the making of "The Extra Girl," the Sennett star would devote her luncheon period to golf practice, being an ardent golf player. While in the open, the studio neighborhood children, kiddies of all sizes, ages and hues, would fight for the privilege of chasing every ball she hit, and Miss Normand, by way of encouraging their willingness to render her a favor, would give each child with a returned ball ten cents. Needless to add that Miss Normand got rid of many dimes. She considered it money well spent.

Miss Normand on the Fourth of July of 1923 was hostess at a lawn party on the studio grounds. The star brought out her pedigreed dogs, a beautiful chow and an imported German police dog, and she permitted the children to play with the canine pets of their heart's content. Miss Normand entering into the play herself like a little girl. Refreshments followed and at night Miss Normand delighted her guests with a thrilling pyrotechnical display.

GOSSIPERS TIP HIM TO FIRST JOB

Brown Asks Tourneur for Work Upon Hearing Assistant Was Fired

Clarence L. Brown has two gossiping actors to thank for the fact that he got his start in motion-picture work with no less a personage than Maurice Tourneur, with whom he was later associated for several years as assistant and co-director. Back in 1915 Brown was on his way from New York to Fort Lee, then a center of production, in an effort to make even a humble connection with one of the studios. Backed by a college degree, he had become a successful automobile engineer and sales manager, but could not shake off a desire to get into the motion-picture business.

On the ferryboat he heard two actors talking, and when one remarked "Maurice Tourneur is going to fire his assistant," he immediately sought out Tourneur and applied for the job.

Tourneur, upon finding out that Brown had had absolutely no picture experience, was about to dismiss him when Brown said "You are discharging an assistant who is unsatisfactory even though he is experienced. Why not take a fresh mind and train it your own way?" Brown got the job and remained with Tourneur for six years. He then became a director in his own right.

Under his present contract to direct Super-Jewel productions for Universal he has made "The Acquittal" and is now filming "The Signal Tower," starring Virginia Valli.

CONRAD NAGEL IS WORKING IN EAST

With the arrival of Conrad Nagel in New York, work has begun on "Blood and Gold," the Distinctive production being directed by Albert Parker.

Nagel, following completion of his work as Paul in "Three Weeks," was loaned by the Goldwyn studios to Distinctive for one picture. He will play the male lead in the picture opposite Jetta Goudal, newcomer to the screen, whose work in "The Green Goddess" and "The Bright Shawl" caused something of a sensation and her her a long-term contract with Distinctive.

Wyndham Standing also was brought to New York from Hollywood to play an important role in the production.

NEW PICTURE READY

GIVING ST. LOUIS POINTERS

City Officials Here for Ideas in New Civic Center Plan, Amazed With Wonders

The group of city dads of St. Louis who are in Los Angeles to get pointers on how to spend $87,000,000, are highly pleased with what they have seen of the city thus far. Several of them have never been here before and they expressed their astonishment at what they have learned of the city's rapid growth and particularly the high figure at which property is quoted per front foot on Broadway.

The St. Louis men, who represent the Board of Aldermen of the Missouri city, are on a tour of inspection of American cities preparatory to the formulation of plans for a vast program of improvement in their home city that will involve the expenditure of $87,000,000, for which a bond issue was voted last February. They already have visited New York, Newark, Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and San Francisco, and will stop at Denver on their way home.

CIVIC CENTER PLANNED

"Our idea in taking this trip is not so much to find features to copy as it is to inform ourselves generally regarding the trend in modern city building," said E. R. Kinsey, president of the St. Louis Board of Public Service, and who is in charge of the party. "Some of our aldermen have traveled but little, and inasmuch as it will be up to them to decide on how our funds are to be spent, it was thought advisable that they make a survey of metropolitan development."

The program mapped out for St. Louis includes, among other things, the establishment of a civic center or plaza in memory of the Missouri service men who fell in the war and, in addition, an extensive series of improvements of streets, sanitation, parks and public markets.

"We believe our civic center, when completed, will be unique among American cities," said Mr. Kinsey. "We are laying our plans carefully, having an eye to the future as well as the present, and hope to be able to carry out this part of the work without being compelled to make changes either during the construction period or later.

PLEASED WITH BAY CITY

"Of the cities we have visited only Cleveland and San Francisco have formal civic centers of any extent. The Cleveland project is now under way, but has been subjected to many delays owing to changes in plans that have had to be made. The center at San Francisco impressed us very much. It has many admirable features, although it has not been laid out on so large a scale as the project we have in mind."

The proposed St. Louis center will cover eleven blocks in the heart of the city. The initial step will involve the condemnation and removal of buildings now found in this district. The tract will be devoted to public buildings of various kinds, situated around a plaza. Three buildings already are in place and will form a part of the center when it is completed. They are the City Hall, Municipal Courts Building and the Public Library. Among the new buildings to be erected is a memorial hall to cost $1,000,000 and to be used largely by war veterans; an auditorium to cost $5,000,000 and a courthouse, to cost $4,000,000.

In speaking of what he had observed in Los Angeles, Mr. Kinsey referred to traffic congestion here.

"We have had a similar problem in St. Louis, also," he said, "and to remedy the situation so far as possible we contemplate the expenditure of $8,650,000 of our improvement fund on the opening of new streets and the widening of old ones. We are planning three main thoroughfares through the city, leading out from the civic center, each 100 feet in width. We have found that the only adequate remedy for traffic congestion is wider streets, and although it is rather drastic when you have to add forty feet to the width of a street for a considerable distance, as we will be forced to do, it is the only definite solution of the problem I know of."

BONDS RUN TWENTY YEARS

The bonds for the improvement fund are to run for twenty years and it is expected to complete all the construction work under the program within ten years. Asked as to whether this vast sum put into public works would not produce inordinately high taxes, Mr Kinsey replied that before the bond issue was put to a vote, expert municipal accountants figured out that with the rise in realty values the increase in taxes would not amount to more than 5 cents per hundred on valuation annually.

"We placed this fact as well as all others relative to the improvement plans before the voters in a pamphlet issued prior to the election," he said, "with the result that the bond was carried by a two-thirds majority. We feel that with this showing we have sufficient backing among the people to carry out plans without difficulty."

Mr. Kinsel added that this favorable state of the public mind had been brought about through a system of education.

"Ten years ago we tried to put over a bond issue of $10,000,000 for public improvements, which was defeated," he said. "Some time thereafter a bond issue of $27,000,000 was attempted, but only a part of it carried. But when the present bond issue of $87,000,000 was put to a vote, two-thirds of the people voted for it."

MUSIC FIRM ANNOUNCES OPEN HOUSE

Martin Company Invites Public to View Interior of New Store

BY OLIVE GRAY

The Martin Music Company today and tomorrow is keeping open house, entertaining with a concert program in its recently completed establishment at 734 South Hill street.

The interior of this interesting store is in the Italian style, incorporating, however, a distinctive atmosphere by means of a novel arrangement of rooms and unusually well-thought-out decorative effects, consummated under direction of Elmer Grey. The vaulted ceiling, in broken-tone backgrounds, is enriched by applied designs in brilliant colorings, softened and unified into pleasing harmony.

While practical convenience has not been overlooked, the result is highly artistic and unlike the traditional commercial institution. A spacious reception salon on the first floor is flanked by numerous phonograph, roll and record booths. The second floor is devoted to display rooms, concert hall and commodious piano and phonograph salesrooms.

John and M. F. Martin are men of wide experience in the music world, having acquainted themselves with all phases of the business in the East before coming to California. Members of the corporation are John Martin, president; M. F. Martin, first vice-president; B. E. Gossett, second vice-president; L. M. Fontron, secretary and treasurer; J. E. Farrow, assistant secretary and treasurer.

Local Company of Grays is to Have Drill Hall

A Hollywood site has been selected by the California Grays, Los Angeles company, for its headquarters and clubrooms, it was announced last night by the board of directors of the company. Property has been leased and plans completed for construction work that will be started at once to provide a drill hall some 45x100 feet.

Development of the California Grays here will provide for Los Angeles an organization such as has won fame for San Francisco throughout the country as one of the most proficient and spectacular corps in the world as a civic escort of honor to distinguished visitors and as leader in pageantry in civic, State and national celebrations.

The California Grays is an independent and self-supporting organization of young men, formed for the purpose of gaining military proficiency and to foster a spirit of national, State and civic patriotism. The charter organization of the Los Angeles company is made up almost entirely of young executives in business organizations of Los Angeles and includes a number of army reserve officers.

The history of the California Grays in San Francisco dates back to 1890. The dress uniform of the Grays is similar to that of West Point cadets, and the organization has been the guard of honor to every President who has visited the Coast.

The officers of the Los Angeles company are E. H. Clausen, captain commanding; Bert Scouler, first lieutenant; W. D. Smith, second lieutenant; A. M. Iarson, first sergeant. The board of directors consists of E. H. Clauson, chairman; W. D. Smith, secretary; W. A. Bailey, treasurer, and A. M. Iarson, L. A. Farnum, W. H. Martin, E. W. Payntum, W. B. Clausen, E. M. Jorgensen.

SHUT-IN-SHOP SALE

Proceeds for Aid of Indigent Disabled of City

Sale of articles made by invalids and others confined to their homes and receiving assistance from the Shut-In Shop will begin at the Assistance League headquarters, corner of De Longpre avenue and St. Andrew's Place, today.

The shop was recently organized under the direction of Mrs. Saul Morris. Its purpose is to help the disabled and invalid of the city who are in need of money to become independent by making any small article which they can. These articles are purchased by the shop which, in turn, sells them to the public. A corps of instructors to teach the disabled to make these articles is maintained and the materials from which the various things are made are furnished by the shop. The profits are used to extend the work. All "shut-ins" may take advantage of the opportunity thus provided.

UNITY URGED IN CHARITY WORK

Increase in Population Adds to Problem

Workers Discuss General Christmas Program

Social Service Board to Aid Campaign

Charitable organizations in their program to bring Christmas to the needy of Los Angeles are confronted with a larger task this year than ever before owing to the larger number of needy persons and the congested condition in the poorer districts, said D. F. McLaughlin, head of the County Charities, yesterday at a meeting of more than fifty representatives of social agencies conducted under the direction of the Christmas committee of the Social Service Commission.

"The extraordinary growth of Los Angeles and the increase in population adds to the responsibilities of the citizens in its Christmas program for the poor," said Mr. McLaughlin.

The meeting yesterday was called to unite the various organizations who will administer Christmas aid to the needy and to give the campaign the benefit of the organization of the Social Service Commission. Mrs. Charles H. Richmond, chairman of the commission's Christmas committee, urged the representatives to avoid the mistakes of the past and to join in the organization to prevent duplication of effort.

CENTRALIZE PLANS

All of the representatives present were strongly in favor of the centralized campaign and promised to use the commission's trained workers in their programs.

Christmas will be made bright in many homes of the needy, according to reports of representatives present. Every effort will be made to obtain the names of persons worthy of help and no one will go without Christmas cheer if the organizations are able to discover his whereabouts, it was said.

Mr. McLaughlin announced that plans have been made to feed 400 children Christmas Day on the battleships California and New Mexico at Los Angeles Harbor. Mrs. Richmond urged the representatives present to report all needy cases. She said approximately 6000 baskets of food will be sent out and a large amount of toys, candy and necessities will be provided.

PLAN SURVEY

A survey of the needy of Los Angeles will be made by the various social agencies in the next week and the commission will be used as a "clearinghouse" to determine on the needy cases that shall be helped on Christmas, Mrs. Richmond said.

One more meeting of the commission and the social agencies will be conducted before Christmas, probably the Tuesday before, Mrs. Richmond said, at which time the machinery for systematic distribution of charity will be in more perfect working order and ready for the task set before it.

At the request of Mrs. Richmond the representatives present made a number of suggestions on how to improve the distribution program over last year. It was decided not to change the list of food in the baskets, but the time for distribution was set at 9 to 12 o'clock on Christmas Eve, instead of earlier hours on previous years. The twenty-one distribution centers will be maintained this year and the public will be called upon as usual to aid in distribution. Minor details will be worked out by the various organizations and the commission, it was said.

Beach Officer Pleads Guilty to Joy Riding

Frank G. Henderson, one of seven Long Beach policemen accused of participating in night automobile rides with two minor girls of the Beach City, yesterday pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor when he appeared in Judge Hahn's court for trial and filed application for probation. Judge Hahn set the 18th inst., as the date on which he will hear Henderson's plea for leniency.

Chauncey H. Liston, another of the defendants, failed to appear in court yesterday when he was scheduled to go on trial and the court issued a bench warrant for his arrest. Liston had been at liberty on his own recognizance and his counsel stated he could not account for his disappearance.

George M. Sheffield, Otto Faulkner, Charles E. Guthrie and George T. Brown, also accused of misdemeanors in connection with the asserted joy rides, have entered pleas of not guilty and are scheduled to go on trial separately this month. Asa Randall Cone, the seventh policeman involved, is said to have left the State.

"TIMES" HELPS CHILD TO FIND HER MOTHER

Wanda Barber, 7 years of age, found her mother yesterday. Accompanied only by Thelma, her doll, she had traveled 1000 miles from Myrtle Creek, Or., to Los Angeles to meet her. When she arrived at the Southern Pacific station her mother was not there—and Wanda did not have her address. The child was cared for by the Travelers' Aid Society, and a story of her plight was published in The Times. A friend read it, notified the mother, and now mother and daughter are united. The mother explained she had not known her daughter was coming to visit her.

HARD-CIDER DAY IN UNIVERSITY COURT

Hard-cider day was celebrated yesterday in University Police Court with the arraignment of seven prisoners before Police Judge Sheldon by Officers Reavis and Parry of the vice squad. John Carnalino of 119 West Second street, who pleaded guilty and was described as a third offender, was sentenced to twenty days in jail. Three others also pleaded guilty and were fined $225 each, while three pleaded not guilty and will be tried tomorrow.

Confidence is Voted Public Works Board

Expressing its confidence in the Board of Public Works, the City Council yesterday, upon motion of Councilman Mallard adopted a resolution commending the commissioners upon the speed with which they are constructing the temporary sewer from Arlington street through Culver City to Ballona Creek and thence to the ocean at Hyperion. The city has already spent $400,000 on the temporary sewer, which was built by order of the Superior Court in order to abate the nuisance caused by the turning of raw sewage from Los Angeles into Ballona Creek. Last week the Council appropriated $250,000 to extend the sewer from the creek to the ocean.

The vote of confidence in the Board of Public Works was occasioned by the fining of the three commissioners, Charles H. Treat, E. J. Delorey and H. J. McGuire, and City Engineer Griffin $250 each for contempt of court in failing, the court said, to abate the nuisance caused by the turning of sewage into Ballona Creek, resulting in the accumulation of refuse in the Playa del Rey lagoon and in Venice canals.

City Attorney Stephens is examining the court's decision and the law bearing on the case to ascertain whether the city government can pay the commissioners' fines.

ACCOUNTANCY TESTS

Spring Examinations Assured in Announcement

The announcement was made last night at the opening class of the C. P. A. drill class of the Y. M. C. A. School of Accountancy by Harry W. Moore, dean of the school and instructor of the drill class, that definite confirmation had been received from the California State Board of Accountancy that the spring examinations will be given in Los Angeles for certified public accountants.

There has been a question as to whether these examinations would be given owing to the shortage of the budget allowance to the State Board of Accountancy. The State Board of Accountancy has been assured, according to advice from Mr. William Dolge, secretary of the board, that the members of San Francisco and Los Angeles chapters of certified public accountants will sponsor the examinations if funds are not forthcoming from the Board of Control.

CONVICTION FOUND IN CATTLE FRAUD CASE

Walter Hornbuckle, alias Harry Stone, alleged bunko man, was found guilty by a jury in Judge Conklin's court yesterday of defrauding Mrs. Mary S. Scott, 68 years of age, out of $745 in connection with a purported cattle deal. Hornbuckle was said to have represented himself to Mrs. Scott as a cattleman, informing her he had twenty-two carloads of stock in Los Angeles stockyards and that he needed money to obtain a release for their shipment and to buy feed for them. Mrs. Scott, who is a widow, is said to have turned over the sum to Hornbuckle after he made love to her and promised her he would repay her after realizing on the sale of the cattle.

BUY-A-PENCIL DRIVE TODAY

Corps of 500 Women Will Solicit Funds in City for St. Elizabeth's Day Nursery

Don't forget to buy a pencil today. A corps of nearly five hundred women and girls will sell pencils today and tomorrow in behalf of the St. Elizabeth Day Nursery.

The pencils are priced at 10 cents each and every dime means the bringing of happiness into some little child's life. Each 10 cents means that some mother can leave her baby in the care of the nursery while she goes out to earn a livelihood.

The St. Elizabeth Day Nursery, 135 North Anderson street, is nonsectarian, caring for no less than seven different nationalities, American, Mexican, Jewish, Assyrian, Swedish, French and Italian and "mothering" from seventy-five to 100 little ones each day.

CITY COVERED

While receiving a nominal fee of 10 cents a day from mothers who can afford to pay this sum, the nursery is far from self-supporting.

The pencil sale today and tomorrow will be city-wide. Stations will be established in thirty-five banks under the direction of Mrs. Maurice S. Heilman; in the hotels, stores and Pacific Electric station under the direction of Mrs. H. W. Frank; in public buildings and practically every community center in the outlying districts, where special squads of girls will conduct a canvas. The downtown streets are also to be covered by volunteers, each with official badge, bag of pencils and an official can to receive the money garnered through the sale of the pencils.

At the noon hour or shortly after, a truckload of kiddies from the St. Elizabeth Day Nursery, in charge of Mrs. Nellie Peyton, the matron, and assistants, will motor through the business section of the city to sell a few pencils on their own account. With them will be a trio of little stars, Cammilla, Kenneth and Dick Winslow and Seesel Ann, the children of Mrs. Wynonah Breazeale Johnson.

STARS TO HELP

Jackie Coogan has volunteered his personal services to aid the babes of the St. Elizabeth Day Nursery, while a large group of the older cinema stars will sell pencils at the Elite and at Seventh street and Grand avenue both today and Thursday, being at the former location at 1 p.m. and at the latter at 2 p.m. Among these celebrities are included Marjorie Daw, Helen Ferguson, Norma Shearer, Anna Q. Nilsson, Margaret Landis, Myrtle Stedman, Patsy Ruth Miller, Theda Bara, Bessie Love, Virginia Valle and Edna Murphy.

Officers of the St. Elizabeth Day Nursery are Miss Marie Rose Mullen, president; Mrs. Louis C. Scheller, first vice-president; Mrs. Granville MacGowan, second vice-president; Mrs. Dan Murphy, third vice-president; Mrs. Maurice Heilman, treasurer, and Mrs. C. Gardner Bullis, secretary.

Blumenthal Says Property Prices on Boulevards in Hollywood Will Double by 1928

Property values in Hollywood, which have increased six times over in three years, have not reached the limit and it seems safe to predict that values on the three main boulevards will double again within five years, A. C. Blumenthal, Los Angeles realtor, told members of the Hollywood Business Men's Club at a dinner meeting at the Hollywood Woman's Club last night.

When he came here three years ago Mr. Blumenthal said property on Hollywood Boulevard was selling for an average of $500 a front foot. Today he said the average price is $3000. And the capital continues to pour in from all parts of the world for investment here, he said.

EASTERN CASH INVESTED

Mr. Blumenthal said he and his associates had put $10,000,000 of New York capital into Los Angeles and Hollywood real estate during his three years here and said they plan to spend at least $5,000,000 more in Hollywood during the next three years. There apparently is no limit to the number of people desiring to make their homes here, he said. He cited figures to show that the Santa Fe alone is bringing more people to Los Angeles each week than all roads combined are bringing to other parts of California.

Speaking on "Motion Pictures and the Future of Hollywood," C. H. Christie, head of Christie studios, incidentally referred to the recent action of the Los Angeles Police Commission in closing the Motion-Picture Directors' ball at midnight.

"It is not altogether a question of law, but as to how the law has been enforced recently in similar affairs held at the same hotel, the Biltmore," said Mr. Christie. "The motion-picture directors are one of the most substantial groups of the industry. They feel, with justice, it seems to me, that the action of the commission was an affront to the motion-picture industry, which has been of material assistance in the upbuilding of Los Angeles."

INDUSTRY NOT WANING

Mr. Christie scoffed at rumors that the motion-picture industry in Los Angeles is waning. He said that millions attended motion-picture theaters in the United States every day in the year and that the demand was increasing rather than diminishing. The past summer, he said, was the most active in motion-picture circles since 1920, the peak year.

More than 84 per cent of motion pictures are made in Los Angeles and Hollywood, Mr. Christie said, and he predicted that this percentage is more likely to increase than lessen.

W. A. Matern Rich Oil Land Owner, is Dead

William A. Matern, 56 years of age, died at his Sunland residence on Monday after a protracted illness. He is survived by his widow, Gertrude Matern, Mrs. Ida Besser, mother-in-law, and Curt Besser, brother-in-law.

Mr. Matern was a pioneer resident of Santa Fe Springs district, having established an orange orchard and ranch estate there eleven years ago in what has since become the wonder oil field of California. Mr. Matern's acreage is situated in the heart of the district and comprises seventy-five acres. His magnificent home on Telegraph Road, just west of Norwalk Road, is a well-known landmark in this section.

Mr. Matern was widely known as a sportsman and dog fancier, and introduced the celebrated Police Dog breed on the Pacific Coast. The Maternhof kennels had a national and international reputation, and dogs bred in these kennels were usually the prize winners at shows in the West. Mr. Matern was president of the Shepherd Dog Club of the West.

Prior to the establishment of Mr. Matern's orange grove estate, he was for several years manager of the Jonathan Club of Los Angeles.

Funeral services will be conducted from the family residence at 1 p.m. on Thursday.

Indict Former Patrolman in Robbery Case

Indictments charging ten first degree robberies were returned by the county grand jury yesterday against Leon Kent, former Los Angeles patrolman, arrested on the night of November 28 last, after several oil filling stations had been held up and robbed.

The indictments charge Kent with seven robberies on the night of November 28, and with three on November 16. Stations of the Standard, Shell and Union Oil Companies were robbed.

Kent has been in jail since his arrest, and bail yesterday was set at $10,000 by Judge Avery. The former patrolman, a negro, also is awaiting trial on a charge of extortion.

BOARD AT BILTMORE TODAY

Members of the Commercial Board of Los Angeles will meet for their weekly luncheon at noon today at the Biltmore. L. E. Behymer will speak on the "Needs of a Civic Auditorium," and Ben F. Pearson, manager of operations of the Southern California Edison Company, will deliver an address on "Citizenship Through Music." The Southern California Edison Company Orchestra will furnish the music.

Scholarships for 'U' Women is Aim of Tea

Several hundred women students of the University of Southern California have been helped in completing their education through the scholarship fund maintained for that purpose by the Women's Club of the university and to replenish the fund to assist several additional women students during the current school year Mrs. R. B. Von KleinSmid, president of the club and wife of the president of the university, will open her home, 601 West Twenty-eighth street, Friday afternoon for a scholarship tea.

Elaborate arrangements are being made for the program which will be given by Miss Clara Alexander, well-known impersonator in negro dialect stories. Miss Alexander will also sing negro spirituals and will be assisted by Sol Cohn who has composed a musical setting for some of the poems composed by Miss Alexander. Mr. Cohn will also give several violin solos.

Mrs. Von KleinSmid will be assisted by Mrs. E. S. Bogardus, chairman of the scholarship fund, and Mmes. Kenneth McLeod Bissell, G. W. Stith, William A. Moses, Leafie, Sloan Orcutt, George O. Robinson, Albert J. Wallace, Warren Bradley Bovard, George W. Haight, S. W. Crabill and R. H. Martin.

Car Company Prepares for Holiday Rush

Anticipating the heaviest holiday traffic in history the Los Angeles Railway Company will have approximately 2900 trainmen and more than 1000 cars available during the rush hours. Schedules are being prepared to increase service on all lines, it is announced.

It is expected a daily average of 1,350,000 passengers will be maintained this year compared with the 1,000,000 daily mark last Christmas.

The special schedules for the holiday season will be permanently installed after the first of the year, company officials said. This will be possible by the addition of fifty new cars recently purchased. Equipment for the new cars is being installed at the railway shops, Fifty-fourth street and South Park avenue. In addition, forty cars are being rebuilt with more seats and larger loading platforms; fifty-five cars are being built in the local shops and twenty-five new cars being built in St. Louis will arrive after the first of the year.

PLAN PRIZE DANCING

CARLTON'S WIFE GETS OWN TRIAL

Separate Murder Hearing Granted Following Entry of Insanity Plea

Request for a separate trial for Jeanne Carlton, bride of Edward H. Carlton, Navy deserter, both indicted for the murder of Special Officer Robert E. McGee during a burglary in the Wilshire district the night of November 21 last, was granted yesterday by Superior Judge Avery after hearing arguments of counsel for Mrs. Carlton that indicated her defense would probably be based on insanity.

At the same time the court continued the date of beginning of the trial of Carlton from the 10th to the 11th inst., on the plea of Public Defender Aggeler that additional time would be necessary for the defense to bring witnesses from outside the State.

Mrs. Carlton's trial was set for January 28 by stipulation of her attorney and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hill, who told the court that inasmuch as he had five murder cases to work on in the interim he would not be able to prepare the prosecution of the case before that date. It was brought out by counsel for Mrs. Carlton that they intended to take several depositions and affidavits of alienists and other witnesses outside the State and they agreed to the date fixed by the court.

Mrs. Carlton was captured the night of the shooting of McGee when she leaped from a balcony in the home of J. C. Belding, 915 Irolo street, the scene of the murder, into the arms of a policeman. In a confession to the police she accused her husband of firing the shots that killed McGee and wounded Officer Luke of the Wilshire division. According to Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fricke, this confession cannot be used in the prosecution of the charge against Carlton on the ground that the defendants are husband and wife. It was on this same ground that Public Defender Aggeler last week asked for a severance of the trial of the pair.

Carlton was arrested in Los Angeles Harbor the night after the shooting, where he had boarded a steamer that was scheduled to sail for San Francisco.

Faces Murder Trial in Killing of Patrolman

Francisco Cacada, 45 years of age, must stand trial for the murder of Oscar Longfellow, youthful motorcycle policeman of San Fernando, who was shot down before more than 100 spectators in that city Thanksgiving Day while he was escorting Cacada to jail on a charge of disturbing the peace.

An indictment charging Cacada with the murder of the policeman was returned yesterday by the county grand jury after that body had heard testimony of J. W. Thompson, chief of police of the valley city; Deputy Sheriff Charles Catlin, who investigated the case, and Mrs. G. Strathern, said to be an eyewitness to the shooting.

According to the witnesses the accused man shot Longfellow in an attempt to gain his freedom. Longfellow had arrested Cacada a few minutes previously at his home in the 1300 block on Celis avenue, where he had gone to investigate a reported riot. He was taking the prisoner to jail in the sidecar of his motorcycle when the latter made a break for freedom, pulled an automatic pistol from beneath his vest and fired three times at the officer. Longfellow dropped to the pavement, fatally wounded, while irate citizens and other officers who had been attracted by the shooting took Cacada into custody.

Longfellow was removed to the San Fernando Hospital, where he died last Sunday. The San Fernando authorities, fearing violence on the part of the incensed residents of the city, had Cacada taken to the Los Angeles County Jail, where he is now being held without bond.

TILE WORKS VISITED

The advanced chemistry pupils of Los Angeles High School took a trip to the Tropico Tile Works yesterday afternoon, where they studied pottery, pipe and tile. The class was under the direction of W. M. Mills.

THERE was little testimony and less time consumed yesterday in the trial of Madeline Stone's suit for divorce from her husband, William C. Stone, but but what little there was sufficed. Mrs. Stone won her freedom after a few minutes of legal sparring in Judge Summerfield's department of the Superior Court.

She told her tale of marital woes in a few short sentences. Her husband wouldn't work, she told Judge Summerfield. As a result there was no money, and her mother had to support them, she stated further. Then on December 26, 1921, her husband picked up and left and that was the last she saw of him.

And after she left the courtroom Mrs. Stone turned to a newspaper reporter who had stopped her to ask some questions regarding her marriage and remarked:

"You are not talking to me. Those days are gone forever."

Hooks Ride on Ocean Vessel to See Mother

Deciding that he wanted to visit his mother and baby sister in Los Angeles, 10-year-old Ernest Kanss, son of a San Francisco real estate man, hooked a ride on the Admiral Line Steamship Dorothy Alexander and arrived here last night with a grin on his face and 50 cents more in his pocket than he started with.

The fact that he landed in the arms of Patrolman Cantrell of the Wilmington Station seemed not to bother him. Why should he worry? Hadn't he talked the captain of a great steamer out of a free ride and three square meals a day? He had.

Technically a stowaway, the youngster walked aboard the boat at San Francisco and proceeded to flit from deck to deck until the ship was five hours out from port. A colored porter finally spotted him. He was presented to the captain. The mariner decided to bring him on to Los Angeles rather than turn back.

The youngster's only worry was to find his mother and sister. The police undertook this for him. His mother's name, according to Ernest, who was brought to Central Police Station from Wilmington, is Mrs. Carmen Genss and the baby sister is called Marcel. He didn't know their address. His father is Harold F. Genss, 2567 Sacramento street, San Francisco. Policewoman White has charge of the youngster until his mother is located.

Says Friend Has Her Money; She is in Poorhouse

Mrs. C. Scattergood, 80 years of age, went to the County Farm to live while $1150 belonging to her was withheld by Monroe C. Wheeler, her supposed friend, it was declared yesterday by Dep. Dist. Atty. Orme; who issued a complaint against Wheeler charging embezzlement.

The money came to Mrs. Scattergood, Mr. Orme said, in settlement of an accident claim against the Los Angeles Railway Company. She was in the General Hospital when the voucher was delivered by Claim Agent Miller of the railway company, it was said, in the presence of Wheeler, and she indorsed the voucher and asked Wheeler to bank it for her. It is declared the claim agent accompanied Wheeler to the bank, but found it closed, and that Wheeler then said he would make the deposit the following day. Instead of depositing the money, it is asserted, he kept it, and later offered to give Mrs. Scattergood $50 if she would drop proceedings.

The complaint against Wheeler was sworn to by C. DeOro, on behalf of Mrs. Scattergood. Mrs. Scattergood had been injured by a Brooklyn avenue car and settlement of her claim was made July 9, it was said.

CHAMPION PERJURY HEARING ADJOURNED

Pleas of Frank Champion, Ardella Champion, his wife, and Vera Hughes to charges of perjury in the trial of A. F. Champion for murder, were adjourned yesterday by Judge Hardy to Friday. The three prisoners, father, mother and cousin of A. F. Champion, swore to an alibi for him. A. F. Champion was convicted and is under sentence to hang. His wife, in Cleveland, is awaiting trial on a murder charge.

HUSBAND DISLIKED CHILDREN

Wife's Complaint Says He Forced Her to Put Baby in Infant Home

The husband's dislike for their children was one of the reasons they failed to get along together, Sadie Varner Mihich asserted in a suit for divorce against Duson Mihich, a grocer, filed yesterday. When their first child was born in 1920 Mihich told her he didn't want the baby and that it didn't belong to him, according to Mrs. Mihich, who declared he refused to support the child and ordered her to go to work while she was ill. She said he forced her to place the infant in a home when it was three months old and that she has not seen it since.

When their second child was born he refused to procure a nurse for her and she was compelled to call in a nurse to take care of her and the baby, Mrs. Mihich stated.

She also accused her mate of running a still in their home and, according to the complaint, she left him when he ordered her to "get out" after her refusal to operate the still.

October 15, last, Mihich took her to dinner, left her in the restaurant and fled with the second child in his automobile, the plaintiff said, adding that she had not seen the baby since.

Collector for Gas Company is Robbery Victim

Three negroes robbed John Lanigan, a collector for the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, of $150 in a daylight hold-up yesterday in the 700 block on West Fifty-seventh street. Lanigan was driving along slowly in his car, he reported to the police of University Station, when a battered car containing three negroes drew alongside him.

One of them leaped into his car, took a seat beside him, and immediately produced a pistol, which he jammed into Lanigan's ribs. He directed Lanigan to drive on and to turn into an alley. In the alley, Lanigan said, the negro robbed him of his wallet and, warning him to keep driving straight ahead, jumped out of the car and rejoined his companions.

Lanigan described the negro as six feet tall, slender, with a mustache and wearing a dirty cap and dirty clothing, though he had a large gold watch chain hooked across his waistcoat.

JEWISH CONGREGATION IS GIVEN BACK WINE

United States District Judge James yesterday ordered the release of about sixty gallons of wine seized by prohabition agents, when it was shown that the wine was property of the Jewish congregation Adath Israel. H. Genss, who, up to September, last, was rabbi of the congregation, on August 2, last, pleaded guilty to violation of the Volstead Act and was fined $1000. George Genss, involved in the same case, paid a fine of $250. Rabbi Louis Botwin, now in charge of the congregation, testified that the wine belonged to his congregation and exhibited bills to that effect. In the list of wines were twenty-nine cases of champagne.

KENTUCKIANS TO MEET

Former Kentuckians are invited to be present at the opening winter meeting of the Kentucky State Society Saturday evening at 237½ South Hill street. A program has been arranged by F. A. Robertson, president of the society.

Minister Says Veronica Is Good

When a minister of the Gospel goes out of his way to make a statement like the following, it is worthy of the most serious consideration: "As a minister of the Gospel, I have always had a feeling that men of my calling should not allow their names to be associated with advertising, but when a thing is good and one knows that it is from experience, he should say so for the benefit of humanity. I have been using Veronica Water for twelve years, and I do not hesitate to say that in my opinion it is the best water in the world for removing the poisonous toxins that cause rheumatism, renal calculi, and other troubles that arise from lack of proper elimination." W. A. Hobson, for 23 years Pastor First Baptist Church, Jacksonville, Florida.

Veronica is a natural mineral water bottled as it comes from the springs. Thousands have found that Veronica affords almost miraculous relief from chronic constipation, indigestion, rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and other stomach disorders. A big, generous 1-3 gallon bottle at your druggist's, seventy-five cents.
